British Decide To Seize German Funds In England

GIVEN UNTIL JULY FIRST TO ABROGATE

Seek to Compensate Creditors for Moratorium Declared by Germany

PLAN CLEARING HOUSE

France at Same Time Files Protest to Germany Against Halting Payments

LONDON, June 15.—(UP)—Great Britain decided today to seize German funds in England to compensate British creditors for the moratorium declared by Germany on all her foreign debts.

Business men will receive compensation for commercial debts as well as holders of German bonds, including the "guaranteed" Dawes and Young plan loans.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced the plan in the house of commons, adding that if Germany voluntarily made good before July 1—in other words, abrogating the moratorium as far as Britain is concerned—it would not be put into effect.

The seizure would be accomplished by establishing a clearing house which could sequester German funds in London obtained through export balances, etc.

Reacts on U. S.

Britain's move, it was believed, would react unfavorably on the United States by making it more difficult for American creditors to get any payment. Lack of German funds in New York makes a move similar to the British futile.

Some financial men believed the British arrangement would provide that traders buying goods from Germany should pay the sum due into the clearing house instead of remitting it to Germany. Those selling goods to Germany would be reimbursed from the clearing house fund. The balance of receipts over payment would be used to meet the claims of investors in German bonds.

British investors hold about $217,150,000 in Dawes and Young bonds, on which $10,847,500 in interest is due July 1.

Warns of Danger

Chamberlain warned of the danger of buying any more German bonds, which was taken to mean that the clearing house plan would

NAVY PLANES HUNT FOR MISSING MEN

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—Three naval seaplanes commanded by Lieut. Joseph L. Kane took off from the Coco Solo, C. Z., base today in search for 17 survivors of the Norwegian nitrate ship Knut Hamsun, which burned Sunday off the Honduras coast, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, announced.

Standley said the planes would search an area of 45,000 square miles off the Nicaraguan and Honduran coasts.

Their base was to be Quito Sueno Banks, off Honduras.

The Banks are 357 miles from the Canal Zone.

The missing men are believed to be in a lifeboat, although there was hope they might have been washed ashore on the Nicaraguan coast.

DECLARES DEAD MAN NOT HER HUSBAND

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—An amazing denial that the man she is accused of killing was her husband left prosecutors bewildered today at the trial of Mrs. Nellie Madison, charged with the murder of Eric D. Madison, film studio worker.

Spectators gasped their surprise when the widow testified calmly that she did not know the identity of the man who was found shot to death in her apartment last March and whom the state had identified in the indictment as her husband. The witness expressed the assurance her husband was still alive.

Four other defense witnesses led up to the strange denouement by testifying that pictures of the slain man did not resemble Madison.

GEORGE CREEL GIVEN BACKING OF SEN. M'ADOO

Senator Also Urges Election of Johnson by California Voters

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—Sen. William G. McAdoo "drafted" Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, Republican progressive, for service in the Democratic party today by advocating his nomination by party followers.

The junior California Senator and Democratic National committeeman also called for the nomination of George Creel, Democratic candidate for Governor.

"I have taken this stand," McAdoo said in a public statement, "because, in my judgment, the election of both of these men is vital to the welfare of California.

"The courage of Senator Johnson, his ability, his patriotism and his flaming Americanism have made him an outstanding national figure. The administration has had no abler, finer champion, and his nomination by the Democratic party in California is not only a fitting acknowledgment of powerful aid, but

OIL INDUSTRY PROBE FAVORED IN COMMITTEE

Cole Resolution Providing for Investigation Passed Unanimously

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—The house rules committee today gave legislative right-of-way to the Cole resolution providing for investigation of the petroleum industry.

The committee vote was unanimous to give the resolution immediate consideration. There was a possibility the resolution would be brought up today.

The resolution, introduced by Rep. William P. Cole, jr., D., Md., is a substitute for the Disney Oil production control bill, rejected by the house interstate commerce committee yesterday.

The resolution would empower the interstate commerce committee or a subcommittee to make a detained investigation into practices in the oil industry including those concerning the shipment of oil produced in excess of state quotas.

Rep. Sam Rayburn, D., Texas, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, appeared before the rules group and said there was no chance of enacting oil production control legislation at this session.

"An oil bill would not pass the senate," Rayburn said, "and would not even be considered by that chamber."

Rep. Joseph W. Martin jr., R., Mass., asked why a bill could not be passed through the senate.

"I am informed reliably that 12 or 15 members of the senate would not let it pass," Rayburn replied.

Rayburn said that Rep. Wesley Disney, D., Okla., who introduced the oil control bill and others sponsoring that legislation would "rather have this resolution than nothing."

The resolution carries with it an appropriation of $25,000 to conduct the investigation.

Cole told the rules committee that the government probably would save considerable money if the resolution were adopted because a huge sum has been set aside to enforce the oil industry code and if producers realize that a congressional committee is making an inquiry into their activities the cost of enforcement will be reduced considerably.

47 STATES APPROVE NEW DEAL POLICIES

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—The nationwide poll of policies of the Roosevelt administration by the Literary Digest, shows approval for the policies in 47 states.

The vote to date places Vermont alone in the disapproval column. The president receives 534,804 votes or 61.09 per cent of the 875,373 votes cast. This is announced as a 3.77 per cent increase in his popularity compared to the 1932 election ratio.

A poll of 21,320 bankers in 47 states, however, reveals 11,275, or 52.88, against the president's policies, the magazine said.

QUINTUPLETS AND MOTHER IMPROVED

NORTH BAY, Ont., June 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the quintuplets born almost three weeks ago, gained strength today after a relapse suffered several days ago.

The babies also gained. Their weights today were as follows:

Cecile—Two pounds, four ounces, gain three-quarters ounce.

Annette—Two pounds, eight ounces, gain one ounce.

Emilie—Two pounds, one ounce gain of one and one-half ounces.

Marie—One pound, fifteen and one-quarter ounces, gain one ounce.

LOGAN JACKSON CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF AGAIN

Announces He Will Run on Platform of Accomplishments in Office

THERE IS no reason to believe that Orange county will be less critical this year than it was four years ago in selection of its sheriff; right and wrong are quite as important considerations now as they were then, and the need of a sure enforcement of law and order is even more pronounced, declared Sheriff Logan Jackson today, in making formal announcement of his candidacy for re-election.

"My candidacy will go before the public this year on a platform of results," said Jackson's announcement. "Results count. Not promises, not failures, but actual accomplishment."

"In the matter of law enforcement it is especially important now, with a steadily growing threat from the more serious forms of crime and disorder, that the county should know the character of its protection.

"It is right that the county should demand a close acquaintance with its sheriff, such as that provided by the long and continuous residence of the present sheriff in the county, a period of 31 years.

"It is proper that the public should examine his record; learn the principles and policies that guide his administration, and base its judgment upon what it finds. The law and order question in Orange county at the present time is not one wisely left to chance or promise. What a sher-

GREEN PLEADS WITH MEN TO CANCEL STRIKE

Labor President Appears Before Steel Workers During Convention

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—An effort to drive through some form of labor legislation, aimed primarily at the threatened steel strike, was begun today after President Roosevelt stepped into the picture.

Returning to the senate from a White House conference with Mr. Roosevelt and his labor advisors, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson began a series of conferences for speedy enactment of legislation.

PITTSBURGH, June 15.—(UP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today pleaded with embittered steel workers to cancel their plans for a general strike, and offered them a solution, through the federal government, of the difficulties which have brought the industry to a crisis.

Three conditions outlined by Green, which he said, if accepted by the mills owners, would lead to the strike being called off, were:

1—A board of three, appointed by the president to receive complaints of violations of section 7-A, to mediate any differences, and to act if ne[illegible]y.

Mediation Board

The board would mediate and conciliate in code disputes, and would arrange for collective bargaining by employes, if they requested it.

The board also would act as arbiter under the steel code, providing all questions to be arbitrated were submitted voluntarily by both parties, and it would hear and determine the merit of any complaints of violation of section 7-A.

2. The employes shall have the right to bargain collectively, and the board would have the authority to order and supervise elections, off company property. Representatives chosen by a majority of the workers would act for the whole.

Meet Workers

3. The management of each plant shall meet with workers or their elected representatives to settle all disputes. As a last resort, the impartial board would have the final decision in the dispute.

Green based his argument against a strike at the present time on the grounds that the workers "cannot afford to let the steel operators choose the battle field or the hour on which the battle is to be fought.

"I firmly believe," he declared, "that if they will not yield to the law, they will yield to the more powerful force of public opinion. We cannot afford to play into the hands of these autocratic barons. We must use strategy.

"In my judgment, it is my fixed opinion, based on my own interest in the workers and my own experience, that the time will come when your wrongs will be righted. But I do not believe the time is here at this moment."

Planning To Reside Near Lake Tahoe

Daughter of President is Reported to Have Left Capital Thursday

RENO, Nev., June 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, only daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, is understood to be on the way here to establish residence.

Mrs. Dall left Washington yesterday, it was learned authoritatively and she will occupy a cottage on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe.

It was assumed Mrs. Dall, who for nearly a year has been a resident of the White House, will apply for a divorce from Curtis Dall, New York and Chicago broker.

They were married June 5, 1926 but for the last 12 months have maintained separate homes.

The Dalls have two children Anna Eleanor, 7, and Curtis, jr., 4. They are known popularly as Sistie and Buzzie. Both children resided with their mother at the White House and attended school in Washington.

It was recalled in connection with the forthcoming visit of Mrs. Dall that her brother, Elliott, second son of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt was in Nevada for the same purpose about a year ago. He obtained a divorce from his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner of Philadelphia, and since has married again. His second wife is the former Ruth Googins, Fort Worth, Tex.

FIRST LADY SILENT ON DIVORCE RUMOR

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who is establishing residence in Nevada, has been living at the White House since Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration.

Her mother refused to comment today on her departure except to say that she and the children had gone. She said she did not know what point in Nevada was their destination.

ITALIAN COUNTESS SOUGHT BY POLICE

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—Disregarding a note indicating she planned suicide, police instituted a search today for Frances Taucher, said to be an Italian countess and heiress to a vast estate, who is facing trial on bogus check charges.

A bench warrant for her arrest was issued when she failed to appear for trial and a note from her was exhibited, stating, "I am going to end it all in the Pacific ocean." Her $2500 bond was ordered forfeited and new bail of $10,000 was fixed.

The countess was returned here from Chicago on charges that she cashed a fictitious check on a Hollywood bank. She said she was the heiress to a vast Italian fortune.

MERRIAM PLANNING SPECIAL SESSION

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Gov. Frank A. Merriam's proposal for a long range state unemployment relief program was taken today to indicate that he plans a special legislative session to consider relief plans.

Before deciding upon a session, however, he will determine the attitude of as many legislators as possible, in order to assure himself in advance of a successful legislative meeting.

Merriam discussed relief at a banquet given in his honor last night by the chamber of commerce. It was the first time since he became chief executive that he particularly emphasized unemployment as the most serious problem in the state.

GEN. GLASSFORD APOLOGIZES TO JUDGE AT MEET

Peace Officer Accused of Offering to Finance "Arson Plot"

EL CENTRO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Bitter recriminations that Gen. Pelham D. Glassford offered to finance an arson plot which could be blamed on Communists came as a retort today to the federal labor conciliator's charges that a clique of Imperial Valley growers is aggravating a "red scare" to promote a reign of terrorism.

County Agricultural Commissioner B. A. Harrigan, earlier named by Glassford as the informant who warned him of a possible death plot, said the conciliator confided a willingness to pay $25 to have the union hall at Brawley burned so the Communists could be blamed and sent to prison on arson charges. The plan rested on a desire to "create a situation," Harrigan charged.

Glassford admitted such a remark but said it was made "in jest".

"It was merely a suggestion indicative of meeting these alleged agitators in their own way," the former Washington police chief said.

His latest blast against growers was unloosed at a turbulent meeting of the Imperial county board of supervisors last night. The meeting was thrown into an uproar when Superior Judge Vaughn N. Thompson confronted the federal official.

"Did you call me a crook?" the jurist demanded, his face white with rage.

"I said that in my opinion you were a crook," Glassford replied. "I have been in public service

"KISS SLAYER" IS SENTENCED TO LIFE

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—Charles E. Johnston, 23-year-old chauffeur, smiled his relief today at escaping the death penalty for the "kiss slaying" of his former sweetheart, Dorothy Smith, 18.

A superior court jury recommended life imprisonment in its verdict, returned after seven hours of deliberation. Sentence will be imposed Monday.

Johnson's only defense to the charge was that he shot the girl on "sudden impulse" after calling at her home and asking her to kiss him. The girl had broken their engagement after a previous quarrel and refused. The state contended the shooting was "cold-blooded."

DISARMING ACCORD IS ANNOUNCED

German Rights to Parity on Arms Within League is Basis of Settlement

DEMONSTRATION HELD

Fascist Strength Paraded Before Chancellor in Impressive Ceremonies

BULLETIN

VENICE, June 15.—(UP)—Italy and Germany have agreed on disarmament and German rights to parity on arms within the League of Nations, Fulvio Suvich, Italian foreign undersecretary, announced today.

VENICE, June 15.—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today staged for Adolf Hitler, Nazi chancellor, a demonstration of Fascist strength and discipline which indicated vividly that if Fascism ever falls it will be by force of arms.

Mussolini, trying to win Germany back to Europe's diplomatic councils, in a conference strangely mingled with spectacles ranging from the picturesque to the theatrical, treated Hitler to a vision of militant Fascism which he could compare with his Nazi brown shirt organization.

Militia Parades

For the purposes of the demonstration he selected 3000 picked members of the Fascist militia, the "advance guard" of young Fascists and the Balilla, the boys who will work themselves up to the proud rating of militiaman.

They were ranged in historic St. Mark's square. They were equipped with rifles, machine guns and chemical weapons—perhaps a delicate reminder to Hitler that he may not legally arm his brown shirts under the Versailles treaty.

Hitler and Baron Konstantin von Neurath, his former minister, were escorted to a special pavilion, gay with Italian and Fascist flags and pennants. Hitler, pale, with disordered hair, was in a blue serge business suit.

New Salute

Mussolini and Hitler stood together, and Mussolini gave the order for the march past. Hitler was treated to a new sort of salute for him—that of the Fascist orderlies, who raised their daggers as if about to strike an enemy.

Then came the light legions at a faster pace, with rifles slung on their backs; then the mobile machine gun units; then the chemicals; then the advance guard with their red and gold scarfs hung on their shoulders, and the balilla.

A contingent of Fascist university students attracted Hitler, with their varicolored hats and their military formation.

There were three bands to blare out the spirited marches of Italy.

After the review the Fascist chief took the Nazi chief to the adjoining royal palace through lanes of cheering people who looked as if they had been stationed there.

PREDICTS END OF 35 YEAR DROUGHT

PASADENA, Calif., June 15.—(UP)—A thirty-five to fifty-year drought cycle will be ended next year with increased rainfall throughout the United States, according to a new long range weather forecasting system expounded at a meeting here of the nation's leading meteorologists.

"The next year should mark the end of a cycle of drought," Dr. A. F. Gorton, consulting meteorologist of San Diego, said. "It is to be expected that the rainfall from 1937 to 1940 will approach the heavy rainfall following 1880."

Figures purporting to indicate the end of the period of diminished rainfall were cited by Dr. Willis R. Gregg, chief of the United States Weather Bureau and conference chairman.

SENATE RATIFIES TREATY

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—The United States senate today ratified the anti-war treaty of non-aggression and conciliation signed at Rio De Janeiro on October 10, 1933.

The treaty, named for its sponsor, Saavedra-Lamas, foreign minister of Argentina, provides for settlement of boundary disputes by arbitration.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA INJURED IN EXPLOSION OF BOMB, ONE GUARD KILLED, 15 ARE HURT

HAVANA, June 15.—(UP)—President Carlos Mendieta was wounded today by explosion of a hand bomb during a luncheon at the Casablanca.

(The Casablanca district is across the harbor from Havana).

The president suffered a wound in his hand.

Mendieta was a guest of officers of the northern naval district at the luncheon across the harbor. While he was on his feet making a speech, the bomb exploded on the staircase three feet behind him.

In addition to wounding Mendieta, the bomb killed a sailor guard, Manual Matis Tapia, who was standing behind Mendieta, and injured three others.

Doctors said one of the wounded, Lieut. Manuel Poloman, probably would die.

An unconfirmed report said a total of 15 had been injured, with two dead.

An unconfirmed report a total of 15 had been injured, with two dead.

The secretary of communications, Gabriel Landa, was wounded in the shoulder.

Most of the members of Mendieta's cabinet were at the luncheon. Civilian guests were arrested immediately pending an investigation.

Mendieta returned to the presidential palace meanwhile.

The primaries are in August.

McAdoo praised Creel for his "progressivism."

"Social justice and equal rights have ever been his greatest concern," the junior senator said. "In various important public positions he has proved that his executive and administrative ability is of a high order.

"The success of the administration's far-flung plans demands intelligent and sympathetic co-operation between each state and the national administration. George Creel's intimate and understanding association with the recovery program from its very inception is a guarantee of such co-operation."

20 years and no man has ever branded nor can brand me a crook," Thompson shouted. "I demand that you apologize here and now."

"I do apologize," Glassford replied after a tense pause.

Later the general explained he spoke against the jurist without due thought and what he meant was that he considered Thompson prejudiced against eight alleged Communists who recently were tried on vagrancy charges.

Glassford faced the supervisors to explain that Harrigan had admonished him that he could be "done away with" by a "tough element" for $50.

Harrigan denied the charge.

The conciliator repeated earlier charges that a clique of growers and shippers has been resorting to violence and intimidation in an effort to rule the valley and control the labor situation.

They may have never said a word about France, but you will never make France believe it. They was supposed to travel and meet on neutral ground. They met on neutral ground, but it was Mussolini's. DAUGHTER OF PRESIDENT TO SEEK DIVORCE

While residing at the White House Mrs. Dall devoted most of her time to writing.

Her husband attended the inauguration and was here for the birthday party of their daughter, "Sistie," the first month of the administration. In May, Mr. and Mrs. Dall went together to a ball at the home of Richard Crane, Jr., at Richmond, Va. Since then he has not been seen at social functions with her.

Mrs. Dall has written many magazine articles, including one about her mother, called "Grand Persons." She wrote a children's book, "Scamper, the White House Rabbit," and got a patent on a rag rabbit.

She rode her horse, "True Love", in a recent horse show here, and won a blue ribbon in the road hack class. She attends few formal functions, except at the White House, but goes to many horse shows and informally visits homes of old friends here.

She spends much time with her children, arranging parties for them, taking them to the circus, looking after their school life, nursing them through child diseases, and telling them stories.

The winter edition of the New York Social Register gave different addresses for Mr. and Mrs. Dall.

BAER ORDERS 25 SUITS

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Max Baer visited a Park avenue tailor today to refurnish his wardrobe. "I mean to buy 25 suits," he said. "I think the heavyweight champion ought to have that many, don't you?"

PROGRAM WILL BE STARTED ON FIRST OF JULY

One thousand residents of Orange county will be given work relief in the new SERA program, it was learned today, as administrative machinery for placing the plan in operation began functioning.

Using the $45,000 or more a month which the federal government, through the state SERA committee, will spend in the work relief program in Orange county, those who are given work must have been on the county relief rolls as of May 15 and be on the rolls at the present time.

This was decided at a meeting of the county SERA committee, which met all yesterday afternoon and which continued its meeting throughout today. Charles Schottland, field agent for the SERA in charge of this county, will act as temporary director of the program until a permanent director is selected.

The committee members set the maximum budget at $50 for exceptionally large families, and plan to strike an average of $35 for heads of families employed on the relief program.

At the meeting today it was stated by Schottland and Chairman J. K. McDonald that Byron V. Curry, county welfare director, will have nothing to do with either the work relief or direct relief program after July 1. Curry will continue the indigent relief for the county. The program will be directed by the local committee, which will formulate all policies for the work and need only observe federal regulations, Schottland said.

Schottland Remains

Schottland will stay here for about two weeks acting as director to launch the program. The setup now calls for a director who will have charge of the entire program, with a case supervisor handling the direct relief. Other department heads will include a work placement bureau manager, an auditing department manager, a manager of the Professional, Technical and Women Workers division which will have charge of educational, cultural and recreational projects, and a manager of the works division.

The first Orange county project submitted came back approved by the state authorities today, according to Dan Mulherron, who will handle the projects. This was one from Fullerton for work on the high school would employ 55 men.

Schottland stressed the necessity for political subdivision to submit projects at once so there will be ample work for the 1000 persons to be given employment. Educational, cultural and recreational projects particularly are needed, he said.

Relief in Cash

The $35 monthly family average will be considerably more than the relief which has been given here, it was learned. Curry said the average monthly budget in the county has been around $15. The $35 will be paid in cash instead of grocery, rent and similar orders.

W. M. Braley, of the state auditing department, was in the welfare office today, interviewing candidates for positions in the administrative setup who will work in the offices in the Hill building. An attempt was being made today to secure the second floor as well as the third floor for the offices. Schottland will do the hiring on recommendation of Braley, it was said. There will be a number of positions as timekeepers, clerks, stenographers, secretaries, interviewers, field investigators, inspectors, accountants, a purchasing agent and others.

Schottland said projects would be approved rapidly by the state authorities, and urged political subdivision to act promptly.

This morning the committee adopted as a general policy an agreement not to hire any persons in the administrative work who has a member of the family working, unless the matter is carefully considered by the SERA committee.

MRS. ROLPH LEAVES GOVERNOR'S HOME

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—The old-fashioned governor's mansion was empty today, ready to receive the household equipment of acting Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

Mrs. Annie Reid Rolph, widow of Gov. James Rolph jr., completed arrangements for sending the late executive's and her belongings to San Francisco.

Merriam said he probably would move into the mansion sometime during the summer.

iff will do can best be judged by what he has done.

Installs Radio

"I came to the sheriff's office three and a half years ago with the purpose of establishing a progressive organization and constructive program to combat crime and disorder. The teletype and radio systems that have since been installed in the sheriff's office are examples of this purpose. It will not be disputed that they represent, unquestionably, the greatest forward steps in law enforcement that Orange county has seen in its entire history. I need make no apology for advocating the expenditure required for these improvements, for they not only mean increased protection, but actually constitute an economy. It is a well recognized truth that prevention of crime, or its discouragement by swift retribution, means a smaller tax bill.

"Another example of the purpose described is found in the personnel. It is no secret in Orange county that the keynote of the campaign for the sheriff's office four years ago was the restoration of integrity to that office. Since then, constant attention has been given to the building of a staff founded on devotion to duty, personal integrity and intelligence, these being necessary complements to ability. The induction of young college men into the sheriff's organization fits into this plan of welding a clean-cut law enforcement unit.

Public Must Judge

"The public, of course, must judge whether results have been obtained. It must judge whether there has been more than mere coincidence in the fact that Orange county is an oasis of peace and quiet among the disturbances that have plagued counties all about us; that attempts to include labor troubles, such as the milk strike, were promptly stamped out before they could gain headway; that no major crimes of this administration's tenure remain unpunished, and that uncaptured murderers of former administrations have been brought to justice under the present administration.

"It is not too much to suggest that these things do not just happen; that they represent definite preparedness and equipment for the task ahead. Nor is it untimely to suggest that the very safety of the county in the months ahead depends upon the vigor and integrity of the county's chief enforcement agency, the sheriff's office.

"Protection of person and property, with full respect for constitutional guarantees, has been and will always be a primary purpose of this administration.

"Like other public officials, I recognize the necessity of economy in government, and while providing adequate protection against crime, which is the first duty of this office, have not lost sight of the pressing burden upon the taxpayer.

"In conclusion, let me refer the question of this administration's success to the last Orange county grand jury, which reported thus:

"We feel that Orange county is fortunate in having a man of the character and ability of Logan Jackson in charge of the (sheriff's) department."

FRANCE PROTESTS

PARIS, June 15.—(UP)—France officially protested to Germany today against halting payment on the Dawes and Young reparations loans and prepared to communicate with the United States and other countries, seeking joint action.

The foreign office will communicate with the state department, with Great Britain, Switzerland and Holland and its views regarding the six months moratorium declared by Germany effective July 1 on all foreign obligations, and will seek a united front of creditors.

It was thought France meantime would not imitate the British action of making arrangements for a clearing house to seize German credits and apply them to the sacred reparations loans.

It was understood, however, that the government was preparing to block private payments of French business men to Germans—which would be practically equivalent to halting commerce.

This would represent the sereverest possible pressure as France is Germany's best customer.

ASK HALF MILLION IN PLAGARISM SUIT

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Goodwin, of Manhattan Beach, Cal., ask $500,000 damages from 29 music publishers, authors, composers, broadcasting companies and moving picture firms, in a suit on file in federal court today, charging plagarism of their 1905 song, "An Arizona Home."

"Home on the Range," current song hit and "President Roosevelt's Favorite Son," they claim, infringes their copyright.

"Home on the Range" they charge, is more or less their own 29-year-old song, with singular nouns changed to plural and vice versa.

TRAIN CRASH IN ANAHEIM KILLS CARL M. MOHR

Carl M. Mohr, 31, Anaheim real estate man and former banker, was instantly killed at 10 a. m. today when his car was struck by a speeding southbound Santa Fe passenger train at the crossing on North street in Anaheim.

The limited train carried the car a distance of 1200 feet from the crossing and Mohr's body was hurled 50 feet from the tracks after the train had traveled 200 feet. It was reported that a broken air coupling, caused by the crash, prevented the train from making a quicker stop. The wreckage of the car was removed from the engine only a short distance from the home of Mohr's mother.

North street is under construction near the crossing and Mohr drove past a barricade to go over the grade crossing, it was learned. He stopped 15 feet from the tracks and then started up just as the train came along, in charge of Conductor C. W. Frazier and Engineer Lou Litterer. The engine was so badly wrecked that a new locomotive had to be send from Los Angeles.

Mohr was formerly assistant cashier of the Anaheim National bank, now defunct. He has been in the real estate business recently and is survived by his widow, Marian, and an infant son. He was a member of the Elks lodge and had lived in Anaheim for nearly 20 years.

The body was removed to the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral home, where arrangements for an inquest have not been made by Coroner Earl Abbey.

The death of Mohr is the third in the county this year from train wrecks and brings the total of traffic fatalities to 27. There were 19 at this time last year.

JOHN S. HARPER, MIDWAY CITY'S FOUNDER, DIES

News of the death of John S. Harper, 59, founder of Midway City, which occurred recently in Texas, has been received here by friends and relatives. Death came suddenly at a hospital in Amarillo, Texas, it is reported.

He was also identified with building of the Midway City clubhouse. Several years ago the remaining property was sold to Walter Hill who now owns it.

Harper leaves a wife in Amarillo, whom he married last Christmas, it is reported; a son, John Harper, jr., of Nevada, Mo.; a brother, Dick, who is congressman from the Nevada, Mo. district, and a brother and sister living in St. Louis.

Local relatives include two nieces, Mrs. Maurice Price of Bolsa and Mrs. David Everett Hall of Santa Ana.

PREDICTS MORE, BETTER SERVICE BY GOVERNMENT

Predicting that the government will continue to perform more and better services to the public, Von T. Ellsworth, head of the research department of the California Farm Center Federation, spoke at a meeting sponsored by the Garden Grove Farm Center last night in the Garden Grove Washington school.

The speaker outlined the steps from the early days of the nation when the government had few duties to perform and when individual enterprise was paramount. Now, he said, there is a marked increase in collective and cooperative activity.

"Naturally," the speaker said, "taxes increase as the number and quality of governmental services increase. It behooves us to study our institutions and to see that they do the things we want them to do, and to make the government serve us and to guide it."

Discussing county budgets, the speaker said that the budgets should be adopted at the end of the fiscal year and that the taxpayers should be given more time to study them before the board of supervisors adopts them.

"The larger amount the government takes, the less there is left for the individual," he said. "There is nothing especially barren about governmental expenditures. Money spent collectively often is most productive, but we want the expenses divided fairly. Now about 65 per cent of the tax is on property in the state, 10 per cent is derived from the sales tax, 10 per cent from the gasoline tax and the balance from fees, etc. The Riley plan took 65 cents off the property tax in this county."

The speaker warned against an initiative proposal which he said would be on the state ballot at the coming election and which would seek to repeal the sales tax and which, he said, would be likely to make property, particularly farm property, suffer from excessive taxation.

He exhibited a chart, making a comparison of the different forms of tangible property. He said that farmers' property is represented by 67 per cent and personal property at 33 per cent, while the reverse is true in cities.

In the face of a mounting state deficit, he urged his listeners to study taxation and determine what kind of a tax they desired, if more taxes are levies to make up the deficiency.

SLEEPER TAKES POSITION WITH STATE BOARD

Claude Sleeper, son of County Assessor James Sleeper, today received confirmation of his appointment as auditor for district 5 which includes Orange county, by the State Board of Equalization.

Well known in this section, Sleeper has been employed by the First National bank for the past 14 and a half years. For the past five years he has been in charge of the note department at the bank.

He will work under W. C. Shay, supervisor of the district, which includes Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Inyo counties. Headquarters for the district are in the Central building, San Bernardino.

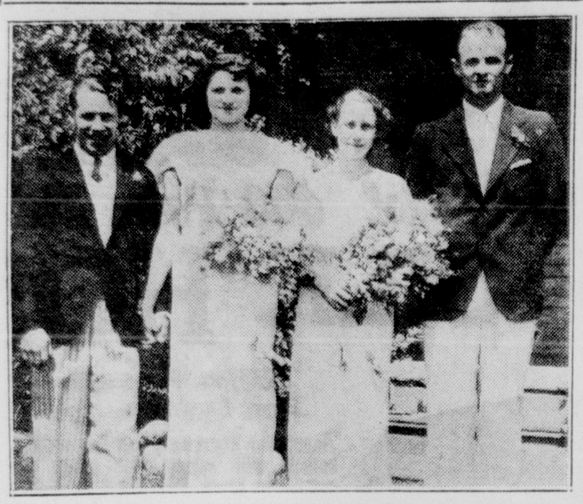

Sleeper will succeed R. H. McCalla, who has resigned from the State Board of Equalization position.

With his appointment effective tomorrow, Sleeper will leave at the same time for Sacramento where he will be given a three weeks' course of instruction in his new position. Following the instruction, he will return to take up his new duties, which will be mainly in Orange county.

Sleeper, who is a native son of Santa Ana, is a member of the American Legion, Elks and Masons. In accepting the appointment he said that he left the employ of the bank with the most kindly feelings on both sides.

BROTHER, SISTER COMBINATION

BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF 2 FAMILIES WED

Spending the first few days of married life on the famous old Loomis ranch beyond Mt. Wilson, two young couples married at a double ceremony June 11 at Yorba Linda are anticipating the establishment of homes on the Mojave desert in the very near future.

The two young women and young men represent but two families, since sister and brother married brother and sister when Miss Thelma L. Thomas, 20, became the bride of Noel Killenger, 24, and Miss Carol Killenger, 19, becam the bride of Lester L. Thomas, 22. The Killenger young people are daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Killenger, who live near Hinkley, Calif.

The Cedar Crest dairy ranch home at Yorba Linda of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Thomas, parents of Miss Thelma and Lester Thomas, was setting for the ceremony. The 40 guests present included the author of "Viva Villa," Oda Stade, a friend of the family, who found special interest in the event since he now is engaged in writing a biography of Mrs. Thomas' father, Captain L. G. Loomis, pioneer of Los Angeles. Captain and Mrs. Loomis, unable to be present for the wedding, extended the hospitality of their ranch home to the two pairs of newlyweds. It was less than a quarter of a century ago that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas spent their honeymoon in the same romantic mountain country.

Both bridegrooms are employed by the Pacific Coast Borax company between Barstow and Mojave. Thomas met his future bride through acquaintances in that community and Killenger met his future wife a few months later while she was visiting her brother, Lester Thomas, and other relatives near Hinkley. Plans for a double wedding then took shape and this week's ceremony was the result.

Miss Florence Thomas played Lohengrin's Wedding March for the entry of the bridal party. Pink and white and green decorations had been arranged for the ceremony, at which the Rev. J. Wesley Runyan, pastor of Brea Christian church, officiated.

Wearing identically fashioned white crepe frocks and carrying bride's roses, the two brides were given in marriage by their fathers, George Kilenger and O. D. Thomas. During the reception ice cream wedding cake topped with two each of miniature bride and bridegroom figures, was served.

The newlyweds motored to the Loomis ranch by very good roads, experiencing none of the troubles that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas had when they packed in to the same mountains for their honeymoon in 1911.

No doubt the new Mr. and Mrs. Killenger and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will prevail upon Captain Loomis to do a little reminiscing about his years of service as Los Angeles chief of police many years ago; about his initiative in laying out Inglewood and Hollywood cemeteries; about his retirement in 1911 to the beautiful old ranch where he now makes his home.

Meanwhile, the romance and adventure of establishing homes in the little mining settlement between Barstow and Mojave await the four young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas' daughter and son are native Californians and are graduates of Fullerton Union High school.

RIGGLE DROPS FROM CONTEST FOR SHERIFF

Charles W. Riggle, former undersheriff, who some time ago announced that he would be a candidate for election as sheriff, today withdrew from the campaign, and declared that he would support former Sheriff San Jernigan for election.

"I am withdrawing in favor of Sam Jernigan," said Riggle, who recently applied for a nomination petition, but had not filed it.

He was the second candidate for sheriff to withdraw in two days, C. C. Cravath, of Laguna Beach, having announced his withdrawal yesterday.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, June 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Letson and family have left Wintersburg on a motor vacation trip. They go first into Northern California, where they will visit Mrs. Letson's father, Joe Culver, then go to Grants Pass, Ore., where Mr. Letson expects to enjoy the fishing.

Mrs. Martha Matson spent a week at Alhambra with her mother, Mrs. A. D. Wagner, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wells are entertaining as house guests, her two sisters, Mrs. G. K. Hankins and Mrs. Mary Ross, of East St. Louis, Ill.

A shower given for Mrs. Ralph Hawes and Mrs. Chapman, of Huntington Beach, at the home of Mrs. Orton Tuesday, was attended by three local friends. Mrs. Lee Sowers, Mrs. O. A. Sowers and Mrs. J. W. McIntosh.

A meeting and social evening for officers of the Baptist Sunday school held Tuesday evening at Huntington Beach was attended by Mr. and Mrs. William S. Preston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sowers, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McIntosh and members of their family.

The seventh birthday anniversary of Jean Chamberland was observed Thursday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Chamberland. Following a series of games, refreshments were served.

A summer vacation trip planned by Mr. and Mrs. Andy Irvin and family of Boulevard Gardens was nipped in the bud by the theft of their car in Long Beach. The machine had been completely overhauled and equipped with six new tires in view of their plans to leave next Monday for the Chicago fair and other points east.

BROWNINGS BACK FROM TRIP EAST

Felton B. Browning, president of the Orange County Farm bureau, accompanied by his wife, have returned from an 8000-mile motor trip throughout the east and south. They were gone five weeks. Conditions in the east were found to be gradually improving.

In Washington Browning conferred with Chester Gray, American Farm Bureau Federation representative, regarding the AAA program. Gray stated that some program. Fray stated that some of the programs, especially the cotton, tobacco and wheat programs, are successful and self-supporting, but that some of the other programs of the AAA are not going so well and the outcome is not so good.

Motoring first to New Orleans, where they enjoyed two days sightseeing, the Brownings continued on to Orlando, Fla., where the orange situation was investigated. Numerous groves were inspected and most of them were found to be looking in good condition.

The fruit auction markets in Philadelphia, New York City and Chicago were visited. A stop at Niagara Falls and a three days' visit at the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, were also features of the trip.

Roads on the itinerary were found to be good. In Iowa, they were caught in a hard rain storm.

Westminster

WESTMINSTER, June 15.—A two weeks visit to Oakland is being taken by Mrs. Mabel Clough and son, Gerald. They were accompanied by Mrs. Clough's mother, Mrs. J. J. Hansen of San Pedro.

TALBERT

TALBERT, June 15.—Details of a severe drought in the Fisk, Mo., district have been received here from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Penrod who with their children are located on a ranch which they own there. Mr. Penrod is employed in a store at Fisk. The family left here two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pettitt, who some months ago sustained injuries in an automobile accident, called on relatives and friends here this week.

J. H. Cox, who has been confined to his home by illness for a long time, is now confined to his bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Talbert, who have been residing on a local ranch, have taken the service station at the river mouth.

ELKS FLAG DAY EVENT DRAWS CROWD OF 2000

With an estimated crowd of more than 2000 persons present, annual Flag Day ceremonies were presented under the auspices of Santa Ana Elks lodge last night with colorful exercises in Santa Ana Municipal bowl.

The program was opened with a patriotic concert played by Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of Leland Auer. Following the presentation of flags and banners in a massed colors ceremony, the band officially opened the Flag Day ceremonies by playing the "Star Spangled Banner."

A formal guard mount was staged by the Santa Ana and Orange National Guard units. An exhibition drill was presented by the Royal Neighbors, Golden State camp. Members of the drum corps of the United Spanish War Veterans, Calumpit camp, assisted the auxiliary in an exhibition drill.

Exhibition drills also were staged by the Santa Ana American Legion drum and bugle corps and the auxiliary drill team. An impressive 'Liberty Bell ceremony was put on by officers of Santa Ana Elks lodge, headed by Exalted Ruler Robert Walker.

A tribute to the flag was paid in a brief talk by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, while the main patriotic address was given by C. P. Hebenstreit, district deputy grand exalted ruler of California South for the Elks lodge. He explained the origin of the Elks and the Flag Day services.

As the sound of taps blown by buglers faded away, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings closed the program with a benediction.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN 213 J. C. STUDENTS; DR. BLAISDELL TELLS OF CHANGING WORLD

Speaking on "The Conflict Between the Permanent and the Changeable," Dr. James Arnold Blaisdell, president of Claremont colleges, told of the importance of changing conditions in this world today, where people cherish permanency, when he spoke before 213 Santa Ana junior college graduates yesterday afternoon on the college campus.

Dr. Blaisdell said that those desiring to make beneficial changes in present conditions should set out to bring about order and yet make progress. Heretofore, said the speaker, change has meant either revolution or disaster.

"Fundamentally," the commencement speaker stated, "the World war caused our present economic depression through a series of bank failures and business reverses, first in Austria, and then throughout the entire world.

"Order is heaven's first law," continued Dr. Blaisdell, "but only those races that survive are those that progress.

"The thing to be done about it, then, is to realize first that the old permanence is passing and that we are entering a new era. Then we must find an orderly way to make effective changes without revolution or disaster. After that we must learn to differentiate between the changing and the permanent.

"Change always develops into order," continued the speaker, "and this develops toward more change, which again works toward order, until we reach the final complete and infinite order beyond this life."

The speaker illustrated the attitude of people toward change by stating that there is something wrong with any man who is not a "radical" at 30, or who is not a conservative at 60.

In conclusion, Dr. Blaisdell stated that an educated person should be able to take the new and to evolve it to the ordinary, and to take the changing days and evolve them into an established standard of living.

Another portion of the commencement program was the announcement of honors, including special academic achievements, Robert L. Brown prizes, and the Beta Gamma prize. The four students in the class with the highest scholastic rating were Ruth Jenkins, with a grade point ratio of 2.77; Gene Thompson, 2.60; Florence Warmer, 2.56, and Everard Stovall, 2.50. These, with Thomas Davis, with a ratio of 2.36, were the five members of the class awarded life membership to Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society.

Gene Thompson and Dorothy Ensign were the man and woman to receive the annual $25 cash prize from Robert L. Brown for outstanding achievement in all lines of college activity. Katherine Bement was awarded the Beta Gamma prize of $25 given each year by the extra-curricular honor society to the student contributing the most conspicuous service in extra-curricular activities to the school while maintaining a good academic record.

Graduates marched to the platform behind the faculty, who wore the academic gowns and hoods from their various colleges. Members of the class wore red and black stoles over their black gowns to indicate discernment between these commencement robes and those of four-year institutions. Twenty-nine members of the class had white tassels on their caps, to indicate graduation "with honor." Many of these students are members of Phi Theta, national jaysee honor society.

Musical entertainment before the address of the afternoon included an overture by the college orchestra, "King Tut," by Borden and "Raindrop Prelude," by Chopin, sung by the women's chorus.

McKee Fisk, jaysee dean, presented the class, and it was accepted by George R. Wells, president of the Santa Ana Board of Education. Dana King Hammond conferred titles of associate of arts and certificates of secretarial practice, and announced special honors.

Following this, the men's chorus sang "Invictus," by Huhn, and the college orchestra played as the exit march "Flags of Peace," by Powell, as the graduates left the platform.

HORTON FIRM NOW EXCLUSIVE G. E DEALERS

George C. Silzer, wholesale manager for the George Belsey company, Southern California distributors for the General Electric company, today announced the appointment as franchised dealer for Santa Ana of the J. C. Horton Furniture company.

The J. C. Horton Furniture company thereby becomes the sole and exclusive dealer for this city and surrounding territory of all major home appliances manufactured by the General Electric company, such electric refrigerators both in the famous monitor top models and in the new conventional flat top models, electric ranges, dishwashers, and all commercial refrigeration, such as water coolers, milk coolers for dairies, ice cream cabinets, water heaters, air conditioning for offices and homes, and all forms of refrigeration both for the preservation of food and for human comfort and cooling, Silzer said.

Silzer voices the opinion of his concern as evidencing great pride and satisfaction in now bowing themselves out of the retail field in Santa Ana and turning their large list of customers and prospective purchasers over to one of Santa Ana's leading and best known firms, the J. C. Horton Furniture company. Old customers will receive full and complete service courtesy from the J. C. Horton company, Silzer said.

Lloyd Babbit, until now local manager for the retail Belsey store, together with all salesmen under his direction, have gone over to the J. C. Horton company and will continue to sell General Electric Home Appliances under the newly created dealership.

"It is with a sense of regret that the George Belsey company relinquishes the close intimate contact it has with our people, but this regret is offset by its pride in turning over the dealership to a firm as old and well established and so highly regarded as are J. C. Horton and his sons and associates who have built here a business which is outstanding in its premiership," Silzer declared.

Wife Succeeds In Freeing Husband

After Deputy Sheriffs James Workman and James Musick returned Clarence L. Hicks from Hanford to face charges of non-support of his wife, the case was dismissed in justice court yesterday on motion of the wife, who was the complaining witness.

The complaint was issued last November but Hicks was not located until this week. After Mrs. Hicks made appeals to the district attorney's office to drop the case today, Hicks was taken before Acting Justice of the Peace Chris Pann and released on motion of Deputy District Attorney James Davis.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

HOUSING—

There was more fancy soft-shoe footwork backstage on the housing bill than on any other legislation this session. Not even the stock market bill stirred up so much phenagling. It all centered around the stalwart figure of Stonewall Steagall.

Mr. Steagall is supposed to be the Democratic chairman of the house banking committee. There is no question about his being chairman, but there is some argument about his being Democratic, as far as this administration is concerned.

This leader of financial legislation in the house earned his Stonewall title the same way Jackson did. While all the rest have been fleeing before the advance of the administration, Mr. Steagall has stood there like a stone wall, impenetrable.

At least that is what he did for some weeks after President Roosevelt sent the housing bill to congress. The White House prodders got busy on the inside and prodded Mrs. Steagall into promising to report the bill.

At the appointed time, Mr. Steagall did. But, lo and behold, the bill Mr. Steagall reported happened to be an entirely different bill.

• • • •

CHARGES

Mr. Roosevelt's prodders were so angry that one of them (an official in Frank Walker's division) called news men of Washington into a press conference.

This official spoke very disparagingly of Mr. Steagall's committee. He charged that it had sold out to the building and loan associations, that it had betrayed the administration, etc., etc., etc.

Some one present suggested that such remarks were very libelous, unless proved, and would cause an uproar. The official thereupon wisely decided to make his remarks "off-the-record," meaning confidential.

That kept them from getting into the newspapers, but they reached the ears of the banking committee members and the building and loan league. As a result, everyone lost his temper, that is everyone except Mr. Steagall. He still was giving a good imitation of a stone wall.

• • • •

DOUBTS

The votes taken in Mr. Steagall's committee were not made public. If they had been, they would have proved Mr. Steagall's rigidity.

In every vote taken, Mr. Steagall—believe it or not—stood by the White House. He voted against changes which would give a half billion dollars in loans to building and loan associations. He voted for the administration bill. Only two or three members of his committee did likewise.

Mr. Roosevelt's prodders know that, but they refuse to give Mr. Steagall full credit. They noted that his pals on the committee were all on the other side, particularly his bosom companion and alter ego, Mr. Goldsborough, a Democrat from Maryland.

Also, they complain that Mr. Steagall has never before been overthrown by his committee, at least never by such an overwhelming margin as 16 to 3 and 15 to 4, which were the anti-administration margins on the committee roll calls.

Furthermore, no ill feeling seems to exist between Mr. Steagall and his own committee members, who went against him and the administration.

• • • •

PRESSURE

The upshot of the thing is that the administration had to exert extreme inside pressure to get its bill out of the discards. It is supposed to have everything fixed now so that it will get exactly what it wants, finally, after both senate and house have passed the bill, and it goes into the hands of a conference committee.

Mr. Steagall's friends are very proud of him. They say the administration is displeased only because he has the courage of his convictions, which have not happened to coincide with Mr. Roosevelt's convictions on inflation and guaranteeing bank deposits. They excuse his faithfulness to the administration on the housing bill on the ground that he was not interested in the subject much, one way or another. Also, they expect him to get some patronage.

To them, Mr. Steagall is just a big misunderstood man who does not care as long as he can continue to have his way generally on the subjects in which he is interested.

At any rate, all will concede that his unfathomable activities have made him the most colorful figure in a drab house.

• • • •

NOTES

The charge that the building and loan league wrote the substitute housing bill, reported to the house, has been forcefully denied. No one will deny that the substitute was thoroughly acceptable to them, while the administration bill would ruin the profitable second mortgage business.

• • • •

• • • •

Clarence Darrow was not fooled on publicity for his second report. He did not personally let it out prematurely, but a friend did. The friend is not connected with the Darrow board and may not have received his copy from Darrow.

• • • •

Mr. Roosevelt is relying heavily on the advice of Vice-President Garner in working out the strategy for the closing of congress. Garner is sharp on such matters.

• • • •

Incidentally, Garner has overcome his old aversion for automobiles. He has a new 16-cylinder car which salesman call a "Democracy De Luxe" model. Admiring friends exaggeratingly avow it "has everything but a shower bath", that it is a yacht on wheels.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

GOLD

Watch for another jump in the gold price soon—probably to $37 or $38 an ounce. That would mean devaluing the dollar to 55.86 or 54.40 cents respectively.

Wall Streeters who remember their history remark that 54.40 may again be a cause of strife with Britain. Because the recent drop in the pound—not the committee for the nation's argument that the move is essential to jack up domestic prices—will be the decisive factor behind the move if it's made. British competition is beginning to regain ascendancy. Insiders understand the step is under serious consideration in Washington but that a final decision hasn't yet been reached.

Germany also figures in the picture. The impending collapse of the mark threatens serious inroads on our export trade. Cheapening the dollar abroad a bit more is indicated as a precautionary measure.

New York has reason to know that Professor Warren is not staging a comeback. Of course a jump in the gold price would bring the psychological effects of inflation but experts doubt that they would last.

• • • •

PRICES

Abandonment of price-fixing by NRA is locally rated far more significant of the administration's price policy than anything that's done with gold. There's no doubt in informed circles that the retreat will be followed by a wave of price slashing where code agreements do not say nay. Don't be too sure that the unprotected will not be yelling for shelter soon.

FINANCING

Many of Wall Street's best legal minds got together the other day to discuss the Securities Act amendments and decide whether they can now advise their clients that it's safe to proceed with corporate financing. The results of the discussion were not made public but it's understood they generally agreed that 80 per cent of the objectionable features of the Act had been eliminated. You will soon see evidence of this conclusion in the form of new security offerings to the public.

A couple of railroad issues—Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania—are about ready to shoot. Kuhn Loeb will be chief sponsors. Railroad securities have been exempt from the provisions of the act all along except as to criminal liability. The latter feature has now been toned down to the point where it's no longer considered unreasonable.

• • • •

PENNSYLVANIA

The Pennsylvania railroad has been quietly peddling small issues of the underlying bonds of its subsidiaries to insurance companies, savings banks and other institutions for the past few months. No single issue amounted to much more than a million dollars. In some cases a single institutional investor was willing to take the entire offering and in the rest two or three buyers handled all. This method of marketing eliminated the need for registration under the Securities Act.

The bonds sold this way had all been on Pennsy's shelves for some time awaiting a receptive market. The object of the sales was to raise cash for the road's electrification program and not have to use so much PWA money.

CUBA

New York insiders get word that a new ingredient will shortly be added to the Cuban witches' brew. General Batista — commander-in-chief of the army — doesn't like either Mendieta or San Martin and is planning a coup to bring Menocal to power.

The dope is that Batista figures Menocal is an old man and he would himself be the power behind the throne.

Experts agree that such a development would probably split the army three ways: part following Batista, part loyal to Mendieta and part jumping to San Martin. "That wouldn't mean a revolution. It would be just plain chaos."

WOE

The transport companies find one virtue in the Air Mail Bill—they think it's too bad to last.

Legal hawks told them the Interstate Commerce commission is so limited under the Act that it can adjust rates in only one direction—down. That makes those "sacrificial" bids look a lot more sacrificial than they were intended to be.

The maximum of three contracts—or one primary route—to a company hits all major lines. It's suggested the additional legislation Senator Joe Robinson talked about may have something to do with this angle.

Control by the National Labor board over pilots' and mechanics' pay also has the lines viewing with alarm. They're less bothered about the holding company provision because it doesn't clamp down until the end of the year. They figure there's enough grief for now in the rest of the Act.

One operator says: "If we didn't think the new Commission would do some good we'd talk about liquidating."

• • • •

LIGHTNING

Hard-hearted observers say the plaintive cries of the airmail carriers would rate more sympathy if the lines themselves hadn't done so much to invite the lightning. For example there's the official who stirred up Senator Black about "illegal" extension of routes—because his company got little of that gravy. All he wanted cancelled was the extensions and he thought the bolt would strike where he pointed. Was HE surprised!

PLEA

Wall Street gets a chuckle out of NRA's plea not to cut brokerage employes' wages although permission to do so has been given. The boys say that's like tossing meat into a lion's cage and then asking the beast to turn vegetarian.

SANTA ANA GAVEL USED IN CHICAGO

Congratulating the Santa Ana Rotary club on the wide publicity which Santa Ana received as a result of the use of the famous world-traveling Rotary gavel of the Santa Ana club to open and close the international broadcast program staged Tuesday, Secretary R. C. Smedley has received an air mail letter from Crombie Allen, international director.

"Santa Ana Rotary club gavel started and stopped great international broadcast from Rotary International at No. 1 today and your telegram put Santa Ana and California on the ethereal world map," the letter said.

The occasion for the use of the gavel in the international broadcast was the broadcast Tuesday, called "Rotary-Reporting on World Recovery." Officers from many nations spoke briefly on the subject during the program.

TWO FEATURES AT WEST COAST TODAY

Two late features, "Such Women Are Dangerous," and "Here Comes the Groom", open for the first time at the West Coast theater today.

Debonair Warner Baxter plays the starring role in "Such Women Are Dangerous," an exciting comedy-drama combining romance, intrigue and tantalizing mystery. Rosemary Ames, Rochelle Hudson, Mona Barrie, Herbert Mundin, Henrietta Crosman and other favorites are in the supporting cast.

"Here Comes the Groom" is a mirthful comedy feature of a bewildered young piccolo player in love with one girl but on a honeymoon with another. Jack Haley, Mary Boland, Patricia Ellis, Neil Hamilton, Isabell Jewell and others are featured.

A Willie Whopper cartoon, "The sultan' the Sultan," and a World News Events film complete the bill.

FALLERT GIVES STATEMENT ON JOB SERVICE

Desiring to correct misunderstanding of the functions of the National Reemployment service, and to advise unemployed how to keep themselves on the active registration list, Charles Fallert, manager of the reemployment bureau in Orange county today issued a statement outlining the purpose of the service.

Fallert declared that the service is designed primarily to get the man and the job together, each man on the job for which he is best qualified. The National Reemployment Service has no connection whatever with the SERA program, he emphasized.

"Our purpose," said Fallert, "is to bring contractors and other employers and the unemployed together with the least expense and delay. Whenever we hear of a job or the possibility of a job we get in touch with that source. We are constantly contacting employers who are hiring or apt to be hiring additional men.

"There are some 1185 different labor classifications, so you will see that we are able to supply men for almost any kind of work.

At the time a man is registered with us we get a detailed record of his experience, the names of former employers and references as to ability to perform any given job. In most cases we are able to deliver a man for a job within a very few hours, in some cases minutes.

"It is not the intention of this service to interfere in any way with the employer's organization or tell him who he should hire. It is our sole purpose to impress employers that we have a service which can be of great assistance to them as well as to those seeking employment. If a man is needed for a job, all that is necessary is to call or write us and we will go anywhere in the county to get the man needed.

"In order that this department may keep in close touch with its applicants for jobs, it is necessary that each and every one who desires his application to be in the active file, which means eligibility for employment, must renew his application every 30 days. It is not necessary to call in person to do this; merely mail a card to the National Reemployment Service, Santa Ana, stating on the card the name, address and telephone number by which the applicant can be reached. Having the proper telephone number is essential, as that is the only method by which we can contact a person for employment."

THANKS FROM FIRST LADY

Below is a facsimile of the card of appreciation sent to residents of Santa Ana and Orange county by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in response to the huge Mother's Day card sent her in connection with the Breakfast club "Mothers of the World" pageant. Addressed to Stein's Stationery store, where the card originated, both the words on the card and address on the envelope were specially printed.

GEOGRAPHICAL ANGLE BELIEVED AID TO YOUNG

Geographical distribution of candidates was against him and responsible for his loss of the Republican nomination four years ago, but this year that factor is wholly in his favor, so he is confident of being the Republican nominee for governor, ex-Governor C. C. Young of Berkeley told an audience at Birch park yesterday afternoon.

Four years ago there were two northern candidates, Young and Rolph, and one from the south, Buron Fitts. Fitts cut into the normal Young following in Los Angeles to such an extent that, although he carried 47 of the 58 counties, Governor Young lost the nomination to James Rolph jr. he pointed out yesterday.

This year, however, he is the sole northern candidate, and all three of his opponents are from Los Angeles, so he expects the geographical advantage to clinch the nomination for him, he said.

His own record of business efficiency while in the governor's office, where he left a $31,000,000 surplus that has since been translated into a $31,000,000 deficit, he said, is his chief reliance upon return to the office, however.

The former governor declared that, important though the financial side of government is at present, the humanitarian side is more vital, and will be his principal concern if returned to office. He mentioned the problem of needed enlargement of prisons and state hospitals as needing solution.

County Supervisor W. C. Jerome, prominent Young supporter, introduced the ex-governor to the audience as "the best governor California has ever had."

GREY'S 'LAST TRAIL' ON WALKER SCREEN

Speed, action, romance and comedy are delightfully combined in Zane Grey's story, "The Last Trail," with George O'Brien playing the lead, which is the feature film on the current program at Walker's State theater, Manager Vic Walker said today.

The story concerns the transfer of racketeers activities from beer running in metropolitan centers to cattle rustling on the western plains. Claire Trevor adds the feminine touch to this thrilling action story, and El Brendel provides many good laughs.

Other subjects on the program are "Bully's End" a cartoon; another chapter of "The Wolf Dog"; a news reel; and a Harry Langdon comedy, "The Big Flash."

HELD FOR TRIAL FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Herbert W. Rice, 44, West Seventeenth street, arrested on May 27 on South Main street for drunken driving, was bound over to the superior court Wednesday when he appeared before Judge Kenneth Morrison in justice court.

Testimony was given by Dr. Arthur Wade, and California Highway Patrolmen Walter Meyer and Charles Wolfe. A motion to dismiss the defendant was made following the evidence but was denied by Judge Morrison.

ENROLL VETERANS FOR C. C. C. CAMPS

The veterans contingent for enrollment in CCC camps will be reopened, it was announced today by Harry Edwards, Orange county veteran welfare officer, whose offices are in the courthouse annex.

Edwards said that there is no limit to the number of veterans who will be used in CCC camps and that all Orange county veterans who desire can enroll for service.

WILLYS 77 USED ON VACATION TRIP

Showing the feasibility of a land and water vacation trip, a Willys 77 sedan was driven from Los Angeles north to Victoria, B. C. and then shipped back by boat to give the passengers a wide variety of scenery and experiences.

According to William E. Otis, local Willys distributor at Fifth and Birch streets, the new car average more than 28 miles per gallon of gasoline during the entire land trip of 1500 miles, which was made at high speeds with night and day driving. The trip north was made via Bakersfield, Sacramento, Redding, Medford, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, B. C., and then by ferry to Victoria.

Otis pointed out that the trip would make an ideal vacation tour at medium expense and would combine the climate and scenery of the south and north with the contrast in Canada and the comfort of an ocean journey.

STAR OF RADIO AND SCREEN ON KREG TONIGHT

Under the title of "The Stylish Sinner," a story of the adventures of a much-traveled lady who acquired extravagant clothes and jewels through a clever ruse, but who was finally trapped in Paris when she made her first honest purpose, will be dramatized at 8:45 tonight on KREG.

The sketch features Joseph Greenwald, star of radio and stage, and is another in the series of "Front Page Dramas" broadcast each Friday at the above time from KREG.

"THE BUSINESS CONSULTANTS" BACK ON KREG

In tonight's installment, at 6:45, of "The Business Consultants," sparkling new serial broadcast by "Bob and Jud" exclusively from KREG, Dr. Wellington Wadsworth Webster, D. S. R., and Dr. Adolph Augustus Schleitzenheimer, D. E. E., president and secretary of the new firm, will have a brand-new experience. Business begins to arrive at the office with so many gold letters on the door. A day or two after the partners give their first radio broadcast business opens up with a rush.

Now, with money coming in, many fresh questions present themselves. Will the partnership be able to survive prosperity as it has adversity? Will Dr. Webster's idea of a business establishment designed to give advice "on any matter within human experience," prove sound? Will the cares and problems of this suffering world be lightened now that this firm has begun to give out advice?

Tune in tonight and feel your own troubles grow lighter as you listen to those of "Bob and Jud" in "The Business Consultants."

SALLY COE MUELLER WILL SING TONIGHT

Sally Coe Mueller's offering of songs tonight at 8 o'clock on KREG will soften the hardest of hearts and delight the most severe critics, program officials stated.

Her program will include "Spring's Awakening," Sanderson; "There Are Fairies at the Bottom of Our Garden," Lehmann; "Kiss Me Again," Herbert, and "The Last Song," Rogers.

This popularly received vocalist is programmed each Tuesday and Friday on the local station.

ACTION AGAINST CITY OF ORANGE DROPPED TODAY

The family of William Rout, who suffocated while a prisoner in the Orange city jail December 24, 1932, has abandoned the $25,000 damage suit against the city and its bonding company, and confined the action to Orange police officers, it was revealed today with the filing of an amended complaint

Former Chief of Police B. F. Richards and Officers Homer Davis, G. W. Coltrane and E. A. Shaffer, are the defendants now remaining in the case.

The original complaint, naming the City of Orange and the indemnity company as defendants, was successfully attacked by City Attorney Gordon X. Richmond, representing the city, and District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, representing the bonding company. Richmond's demurrer was sustained by the court, on the ground that the city was not liable for the negligence of its officers.

The city attorney had cited the old common law rule, "The king can do no wrong," applying it to the case at bar with the contention that a municipal corporation is not liable for negligence of its officers while they are engaged in performance of governmental function. He contended that operation of the jail was a governmental function.

The local case is the first in California in which the theory was applied to the case of a death in a jail.

The complaint brought by Mrs. Dora Rout and her children Cecil Howard Rout and Wilma Marie Rout, charges that William Rout's death during the night in question was due to negligence of the officers in not keeping watch upon the jail. A fire started during the night and Rout died of suffocation. His body was found next morning.

FARM GROUP URGES ACTION BY DISTRICT

A request that the Orange County Farm Bureau urge the Orange County Water District to immediately employ a personnel and establish itself as a functioning unit for the purpose for which it was organized, that is, for the protection of water rights, development of additional water and elimination of water waste and conservation of water, was embodied in a resolution adopted at a joint meeting of the Garden Grove, Cypress, Orangethorpe, Foothill and West Orange Farm Centers last night in Garden Grove.

The resolution adopted recognized the major water problems in Orange county as being flood control, water conservation, elimination of waste, securing of additional water and protection of basin water rights.

"We advise the Orange County Farm Bureau that we agree with and support their stand in asking the board of supervisors to make a vigorous effort to secure complete federal aid for flood control and water conservation," the document, which was presented by W. H. Musser, chairman of the Garden Grove Farm Center water committee, said.

Ralph Chaffee, director, reported that Harry Lake and others have paid a visit to James Irvine, of the Irvine ranch, and that Mr. Irvine was anxious to work with other groups in getting federal aid and in solving the water problems.

Don C. Jordan, president of the center, presided.

SEEK KILLER SNAKE AS 5 RATTLERS DIE

LAGUNA BEACH, June 15.—Five rattlesnakes held in captivity at the California serpentorium, on Coast boulevard, have been killed in some mysterious manner during the last two weeks, and the killer is still undiscovered, ready for new victims, according to A. Pierce Artran, manager of the institution.

The vipers died in the large pit located on the main floor which houses a collection of dangerous and poisonous reptiles.

"There is absolutely nothing in the pit which could injure them, and the wounds are all in pairs, showing plainly they were made by fangs," Artran explained. "We are completely stumped."

According to the theory advanced by Artran, one of the rattlers kept in the pit is the killer, but he must kill only at night, as no one has been able to catch him in the act.

Artran went on to explain that most rattlers get along beautifully, adding that this is the first time in his experience that one of these snakes has turned killer among his own kind.

Flewelling, a Los Angeles architect, representing the Southern California chapter of the American Institute of Architects, who will act as professional advisor to the board in the matter of securing the services of a competent architect for the proposed building program. Hermosa Man May Place 'Olympian' Off Balboa Pier

NEWPORT BEACH, June 15.—Possibility of the anchoring of a new fishing barge just outside of Balboa was seen today with the application of Capt. J. M. Anderson, well known fisherman of Hermosa Beach, for a permit to anchor his barge "Olympian" off the Balboa pier.

Some arrangements will have to be made with holders of the present barge concession, it was said, before the new barge can come in. If successful in his application, Anderson said, he plans to anchor just off the channel, and run a speed boat service from the Balboa pier.

The two J. E. McFarlane barges, "California", and "Mindanao" were moved this week from off Laguna Beach to a point just off the Newport pier. Fishermen report spotty fishing, with some fair yellowtail catches being made.

Politically Speaking

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Boosted by fate from the ranks of gubernatorial candidates to the position of chief executive, Acting Gov. Frank F. Merriam had the chances for the party nomination strengthened by Ex-Gov. Friend W. Richardson.

When Richardson announced he would remain out of the governorship contest and throw his support to Merriam, the acting governor became, in the opinion of many observers, the strongest candidate in the republican field. Richardson urged all republicans to support Merriam, and even advised other G. O. P. candidates to drop out.

In return, Richardson may be expected to pluck one of the best plums which will be distributed by Merriam. Either the bank superintendency or finance directorship would pay him $10,000 annually--the same salary received by the governor--or he may become head of the railroad commission, at $8,000.

Merriam said he had no spot in mind for Richardson, but that "he could have almost any job he wants."

"All republicans certainly should support their party candidates," said Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift, "and plan particularly to vote republican in the November election, because it looks like Upton Sinclair will lead the democratic field.

Republicans a few months ago were pleased with Sinclair's progress but now some of them appear to be worried by reports of his popularity.

Patrick J. Cooney, Los Angeles attorney who worked hard for the Roosevelt campaign and received nothing for his personal efforts, has aligned with Sinclair and will seek the democratic nomination for attorney general.

Manchester Boddy, publisher of the Los Angeles Illustrated Daily News, is seriously considering filing for governor on the democratic ticket, and will make a decision shortly.

Staunch supporters of the Roosevelt program, Boddy and his newspaper are recognized as being very liberal. The News played a prominent part in the San Gabriel dam scandal which sent two men to prison, and led various vice exposes.

Boddy has been in the publishing business most of his life.

Democratic registration in Los Angeles county has forged ahead of republican figures for the first time in history. The same is true of San Francisco and other localities close to metropolitan areas, and even in isolated agricultural sections Bourbons have gained strength steadily.

The Democratic Confederation of California, comprised of clubs in central and northern California, endorsed William H. Evans as the party choice for governor. Evans, a Los Angeles candidate, has been active in public life for many years, but this is the first time he has entered politics. He credits himself with conceiving the idea of the C. C. C. and the Grubstake Homestead plan. He represented striking motion picture technicians before the National Labor Board, and aided in the introduction of a bill to appropriate $5,000,000 for Southern California earthquake relief.

Ex-Gov. C. C. Young, seeking the republican nomination, has been making a whirlwind trip about the state visiting county seats and making personal contacts. He is the heaviest traveler of all the candidates.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By J. GORDON ALLARD
Certified Culbertson Teacher

The current article on contract bridge, written by J Gordon Allard, director of the Claremont Crockford club and Culbertson contract bridge instructor, will be the final article this season.

If readers of The Register so desire, Allard will sontinue to write the articles for them next fall, it was stated. Those desiring continuance of the series should phone 29.

To continue with the discussion which I started last week on the subject of coups, let me remind you that a grand coup is a play by which declarer shortens the number of trumps in his own hand to correspond to the number of trumps held by his right-hand opponent, so that, by getting the lead in the dummy, he may force opponent's trump and overtrump in his own hand. It may be said that declarer "discards" trumps on winning cards. The following hand is an example of a very interesting and rare play, a quadruple grand coup.

North—S. 3, 2; H. A, K, Q, J; D. A, Q, 6; C. A, Q, J, 4.

West—S. none; H. 10, 8, 7, 5, 4, 3; D. J, 10, 9, 5; C. 7, 5, 3.

East—S. Q, 9, 7, 5; H. 9, 6, 2; D. 7, 4, 3; C. 9, 8, 6.

South—S. A, K, J, 10, 8, 6, 4; H. none; D. K, 8, 2; C. K, 10, 4.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

Both sides vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1S	Pass	3H(1)	Pass
4S(2)	Pass	5N.T.(3)	Pass
7S	All pass

(1) A forcing takeout showing at least 3 1-2 honor tricks.

(2) A jump rebid showing a six-card or longer trump suit that contains not more than one possible loser. This bid can be used only after a strength-showing bid from partner, be it a forcing takeout or jump notrump.

(3) An unconditionally forcing bid, indicating three aces and a king of a suit previously bid by either partner.

West opens the J of diamonds, and South takes the trick with the K. To the second trick South should lead the Ace of spades in an attempt to discover the spade distribution, and with the hope of catching the Queen a singleton. When West shows up void in spades, it is quite obvious to South that a grand coup must be attempted in order to make the contract. His only hope is that East holds at least three cards in each of the other suits, for if he does not, the coup cannot be executed. Declarer now leads the eight of diamonds taking it with the Queen in Dummy, and returns the 3 of spades in dummy taking it with the eight in his own hand; this is followed by another diamond lead, which thus leaves three hands void in diamonds. From Dummy Declarer now leads the A of hearts and trumps it in his hand with the four of spades; this is the first coup. Declarer now returns the K of clubs and takes it with the A in Dummy, and returns from Dummy the K of hearts trumping it in his hand with the 6 of spades; this is the second coup; Declarer now leads the 4 of clubs, takes in the Dummy with the Q, returns the Q of hearts and trumps in his hand with the ten of spades, which is the third coup. Declarer has now shortened his trumps to the same length as his right-hand opponent. Declarer now leads the ten of clubs to the J in Dummy, returning the J of hearts which forces East to trump with the 9 and South overtrumps with the J. This is the Fourth coup, and Declarer makes all thirteen tricks.

RUBY GRAY AND EARLE WENGER WED IN TUSTIN

TUSTIN, June 15.—Choosing the Tustin Presbyterian church as the setting for her wedding, Miss Ruby Gray, daughter of Mrs. Doris Gray of El Modena, plighted her troth at 8 o'clock Thursday night to Dr. Earle Wenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wenger of Upland.

The Rev. Earl Moore of the Whittier Friends church officiated at the single-ring ceremony, which was witnessed by 250 relatives and friends from various points in Southern California.

The church had been lavishly decorated for the event, with the ceremony taking place before an altar of palms, ferns, baskets of pink and pale yellow gladioluses, and many glowing ivory candles in tall iron candelabra.

Preceding the marriage rites, pipe organ selections were rendered by Miss Helen Schoeneberg; marimba numbers by Delyn Hornaday and Clarence Peterson, and two vocal solos, "O, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Just a Song at Twilight," by the Rev. Joseph Reese.

As the organist played the Lohengrin's Wedding march, the bride, a beautiful young brunet, entered on the arm of her uncle, Elwood Paddock of Panorama Heights. She wore a long white satin and lace wedding gown and long white lace net wedding veil. Her bouquet was composed of pink and pale yellow roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids, Miss Alice Eckerman of Pomona and Miss Lynnivere Paddock of Panorama Heights, were both attired in pink organza frocks and carried large bouquets of pink and orchid sweet peas.

Late New From Orange And Nearby Towns

DAUGHERTY AND WILKIE SPEAK TO ROTARIANS

ORANGE, June 15.—Members of the Orange Rotary club enjoyed a special feature program Thursday noon at the Legion clubhouse, marked by a visitation of the Anaheim Rotary club in a body, two featured speakers, and the presence of Rotarians from widely scattered cities of the country.

Returning a visitation made by the Orange club several weeks ago, Anaheim Rotarians came to the Orange meeting in a body, headed by President Dr. D. D. Waynick, and bringing with them Capt. Don Wilkie of Laguna Beach and recently elected to Rotary club membership in that city, one of the speakers of the day.

Captain Wilkie, a candidate for sheriff, talked upon the use of science in crime detection, and devoted a large part of his time to telling about the German murder squad, an organization of trained experts who work anywhere in the country, without being limited to local boundary lines. He gave specific instances in which this group of experts was able to solve murder mysteries which would not have been possible without the up-to-date and scientific methods used.

The other featured speaker was Edwin M. Daugherty, California state commissioner of corporations, who had been secured by State Senator Nelson T. Edwards, chairman of the day. Daugherty told of the service his department has rendered to investors of California, particularly in enforcement of the Corporate Securities act and the so-called blue sky laws.

California's losses through fake stocks and promotional schemes is less in proportion to money invested, than nearly all other states, the speaker declared. While his department cannot guarantee profits of any corporation, or prevent losses to investors through poor judgment or poor business management, it does prevent false scheme promoters from being allowed to sell their so-called securities in the state Daugherty declared.

Besides the group of Anaheim members, other Rotarians were guests at the meeting from Whittier, Santa Ana, Wisconsin and Omaha, Nebraska. Also present were Assemblymen Ted Craig of Brea, and James B. Utt of Tustin.

MUNICIPAL BASEBALL PARK DEDICATED WHEN LIONS AND 20-30 CLUB PLAY TONIGHT

ORANGE, June 15.—The municipal ball park, located in the new city park project along the Santiago creek on South Glassell street, and constructed as a CWA project, will be dedicated tonight with appropriate ceremonies, participated in by city officials and sponsored by the Orange 20-30 club.

Bleachers have been erected, seating approximately 700 people, and the new lighting system was tested out last evening in readiness for tonight's program, to be featured by a game between the Orange 20-30 club team and the Brea Lions club team of the night ball league.

The program is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock, with brief talks by Mayor C. J. Hessell and Councilman A. H. Heim. City Attorney C. C. Bonebrake, who was in direct charge of the park improvements, and Councilmen Cal D. Lester, E. M. Chapman and Dr. J .E. Riley will be introduced. A loud speaker system will broadcast the talks and also provide incidental music for the occasion.

The Orange-Brea ball game is set to start at 8 o'clock, with Mayor Hessel throwing the first ball, Chief of Police George Franzen catching it and Justice of the Peace A. W. Swayze making the swing.

Entrance to the park will be via South Glassell street and River avenue. The latter street has recently been widened and surfaced with gravel and oil, and extended into and through the city park, providing an easy entrance and adequate parking space for automobiles.

Tonight's game is regarded as an important one in the night league race, inasmuch as a victory for Orange would keep the local team a possibility in the first-half championship, while a defeat would mean virtual elimination of Oscar Strutheit's boys as a first-round contender. In the opening game, Brea upset the local team, 6 to 2.

Jack Dugan will hurl for Orange in tonight's dedicatory game, with Rudy Montgomery, former American leaguer, on the mound for Brea.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 15.—Washington, California, Pennsylvania.

Professional soothsayers assembled here unfurl endless charts and sheets and come to the conclusion that they'll finish in that order tomorrow in the nation's most spectacular sweep-swinging struggle, the 36th regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association.

But there will be four other varsity crews out there on the Hudson, and only one, Columbia, can be counted out with any degree of certainty. Columbia is farther from being the gem of the ocean than at any time since 1929, when the late Young Dick Glendon's creation led the procession over the historic four-mile course.

Navy, Cornell or Syracuse is capable of edging out the favored ones—coming from the ruck to prevail like Cavalcade in the stretch.

Weather and water play an important part in these blade beating extravaganzas. Numerous highly rated eights have been yanked from their shells with gunwales awash.

The junior varsity number is as open as the major league pennant hunts, with California the choice, if there is one. Washington is the unanimous pick among the freshmen.

• • •

WASHINGTON IMPRESSIVE

Al Ulbrickson, young mentor of Washington, with physically impressive varsity and frosh arrays, frankly expects first-class returns.

"Illness has kept three men out most of the season," says Ulbrickson, "and although they're back, we have had trouble regaining the form that was ours when we beat California by a deck on Lake Washington April 13."

Ulbrickson believes his 1934 Huskies to be a length and a half slower than the eight who captured the national sprint championships at Long Beach, Cal., last July. Five of that boatload will be bearing down between the bending banks of Poughkeepsie, however, and there scarcely will be a smoother pace-setter in the field than Ed Argersinger, the Seattle stroke.

Washington senses another run of paddling glory such as it experienced in 1923, '24 and '26, when it showed the way on the Hudson.

"Our freshman crew is as good as anything we ever had," smiles Ulbrickson.

"California's chances in the varsity and jayvee races depend on the manner in which our men take to an unfamiliar course," explains Ky Ebright, the former Washington coxswain who guided the Bears to successive Olympic championships. "We have the material for a good crew but most of the boys have no idea of wind or current conditions in this region. Reg Watt is the only one who has been on the Hudson before, and he's a coxswain. As a matter of fact, only two of our varsity men have had previous experience.

"Our varsity lost to Washington by a quarter of a length. Our jayvees won by ten lengths. So we began shifting men. Since then four jayvees have moved into our first boat with good results.

"I believe the winner will have Washington to beat. The Huskies are good."

• • •

CREWS DON'T COME TO 'KEEPSIE FOR THE RIDE

Ebright suspects that the veterans from the Puget Sound country took California none too seriously, were caught by surprise when they battled brow-and-brow, and consequently will be more formidable this trip.

"Rusty" Callow, tutor of Pennsylvania, principal hope of the east, hopes for a cool evening. He has a good, scrappy combination which can be counted upon to turn in a heady race, but it is light and has been handicapped by a shortage of work.

Jim Wray, the Australian who coaches Cornell, has shifted his lineup considerably. The Big Red finished second to California in the last Poughkeepsie event in 1932, and Wray expects another fine performance.

"Buck" Walsh of Navy professes to believe that his crew lacks the weight to row four miles with top-notchers, and Jim Ten Eyck, grand old man of Syracuse, is reticent, but crews don't come to Poughkeepsie for the ride.

And, as related in the foregoing, many a dark horse has caught its second wind under the towering spans of the old railroad bridge that marks the last long mile.

HAIL BAER AS 'NEW DEMPSEY'

CALIFORNIAN'S FISTS TOPPLE GIANT CARNERA

BY STUART CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 15. — The heavyweight championship of the world was back in America today, borne on the crashing crescendo of Max Baer's dynamite fists.

Boxing has the spectacular colorful figure it has needed since Dempsey's day. The new champion is a slugger.

In 2:16 minutes of the eleventh round of last night's fight, Maxie Baer of California smashed his way to a vicious technical knockout over the unpopular Primo Carnera of Italy, and with the final battering blow, heavyweight boxing was restored to the status it held in the halcyon days of Johnson, Willard, Dempsey and Tunney. The sport has a champion whom none denies.

In all, Carnera was floored a dozen times.

Carnera Badly Beaten

If boxing ever had a beaten champion it was the giant, battered Carnera in that thrill-filled eleventh round. His nose was broken and bleeding. Baer, who seemed to have the fight won in the first round, again in the second, and still again in the tenth, came out for the kill. He had Carnera all but out on his feet.

A few seconds after the eleventh gong was struck, Maxie floored Carnera with a right to the head. Referee Arthur Donovan counted up to "three." Reeling, Carnera pulled his huge, drooping body upright.

Baer drove a relentless left to the body. Primo, dazed, raised his fists weakly; picked at Maxie's head with meaningless lefts.

Again Maxie lashed out. His power-packed right caught Primo squarely aside the head. Down went the champion. Obviously out on his feet, Carnera struggled up again. But Referee Donovan led Maxie away and finally raised Baer's hand in signal of victory.

Crowd Wildly Excited

The crowd of 55,000 was wildly excited throughout.

The tip-off came in the opening round.

After nearly two minutes of cautious sparring, Baer floored Carnera with a right to the chin. Primo was up at once. He beat a hasty retreat against the ropes near a neutral corner. Baer-swarmed all over the giant and drove him through the ropes. Carnera weathered the round.

The second round was as much wrestling as it was boxing. Baer cracked over a right to the body. Down went Carnera.

Baer, football fashion, was pulled down on top of him. Hardly had the tangle of legs been cleared when Baer popped him again. Once more Primo went down and once again Baer flowwed on top of him, deliberately, so it seemed.

Baer banged out a terrific right to the head and Carnera toppled over backwards. This time Maxie tangled into Primo's legs, tripped and fell.

Baer Prances, Clowns

Again in the fifth, Baer looked like a certain winner when a wildly swung left started a Carnera nosebleed which continued to the end. But Baer seemed to be enjoying himself. He pranced, laughed and clowned and refused to pursue the advantage until the tenth and eleventh.

As the tenth started Primo seemed to be stronger. Meantime, Max put on a show. When Primo barely reached him with a left flick to the head Baer did a dying swan pose, sagging his knees in mockery. The crowd liked that.

But Baer soon quit jesting. A right to the head and a left to the body brought the champion reeling to the floor. When he reached his feet it appeared he had asked Donovan to stop the fight. Donovan stood between them a few seconds; then beckoned the fighters to continue.

Pressmen Confused

Carnera again was floored and again arose. For a moment it seemed that Donovan had stopped the fight but the bell rang and they went to their corners. Immediately scores of ringside pressmen yelled "That's it! Baer by technical knockout! Donovan stopped the show!"

But nothing happened and they came out for the fatal eleventh.

The outcome of last night's fight opened the gates to a gold mine for Max Baer.

He will talk to boxing writers about title defenses but his closest associates insist that the movies will get the first call. He did one picture, "The Prizefighter and the Lady", and it was a success. He wore his movie dressing robe, with "Steve Morgan" on the back, into the ring. As champion, his movie salary probably will be trebled. Meantime there is the radio.

Loughran Promised Bout

For Carnera there's nothing much in sight except watchful waiting and a hope that Baer meant it when he said he would give Primo a return bout. But Maxie hadn't been in his dressing room two minutes before he promised Joe Smith, manager of Tommy Loughran, the first crack at the crown.

Baer came out of the fight apparently in excellent condition. Not so Carnera. Physicians said his nose was broken. They feared he had broken a small ankle bone, and they were to look further for a possible rib fracture.

IN THE WAKE OF BAER'S SMASHING VICTORY

Californian May Fight Hamas in September But Hollywood Beckons Him Now

PRIMO CAN'T WALK, ANKLE MAY BE BROKEN

By United Press

NEW YORK, June 15.—Max Baer may defend his title in September, he said today, but emphasized that at present he is more concerned with radio and motion picture contracts.

"I may fight Steve Hamas or someone else in September," Baer said, "if I have assurance that such a contest would draw well. But my ring plans are very indefinite right now."

The champion arose shortly before noon and went up to the roof of his hotel to pose for pictures. He expressed interest in a pretty woman who watched him from a door, but she darted away before he could learn her name.

"Who's the Number 1 woman now?" asked a friend.

"My mother," flipped Baer. "She won't sue me."

He professed pained surprise that sportswriters should consider him a clown.

"People don't understand me," he explained with mock seriousness. "I'm a Jekyl-and-Hyde. Outwardly I laugh. Inwardly I am very serious. What I want to do now is end up with a trust fund and not be one of those guys who get the toy balloon concession in an insane asylum."

The Baer establishment still was jubilant today over the Primo Carnera knockout, although Papa Jacob Baer's enthusiasm was slightly tempered by that morning-after feeling.

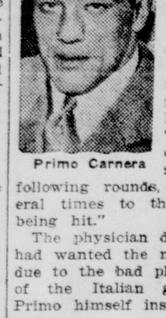

"If I told you how I felt, you couldn't put it in the paper," Papa Baer groaned. "My head felt like it was nailed to the pillow when I woke up. Just celebrating with a little beer, that's all."

In contrast to the Baer suite was the jail cell of William (Big Bill) Duffy, one of Carnera's managers and the man generally credited with steering him to the crown. Duffy, who is serving a four-months' term for income tax evasion, heard the fight over the radio and, according to other prisoners, took it as hard as the ex-champ himself.

One prisoner said Duffy was upset because Carnera failed to take the count of nine each time he was knocked down. This would have given him additional time to collect his faculties.

• • •

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Primo Carnera will not be able to walk for at least two weeks, Dr. Vincent Fanoni, his physician, said today.

Primo Carnera

The ex-champion's ankle is badly swollen and x-rays will be taken today to determine whether a bone is broken.

Primo tore some ligaments when he fell the first time in the first round," Fanoni said. "That's why he could barely stand up in the following rounds, and went several times to the floor without being hit."

The physician disclosed that he had wanted the match postponed, due to the bad physical condition of the Italian giant, but that Primo himself insisted the match go on.

"Carnera had a grippe attack two weeks ago," Fanoni said, "but he did not call me until a week later. I told him he must stay in bed but he disobeyed me. Besides the grippe, Primo also had frontal sinus. He was in no condition for the match."

Asked why he pronounced Carnera fit when newspapermen interviewed him before the fight, Fanoni said, "I was instructed to do so, Carnera fearing that any announcement to the contrary would have hurt the gate receipts."

GARRISON, N. Y., June 15.—(UP)—Bill Brown, fiery member of the New York state athletic commission who called Maxie Baer a "bumb" fighter and tried to have the Baer-Carnera title bout postponed because of Maxie's poor condition, said today he was "delighted" that Baer gave the public a run for its money last night.

"I give Maxie credit," Brown said. "He got in there and gave the fans a great show. Most of all, he fought a good clean fight. This was not expected because of the rumors that he would use foul tactics.

"Despite my pre-fight statements about Baer, no one in the world is happier than I to see the heavyweight title back in the United States where it belongs. And I am glad Maxie was the man who brought it back.

"If Maxie will only behave himself, and get a couple of fights under his belt every year, he should be a great credit to boxing as titleholder. The boy has color, even if he is a clown. He makes lots of friends, and that's what counts."

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Primo Carnera did not know he had lost the world heavyweight championship last night until he recovered his senses completely in the dressing room after his fight with Maxie Baer, according to his trainer, Billy DeFoe.

DeFoe, one of the three seconds in Carnera's corner, told the United Press today that Primo was "out of his head" from the time he was floored for the first time in the opening round until he "came to" in the dressing room.

"Primo fought instinctively," DeFoe said. "He didn't know what he was doing. He complained only of his injured ankle; kept saying, 'My foot hurts, my foot hurts.' But he certainly made a game stand."

NEW YORK, June 15,—(UP)—California's Max Baer added another item to the rising sweep of that state's dominance in sport when he acquired the world heavyweight title last night.

Other Californians leading their fields:

Golf—Olin Dutra, U. S. Open champion; Lawson Little, British Amateur champion.

Tennis—Helen Jacobs, queen of the sport, American champion succeeding Helen Wills, also a Californian; Lester Stoefen, American indoor champion and dominant Davis cupper.

Track—Stanford's seven-man team won the I. C. 4-A.

Here's What Happened In Final Round

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Here's what happened in the 20 seconds that won the heavyweight championship for Max Baer:

Carnera, peppered by lefts and rights, was reeling and dazed. Baer swung a vicious right to the head. Carnera swayed and went down. He got up immediately, turned half around and walked—dazed—along the ropes.

Referee Donovan walked beside Carnera, whose lips moved slowly. Donovan stopped the fight, awarding Baer a technical knockout.

Donovan announced that Carnera had asked him to stop the fight. Asked what Carnera had said, Donovan told the United Press:

"I couldn't understand his words."

"How did you know he wanted the fight stopped?"

"By his motions, his condition, his gestures—everything."

Donovan stepped over to the other side of the ring and told newspapermen: "Carnera said, I'm through.' Anyway, it didn't matter because I was going to stop it then.

Carnera was later quoted as saying he did not ask Donovan to end the fight.

U. S. LEADS IN WIGHTMAN CUP TENNIS, 2 TO 1

BY HENRY L. McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 15.—After winning two singles matches in succession, the United States suffered its first set-back in defending the Wightman Cup today when the English doubles team of Miss E. M. Dearman and Nancy Lyle defeated Josephine Cruickshang, Santa Ana, Cal., and Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, 7-5- 7-5.

This left America ahead, two matches to one, at the end of today's play. Sarah Palfrey of Boston defeated Dorothy Round and Helen Jacobs, American women's champion, smothered Peggy Scrivven in earlier singles matches. The winner of four encounters takes the seven-match series.

The doubles defeat was a succession of lost opportunities for the American girls. They were leading 5-3 in the first set at one time, and had reached set-point in the 10th game, only to see the Britons capture the set. Again in the ninth game of the second set the Americans had set-point After first winning the commanding lead of 5-2, Mis Babcock and Miss Cruickshank had victory within their grasp.

In both instances the American players caught buck fever and went to pieces. Throughout the match Miss Babcock was unable to make one volley out of five, while Miss Cruickshank's forehand was erratic.

Miss Jacobs made it clear early in the match that she was out to revenge her defeat by Miss Scrivin in the French women's finals recently. The match was hardly a contest.. Helen drew on all branches of her game, mixing chops, fierce drives and punishing volleys. In each of the two sets she swept through the first four games.

Miss Palfrey's victory was one of the most astonishing in Wimbledon tennis history, but one of the most richly deserved.

Lacking the power and the all-court game of her stronger rival, the slender American girl was forced to rely on strategy and subtlety. Throughout the match she found the weak spots in Miss Round's game with artistic precision.

MRS. CAMPBELL WINS

Even to par, Mrs. Dean Campbell won first place in a match play tournament for women at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday. Mrs. L. J. Bushard, two downs, was second, and Mrs. G. B. Talbert and Mrs. Hugh Shields, third, three down. Mrs. W. F. Kistinger, five down, won in Class B, followed by Mrs. N. W. Miller, seven down.

STARS TO PLAY ANAHEIM, H. B. NEXT 2 NIGHTS

Santa Ana will try to land the old one-two punch tonight and tomorrow.

Playing Anaheim at Anaheim this eve, and Huntington Beach here Saturday, the Stars make their supreme bid for first-half championship honors in the National Night Ball league.

Both contests are of paramount importance, not only to the conference in general, which is in the midst of the warmest flag race in its history, but also to the participating clubs which are among the numerous mathematical first-place contenders.

Anaheim now has won seven straight games from Santa Ana, and Manager Bill Cole figures it time for the percentage to swing the other way. The Stars thought they had the string snapped the last time they met the Valencias, which was their first meeting this term, but Anaheim's timely hitting and the Stars' failure to find wise old "String" McDonnell in the pinches eventually gave Anaheim a 3-0 decision, although Jim Coates hurled five-hit ball.

In view of his previous success, McDonnell again is expected to get Anaheim's assignment. The veteran had fine control, keeping his fast one low and inside, and not issuing a single walk. He is hard to beat when he can throw them there without getting in the hole.

Manager Cole has not decided who'll work for the Stars, may not make up his mind until the last minute. Coates may get the assignment, and again Cole may choose to save his ace for Huntington Beach. And if Coates waits for the Oilers, Cole isn't saying whether he'll shoot Ira DeBusk or Wilbur Stinchfield against Anaheim.

A new first baseman, Ernie Holbrook, is scheduled to make his debut with the Santa Ana club. Holbrook plays that position for the University of Southern California varsity. He is without experience in the night game, but with Sid Daley apparently serious in his hold-out role, the time has come when Cole believes it necessary to break in somebody at the bag. The manager feels there is nothing to be gained waiting longer.

In addition to being a ball star for the Trojans, Holbrook is rated one of the finest basketball players on the coast. He is a tall, rangy youth of 6:3, who bats either from the right or left side of the plate. He lives in Long Beach.

Daley, one of the Stars' most valuable members, has been placed on the suspended list, a technical gesture so that the club won't exceed the league's player limit of 14. Daley's indisposition caught Santa Ana officials unprepared. Cole had to play first base himself at Olive, and "Bomo" Koral, a catcher, operated against Fullerton last Tuesday.

Joe Koral, younger brother of "Bomo," has signed a Santa Ana contract and will be with the squad as utility infielder. Joe hit .364 as a substitute last year, batting 33 times.

SOLIS WINNER OVER MARTINEZ IN SLOW BOUT

Years come and years go, but boxing fans go on forever. They never change likes or dislikes. They like fighters, dislike boxers.

Raoul Solis and Manuel Martinez, a couple of skillful lightweights, gave Orange County Athletic club customers a beautiful boxing lesson last night, but all they mustered for their efforts was a loud and lusty Bronx cheer from a well populated house.

Solis was awarded the decision after five rounds by Referee Freddie Gilmore. Most of the fans thought Martinez was entitled to more consideration, and press row was divided in opinion, although the concensus favored Solis.

Bout ISow, Uninteresting

It was a slow and uninteresting contest, particularly drab after a thrilling semi-windup which immediately preceded it. In the semi, little Paddy Quillen (Gilian), a happy chappy on anybody's card, took a decision from Bobby Perez after five rounds of he-man fighting by 112-pound midgets. Quillen had an edge in four heats, flooring Perez in the first one, but he never outclassed Perez. Action was fast, spirited.

Too strong and experienced, Jack Curley outroughed Westminster's Nino Reyes for three rounds and stepped him with a short right to Reyes' chin in the fourth.

After absorbing considerable leather in the first two rounds, Benny Gomez came back in the next two to grab a decision from Freddie Garcia. They were roly-poly heavyweights.

Brown Beaten by Elias

Rudy Elias of Watts decisioned Santa Ana's Paul Brown, thanks mostly to a third-round knockdown.

Art Hernandez shaded George Lira, the referee's ballot deciding a close engagement when the judges disagreed.

Referee Gilmore stopped the Art Aroya?Frank Gomez struggle between the second and third when he found the outclassed but game Arroya's nose was broken.

Ken Makuiyama knocked out Jack Collins in the first, Collins being badly outweighed. Basil Mc? Dowell, the weight-lifter, outpointed Joe Castillo, Gil Martinez opened the show b ytaking an unpopular decision from Art Torres.

Next Thursday's main event will match Leo Popez and Pappy Quillen, and Bill Wana with Paul Garcia.

Max Popular Everywhere-- But Studios

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—(UP)—Maxie Baer, now that he is heavyweight champion, can lay aside his gloves and resume his film career.

Observers are laying odds he'll be back soon, lured by the offers of at least two studios. Popular as he may be with the studio heads, he is no great favorite of those who worked with him in his first and only picture.

Co-workers did not take to his robust sense of humor nor his manner of carrying his honors.

"If that guy comes back to this lot," grumbled one actor, "they'll have to enlarge the front gate to fit his head."

But his bluster wa sthe most painful ordeal for the film colonists. Joan Crawford was staggered when Maxie chirruped, "Hello, Baby," in acknowledging an introduction. Lupe Velez was, miracle of miracles, all but speechless when the curly-haired giant swung her up in his arms.

"I tell Johnny," shrieked Lupe. She meant Johnny Weismuller, her husband.

"Who the heck is Johnny?" smiled Maxie. "He's just a swimmer."

Gardiner, Hockey Ace, Is Summoned

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, June 15.—(UP)—Charles ("Chuck") Gardiner, captain of the world champion Chicago Black Hawks and outstanding goal tender in the National Hockey league for several seasons, was mourned today by thousands of friends and admirers throughout Canada and the United States.

The young curly-haired Scot died suddenly from a brain tumor a few hours after he was taken to the hospital. He had been ill since Sunday, growing steadily weaker until he passed into a coma.

CALIFORNIA'S CREW 'KEEPSIE FAVORITE

The Poughkeepsie regatta will be broadcast by KFI and KHJ, beginning about 3:15

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 15.—(UP)—Seven varsity crews bid for National rowing honors tomorrow night in the annual renewal of the Intercollegiate Rowing association regatta over the four-mile course on the Hudson.

The 1934 race will be another East-against-West affair. Two boatloads of brawny young giants from the Pacific slope carry the buaden of favor, with California getting whatever edge can be given in an event fraught with uncertainties of weather, tide and river surface.

Washington which holds a victory over California early this season, shares favor with the Berkeley eight, while Cornell, with the heaviest boatload on the river, is expected to land the Eastern pack. Ranged close behind these are the four remaining crews of the East, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, the Navy and Columbia.

FUN A-FISHIN'

BY JIMMY DONAHUE
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

There's many a slip 'twixt the water and the net, and more fish than you realize are lost just as the angler is leading his captive up to the mesh.

There's a right way and a wrong way to net a fish, and netting bass caught on multi-ganged hooks and trout caught on a tuft of feathers and hair calls for two different methods. Both fish, however, are netted with one general principle in mind—never pull the fish to you and then plunge the net into the water, pull the fish over it, and then scoop him up.

In netting trout, pull the fish into the net head first. This prevents it from lashing it tail on the lower meshes of the net and getting enough leverage to leap out, as it would if landed tail first.

In netting a bass or a pike caught on a plug with several gang hooks, the hooks sometimes become tangled in the mesh of the net and prevent the fish from entering head first.

This delay often is the cause of losing the fish, for at the sight of the net he puts up his last battle and, with the hooks secured in the net, obtains leverage enough to twist himself loose.

One thing to remember before you start on a trip is to carry along a net large enough for your fish. You can't land a 30-inch pike in a 24-inch bass net.

Baer's shares—20 per cent of the net, less Milk Fund deduction, or $65,044.31.

Saturday— Huntington Beach at Santa Ana.

Overcoming a five-run lead in the last two innings, Huntington Beach defeated Olive, 9-8, and moved into a three-way tie for first place in the National Night league at Olive last night.

The Packers hammered "Chico" Sabella out of the box in the seventh inning when they increased an early advantage to 8-3. The veteran Howard Morning finished nicely, got credit for the win when Joe Rodgers' Oilers put on a five-run rally in the eighth which sent Rudy Heman reeling to the showers. Hits by Maness, Smith, Morning, Osborn and Zaby, interspersed with several wild pitches by Paul Watson, who replaced Heman during the orgy, tied the score at 8-8.

Huntington Beach made its winning run off Watson in the ninth. Bob Smith led off with his fourth double of the evening, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Pete Osborn's single.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

© 1934 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

To cute Jack Horner, Dotty said, "About you I have often read. I never thought, however, you could do what you have done.

"I wonder if you'd let me try to pull a plum out of your pie. It is a real good trick, and I'll bet it's lots of fun."

"There's no use trying," Jack replied. "There are no more fine plums inside. My mother put just one in, so that I could do my trick.

"This pie is full of apples, lad. That ought to make you feel real glad, 'cause you are going to eat it. When it's gone, the pan I'll lick."

* * *

"Hurray," cried Duncy. "Let's start now. I'll very gladly show you how to get rid of a great big piece. It will not take me long."

Then Dotty said, "Each piece will be the same size. Gee, I cannot see why you are always pigish, when you know that it is wrong."

The pie was cut by Goldy, and the Tinymites agreed 'twas grand. When wee Jack Horner licked the pan, it made the Tinies roar.

Soon Coppy said, "Well, thank you, son. Now, on our way we'd better run. We'll travel down the road to see what new sights are in store."

* * *

"Why, say," said Jack. "Not far from here, there is a milkmaid. She's a dear. Why don't you go and help her milk? A nice cool drink you'll get."

And so the Tinies started out, and soon the bunch heard Windy shout, "I see a girl right now. She is the sweet milkmaid, I'll bet."

The whole crowd rushed up, unafraid. "Where are you going pretty maid?" asked Duncy. "Why, amilking, sir," the kindly maid replied.

"Oh, can we watch you," Goldy said. The girl replied, "Sure! Come ahead! While I am at the task, you all can stand right by my side."

D. D. Waynick, of Anaheim, chairman of the citrus department of the Orange County Farm Bureau today advised that the activities of this department have been divided into three sub-committees, each of which will handle certain phases of the work. Those sub-committees and their programs are as follows:

Production committee— Harold Brewer, Orange, chairman; labor problems; dependability of estimates; and conservative irrigation programs.

Stabilization committee—J. L. Wheeler, Laguna Beach, chairman; general problems of stabilization; uniformity in accounting systems in packing houses; proper publicity in handling citrus matters; the Teague plan or any other plan of compensaton for lower grade fruit; pooling methods within a packing house; and methods of distribution to the retailers and through chain stores.

Standardization committee—Perry Mathis, Anaheim, chairman; uniformity in enforcement of all statutes now on the books; careful check of methods of determining maturity; and checking of problems of weed seed and certification of manures.

THE FABLE OF THE BOTHERED BAKER

"Years ago, a bakery in Los Angeles was so over-run with ants as to make it almost impossible for the proprietor to carry on his business. He tried all of the usual remedies without avail and finally decided that if he was to get rid of the nuisance, he would have to devise a remedy himself. The result of his efforts was that marvelous ant exterminator known throughout the length and breadth of California as Kellogg's Ant Paste. Its effect upon ants is almost uncanny. You simply spread a little around where the ants are accustomed to enter, and the speed with which they vacate a house is almost unbelievable. So many of the baker's friends and neighbors asked him for a supply of this wonderful paste that he finally abandoned his baking business and started manufacturing the ant remedy. Its use resulted in a growth that today has made it the leading ant exterminator in this part of the country and there is hardly a drug store in which it cannot be found."

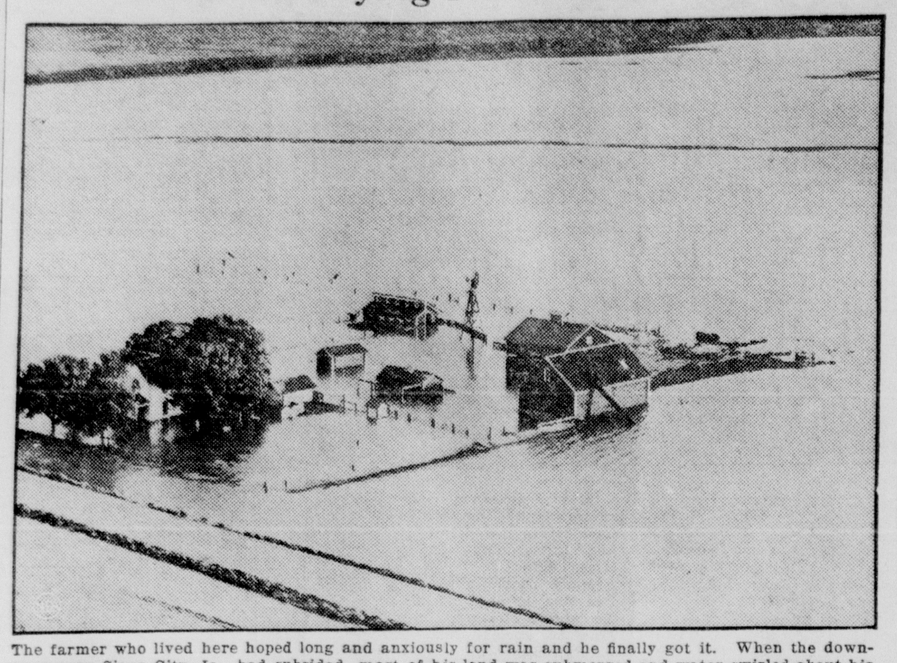

APPROACHING CAR FRIGHTENS THIEVES

Believed to have been frightened away by the lights of an automobile, thieves who broke into the service station and garage of Bob Hill at Seventeenth and Huntington Beach boulevards Wednesday night, failed to secure any loot.

Four windows were broken in the two buildings to gain entrance it was learned from Deputy Sheriffs James Ragan and Herman Zabel, who investigated the case. A woman drove up to the garage shortly after the men entered, it is believed, and they fled from the garage.

Three men who entered a nearby restaurant are suspected of being the ones who broke into the garage.

From the Frying Pan Into the Flood

The farmer who lived here hoped long and anxiously for rain and he finally got it. When the downpour near Sioux City, Ia., had subsided, most of his land was submerged and water swirled about his porches and through his barnyard. Drainage can[illegible]s and creeks in northern and western Iowa overflowed and the torrents swept many square miles of farming country, forcing families to flee homes.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERNA RAMSEY

The works of Edith Wharton are characterized by a finished style and a refreshing frankness. Her autobiography "A Backward Glance" will take its place as one of the most entertaining and important memoirs of our day. She was brought up in the gracious fashionable "Old New York" so often described in her novels. From this picturesque Manhattan of Dutch and Colonial origins she is able to draw from her early memories delightful pictures of the people and the customs in the glamorous seventies and eighties and to indicate how life was affected by its contracting narrowness and amplitude.

While very young she was taken abroad. The old world colors of 19th century Rome, the beauties of Spain's Alhambra, Paris in the days of the Empress Eugenie—these sights were impressed on her mind and stirred her imagination. Subsequently she spent much of her time abroad, in England, on the Riviera, and in Florence and Venice. Finally, after establishing an American home in the seclusion of the Berkshires, she decided to remain permanently in France.

Mrs. Wharton's life has been passed among many interesting personal associations. In these pages will be found penetrating and original sketches of such well known personages as Henry James, Theodore Roosevelt, Paul Bourget, Thomas Hardy, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, George Meredith, and many others, among them painters, dramatists, musicians and statesmen.

In addition to these intimate glimpses of prominent figures, the book is also the story of the career of the artist. It tells how "The Age of Innocence," "[illegible] Frome," "The House of Mirth" and other masterpieces were written. Interest in this portion of the volume will be natural enough, for Mrs. Wharton's work has always been her life and through work she has won a place as one of the greatest contemporary novelists.

The story of American transportation is one of the most colorful phases of our history. In "Old Waybills" Alvin F. Harlow gives us the sweepingly dramatic history of the express companies.

As these express companies grew so did the nation. So development is so definitely interwoven that this special epic in transportation is a large chapter in America's history. Until recently a unique private enterprise, the express system has been synonymous with the true spirit of continental expansion. It has exerted a major influence since before the Civil War, during the war itself, in the days of graft and big business, and on up to the present era of consolidation and change.

We read the story from the very beginning. The panorama is spread before us from the days when pioneering expressmen carried parcels in carpet bags to the miraculous airplane shipments of today. There are specially romantic chapters on the days of the famous highway robberies, the Overland Mail, the Pony Express, the great wars between competitors and famous train robbers. Studding the narrative are quick and penetrating portraits of express company personalities, William F. Harndon, Alvin Adams, Henry Wells, William C. Fargo, E. H. Virgil, Ben Holloway and other giants of the business.

Alvin F. Harlow was born to a natural love of the glamour of transportation. His father was an expressman and the son spent no small part of his boyhood on or about railroad trains. His book involved besides this experience of his own, an immense amount of research and is based upon documentary evidences. "Old Waybills" is a masterly piece of skillful condensation and swift narrative art.

Historians in interpreting the nineteenth century have laid stress on many and varied aspects of the period. On the other hand special features of it have been entirely neglected. An example of such neglect is the role played by the Rothschild family in the nineteenth century. The object of "The Rise of the House of Rothschild" by Count Egon Caesar Corti is to appraise the important influence of this family of the period not only in Europe but throughout the world.

From a small retail trader in a dirty ghetto of Frankfort to controllers of the destiny of the nations of Europe. From one who changed small money to those who handled the gold of continents. From one despised, trampled Jew to those who knew kings and emperors.

This was the rise of the family of Rothschild—one of the most extraordinary stories the world has known. It was Meyer who started in a ghetto and who left to his five sons the foundation of a growing banking business. It was these five sons who developed this business into one of the largest and most powerful international financial firms in the history of the world. The story of the Rothschilds is intertwined with history—with Napoleon and his wars—with such figures as Metternich, Ledrantz and Wellington.

Count Corti has given us more than a retelling of the facts. He has delved deep into the period and brought it to life. He has made the Rothschilds live again. Each one stands forth with his unique genius for money affairs. There is romance and fascination in this vivid recounting of a glamorous period and an even more glamorous family.

"We believe the total work pledged will be carried out, perhaps more, and the mailing in of compliance slips showing individual jobs finished bears out this belief."

JAYCEE ALUMNI CONCLUDE YEAR WITH REUNION

Renewing friendships made on the campus, more than 75 alumni, former students and teachers of the Santa Ana Junior College met last night in the "Y" hut for the tenth annual June reunion of the alumni association.

At an election of officers held at the close of the meeting, Fred Humiston, '30, was elected president; Marian Parsons, '31, vice president; Katherine Spicer, '30, secretary; and Minor Whitford, '33, treasurer. Outgoing officers were John Dunlap, '31, president; Florence Brownridge, '30, vice president; Jeannette Lutes, '33, secretary; and Joe Warner, '30, treasurer.

Following introductions of everyone present, short talks on college experiences and activities of alumni were given by Baxter Geeting, Leonard Morris, Fred Humiston, Robert O'Brien, Charles Warmer, and several faculty members, including Mrs. Jennie L. Tessmann, Miss Mabel Whiting, L. L. Beeman and H. O. Russell.

Alumni projects during the past year included the publishing of an alumni edition of the school paper, two page alumni section in yearbook for first time, publications exhibit for Fiesta, Christmas dance in Long Beach, contacts with the more than 1000 college alumni, and assistance with the Freshman Prom, which followed the reunion last night.

Miss Mary Nalle headed the refreshment commitee while Florence Brownridge, Katherine Robbins and Velma Bishop assisted with program arrangements.

HONOR AWARDS GIVEN JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS

Four Santa Ana Junior High school students today were in possession of the coveted American Legion annual awards, given to the two students in each junior high school who are judged best in their particular school for honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service.

As a special part of the graduation exercises last night at Willard school, Harold Tucker and Audrey Barnes were presented with the American Legion medals and certificates, after having been selected by teachers of the school from the honor students as those rating the highest in the five qualities.

Helen Warner and Jack Hutton were rated highest for the five qualities in Julia Lathrop Junior High school, and were given their awards at the graduation exercises Wednesday night.

Selected by teachers in each school, the students were rated on percentages. Each of the four selected received more than 95 per cent in the judging.

The awards were made by George Richardson, chairman of the Americanism committee of Santa Ana Legion Post No. 131, who is in charge of the Legion program.

Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson spoke briefly, calling attention to the value of the Legion program and thanking the veterans for their interest in education and the schools.

YOUNG URGES ECONOMY IN TALK AT CLUB

Urging the most rigid economy in state government ever known, but warning that 75 per cent of the state's general expenses are "fixed charges" and cannot be cut, ex-Governor C. C. Young, candidate for governor, delivered an informational address yesterday noon before members of the Santa Ana Lions club and guests at James' cafe.

"Many people have an exaggerated idea of what can be cut from the state's budget," said Young. "The 30 special funds are self-maintaining, without either surpluses or deficits, the expenses being cut in dull times to meet the revenues.

"Of the general fund, 75 per cent are charges fixed by the constitution or otherwise, and cannot be reduced. Of the remaining 25 per cent, $13,000,000 have been cut by the last legislature—not as soon as it should have been done, to be sure. But still further reductions can be made, and they must be made to avoid further deficits.

"The difficulties are not insurmountable. We have abundant resources, courage and good sense, and it will take the combined wisdom of the state to find the best way to meet the situation."

Young urged that a new tax system be devised, spreading the burden so it would not bear too heavily on anyone. He suggested a conference of 40 or 50 representative people of the state to make a careful survey of unnecessary expenditures, and to meet the problem of securing new revenues on a permanent, equitable basis.

The speaker revealed that he is accumulating tax data from other states looking for ideas for California. He commended the increasing interest in governmental affairs by the public, and said that the state's business is the biggest business in California, with all residents as stockholders.

The California state government has taken over some $40,000,000 annually in school costs, and is relinquishing $30,000,000 of income back to the local tax rolls January 1 by eliminating the gross income tax on public utilities, Young said, and it is necessary that permanent incomes be devised to meet this new burden and loss of income.

Among expenses being borne by the state he gave $3,000,000 for old age pensions, $2,000,000 for care of orphans, one-half the expense of superior courts, 45 per cent of elementary and high schools, part of the junior college expense, and all of the expense of state universities, teacher colleges and all state administrative offices.

Young pointed out that when he retired from the governor's chair, three and a half years ago, there was a surplus of $31,000,000 in the general fund, partly accumulated under Governors Stephens and Richardson, $11,000,000 paid in under the King tax bill by large corporations, and some $12,000,000 saved during his own term.

Since that time, he said, "More money has been spent than should have been spent," pointing out that the state deficit at the present time is $21,000,000, that by the end of the fiscal year it will reach $31,000,000, and unless something is done, it is likely to be from $111,000,000 to $130,000,000 by the middle of 1937.

"Of course we cannot, and must not, let this happen," he added.

Young called attention to new financial burdens which must be met, as various humanitarian problems are solved.

"We cannot afford to be niggardly in matters of humanitarian concern," he said, pointing out that the state faces new requirements for additions to state institutions, largely prisons, and hospitals for the insane and feeble minded. San Quentin prison now has 6000 inmates, while it was only built to accommodate 2500, he said; inmates of state hospitals are sleeping in hallways, and there is said to be a waiting list of 2000 feeble minded children waiting to get into the children's hospital in Sonoma county. These helpless wards of the state must be more properly cared for, he declared.

Billions of dollars have been rightly spent by the federal government for unemployment relief, the speaker said, but even the federal treasury cannot bear such a burden indefinitely, at which time, he said, this problem of unemployment will also face the state and must be met.

J. F. Burke spoke briefly, preceding Young's talk, saying it seems likely, as some club member had suggested, that Young might be the "next governor," and that "he would make a good one, for we know by experience."

Ernest H. Layton, third vice president of the club, presided at the gathering, and Don Jerome was program chairman for the day. Several of the club officers were absent at the district convention being held in Santa Cruz. Carl Stein was introduced as the newest member of the club.

At next Thursday's meeting, George T. Shaffer, Los Angeles attorney, will discuss taxation and the economic crisis, it was announced.

STUDENT FINED $50 ON SPEEDING COUNT

Speeding at 58 miles per hour and having four persons in the front seat of his car will cost Charles Wharton, 20, Pomona college student, the sum of $50 paid in $5 monthly installments.

Wharton came before Judge Kenneth E. Morrison Wednesday after having been arrested by California Highway Patrolman Oscar Kelly north of Santa Ana on May 30.

Dust oiling now under way on the state highway between Jamul and White Star, the lower road from San Diego to Boulevard, is expected to be finished by the end of July.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

©1934 NEA SERVICE, INC

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, Madeline Siddal, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of this deception but keeps it up, even when Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Amos Siddal, Madeline's grandfather who owns the farm, is blind. Mrs. Planter, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

Donna and Bill are married. Meanwhile Madeline has married Con David, circus animal trainer, and takes part in the animal act.

Amos Siddal has a stroke.

In New Orleans Madeline goes into the cage with the Bengal tiger and is killed. Con is discharged. Unable to get work, he decides to go to the Siddal farm.

From the nearby town he sends a note to Donna who agrees to telephone him later. Mrs. Planter, now working at the hotel, learns of Con's arrival.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIV

Whatever Mrs. Planter's motive for telephoning to Donna may have been, she was smiling as she hung up the receiver. Not for an instant did she believe the girl did not know Con David was in Lebanon, and the fact that she had pricked Donna's bubble of happiness was worth several rebuffs.

Her hatred for Donna had become an obsession. Although her gossip about the Siddal family had been limited to innuendoes, due to the fact that she had no proof to back up more definite statements, Mrs. Planter had been striving for some means of revenge ever since leaving the farm.

"Give a hussy enough rope and he'll hang herself," she muttered. "Pretending just as if she didn't send for him! Of course she did. I'll bet he's her real husband, and poor Bill—I wish I knew just why he married Bill! Mebbe Amos made out his will in favor of Bill and cut her off. No, that wouldn't do her no good if Bill found out he wasn't her husband. Unless—well, murders have been committed for less. I wouldn't put nothin' past a man who's cruel to pore dumb beasts, even if they are wild, and a woman who shows her figger in public without enough clothes to cover her nakedness."

Mrs. Planter did not really believe that Madeline and Con David contemplated murder but, considering herself a God-fearing, righteous woman, it was necessary for her to have some logical reason for her hatred, and thus she supplied herself with an excuse for her action.

If Donna slept little that night, neither did the former housekeeper. For hours Mrs. Planter gloated over the wreck of Donna's happiness. Sooner or later she would confront the girl and the animal trainer together and then—!

Con spent a dull afternoon and a duller evening. When Pete returned and repeated what Donna had said Con decided he would stay in the hotel until the telephone message came. The afternoon hours rolled around but the call did not come. He went down stairs to the office and engaged Rader in conversation, but the hotel proprietor was an inarticulate man, more given to asking questions than answering them, and Con had no intention of explaining his reasons for being in Lebanon util he knew what his reception would be.

Supper over, Con stood outside on the porch and smoked a cigar, vainly waiting summons to the telephone. What little good nature he possessed was sorely tried. He regretted that he had not driven to the farm and confronted Donna without preliminaries.

"If she tries to make a monkey of me," he muttered, "I'll show her where she gets off!"

* * *

Pete's hero worship caused him to join the animal trainer. "Are you going back to the circus?" the boy asked timidly.

"Yes."

"D'ye reckon Madeline Siddal will ever join up with a circus again?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"Mis' Planter says 'taint natural for a show girl to quit and stay quit."

"Who is Mis' Planter?"

"Our cook. She used to work for the Siddals. After Bill Siddal hitched up with Madeline they fired Mis' Planter. Are you going to try to persuade Madeline to come back to the circus with you?"

"Why should I?"

"I dunno. Paw says it's kinder queer, you bein' here, and I thought mebbe that was your reason. She's right pretty, Madeline is, ain't she? But she's queer."

"Queer?"

"Yeah. Stuck up, sort of. Don't pay no attention to anyone and don't ever visit folks. Are all show people that way?"

"Not all." Con moved towards the railing and flicked the ashes from his cigar. "So she seems different than she did before she left home?"

"I dunno about that. I don't recollect her before she went away. Mebbe marryin' blood kin made her different."

"Perhaps." Con stepped off the porch and Pete followed. When Con saw that the small boy was determined to stay with him he started off at a brisk stride down the street. Pete trudged at his heels, hoping that some of his cronies would see them. But the streets were deserted, store windows darkened, and most of the street lamps unlighted.

* * *

It was after 11 next day before Donna found an opportunity to put through the call. The excitement of the holiday, the hearty meal, and later hours than usual had brought about a reaction in Grandfather Siddal's condition. Before daylight Miss Perkins awakened Bill to ask him to call the doctor.

To save time Bill hustled into his clothing, took the car and drove post-haste into town. During the hours that followed Donna had been too worried to think of Con David. Even if she had done so she could not have telephoned him with the nurse and doctor and her husband within ear shot.

But by 11 the doctor had departed. Grandfather Siddal was sleeping, Miss Perkins had gone for a walk, and Bill was doing belated chores. Donna went into the hallway and took down the receiver. Fortunately she did not know that Mrs. Planter worked at the Commercial House or she would have hesitated longer and been more fearful. Knowing the gossip's facility for collecting news, she did not even wonder how she had learned that Con was in town.

Pete Rader answered the telephone. When Donna asked for Mr. David he chirped. "I'll get him right away. He's upstairs."

Though the telephone was in a booth the door did not close properly and anyone in the office could hear a portion of the conversation taking place. Since the day before Mrs. Planter had made frequent opportunities to be in the front hallway or office, hoping for a chance to talk to Con or at least get a good look at him. Consequently as Pete darted out of the office he again came face to face with the former housekeeper. Mrs. Planter was carrying a pad and pencil to jot down the list of vegetables and meat she needed for the day.

Pete's haste knocked both out of her hand.

"You might look where you're going," she mumbled angrily.

"Couldn't. I'm in a hurry. Mr. David's wanted on the telephone."

Mrs. Planter clicked her false teeth together and went into the office. "Mr. Rader," she said, crossing to the desk, "if you've got a minute I'd like to check up this here grocery list. Seems to me Nadels' has charged for more than three dozen eggs and that the butter—" She leaned across the register, resting her bony figure in such a fashion that a glance now and then towards the door would appraise her of Con's entrance.

Rader was a penurious man. While it was against orders for his "hired girls" to hang around the office, if Mrs. Planter was trying to save him money he could overlook a breach of rules. He adjusted his spectacles on his knobby nose and peered at the pad she offered. And he said nothing after the accounts were added to his satisfaction, when the woman crossed to the window and, under pretext of looking outside, stood listening to what Con said over the telephone.

* * *

There was no need for the eavesdropper to hear Donna's words, for Con's replies gave all the information she needed.

"Con?"

"Yes."

"This is Donna."

"It's about time. What's the idea of holding me up?"

"I couldn't phone before. I wasn't alone and my husband—"

"Jealous, eh? Well, listen. I want to see you. Shall I come out there?"

"Oh, no! What do you want? What brings you to Lebanon?"

"You, of course. If I can't come to your house where will you meet me?"

"I—I don't know. I really shouldn't meet you at all. I—I don't want to seem unfriendly, Con, but—well, you see Grandfather—er—old Mr. Siddal is very ill—"

"That's one of the reasons I'm here."

"I don't understand."

"I think you do. I'd like to meet the old man."

"I don't see how it can be arranged. He's bed ridden—"

"Why can't it be arranged?"

"He doesn't know anything about you, Con. And Bill—my husband doesn't like circus folks and—"

"I see. I expect to stick around a while. Maybe he'll like me when he knows me."

"Con, what's come over you? Didn't Madeline tell you—?"

"She told me a lot. Now listen. I don't want to be nasty. You've always been ace-high with me—you know that—even if you did throw me over. And there's a story to that that needs some explaining. I haven't come all this way without a purpose. You'd better see me and see me quick! If you don't I'm coming out here. Where do we meet?"

"I—can't meet you now. If you'll wait—"

"I've been waiting almost 24 hours. Where do we meet?"

"There's a cemetery adjoining the Baptist church. I'll try to be there."

He chuckled. "A cemetery at the Baptist church! A typical trysting place for hick lovers. What time?"

"Tomorrow if I can make it. At noon."

"No, today. It's 11 now. I suppose you've a car?"

"Ye—es."

"At three then."

"Oh, Con!"

"I'll expect you at three in the cemetery. Don't fail me." He hung up the receiver, giving her no chance for refusal.

Mrs. Planter ducked out of the office as Con David opened the dor of the booth.

Naturalization Class Honored by Native Sons, Daughters

Members of the large class of candidates for naturalization were complimented most pleasantly Monday night when Santa Ana parlors of Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West entertained in K. C. hall.

Mrs. W. A. West, president of the Native Daughters, welcomed the candidates graciously on behalf of the host parlors, explaining the object of the meeting and introducing her Americanization chairman, Mrs. Matilda Lemon, secretary of the parlor. Mrs. Lemon then presented the parlor presidents, both Mrs. West and Ivan Harper of the Sons, and introduced the various speakers and entertainers of the program.

Preceding the talks were numbers by youthful entertainers, a toe ballet by Ruth Ellen Saez with her mother, Mrs. Julius Saez of Orange, at the piano and a piano number and a song by Marvel McGill, little pupil of Mrs. Saez. Marvel is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Ford McGill, charter marshal of the parlor, and was the first child born to a member after the parlor's institution. Two young brothers, Ronald and Raymond Marsile, gave humorous readings, "Dutchman and Italian" and "What They Call Them".

Unusually interesting speakers were introduced, beginning with Terry E. Stephenson, recognized authority on pioneer history of this state and especially of the Southland. In his talk on pioneer history and heroes he stressed the point that good citizenship is that in which man renders service in usefulness, and cited various famous leaders.

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools and a native son, talked on the Constitutions both of the United States and of California; the establishment of a national government; personal rights, and the allegiance owed by a citizen to his country whether by birth or by adoption.

Mrs. Golden Weston of the adult education department, spoke on that work especially in preparing classes for citizenship. She was followed by Ivan Harper, Native Sons president, in a talk of congratulation to the class and to its teacher, A. Wieman.

Mr. Wieman told of the pleasant associations in class work and introduced Andrew Pixton, who in behalf of his fellow candidates, expressed appreciation of the work of the teachers and leaders, and of the friendly hospitality of the Native Daughters and Sons. Mrs. Lemon concluded the program with the presentation of small United States and California flags to the class members.

Daughters' Election

Preceding the program, Native Daughters held a short business meeting at which Mrs. Ruth Kotlar was elected president, succeeding Mrs. W. A. West. Mrs. Muriel Bray and Mrs. Marguerite Mize were named first and second vice presidents.

In commemoration of the fine year the parlor has had under Mrs. West's presidency, she was presented with a handsome evening bag. This will be given its first use at the state convention in Santa Cruz. Mrs. West and Mrs. Kotlar plan to leave Saturday as delegates representing Santa Ana parlor.

Young People Exchange Vows at Early June Wedding

Married on June 3, Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer Lighthall have taken up residence at 1412 West Sixth street, where they now are at home to their friends. The bride was Miss Lois Hunting, daughter of Mrs. L. A. Leabo, 1303 South Main street. Mr. Lighthall is son of Mrs. G. S. Lighthall of Orange.

The Leabo home was setting for the ceremony, read in the evening by the Rev. B. R. Spear, pastor of Seventh Day Adventist church. A musical program began at 6:30 o'clock, with Ruth Swanson Lykke singing "At Dawning" and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," accompanied at the piano by Miss Josephine Stamm.

Miss Stamm played a piano solo, "Until", then changing to the notes of Lohengrin's Wedding March to which members of the bridal party entered.

Walter L. Hunting, father of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a formal gown of eyelet embroidered organdy with a corsage bouquet. Lending an effective touch to her costume was a green tiara, enhancing the attractiveness of her blond coloring. She walked in a path scattered with rose petals from a basket carried by little Miss Verna Dean Bennett.

The young people took their places beneath an archway arranged before the fireplace, which had been banked with ferns and sweet peas. Baskets of gladioluses, delphiniums and Transvaal daisies added to the beauty of the setting.

During the reception the new Mrs. Lighthall cut her wedding cake, a tiered confection topped with miniature bridal figures and a good-luck horseshoe. Refreshments of cake and ices were served from a lace-draped table.

For her going away outfit, the bride chose a deep blue taffeta frock with white accessories.

Mr. Lighthall is employed with the General Bottling and Distributing company.

Present for the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Leabo were Messrs. and Mesdames W. O. Patterson, Henry Hickman, Benford Garham, Frank Luck, Jack Eastham, Carl Lykke, Frank Sloan, Vincent Cox, John Davis; the Misses Josephine Stamm, Dorothy Johnson, Martha Zlaket, Dawn Hunting; Mesdames Catherine Stinson, Martha Hardy, John Miller, Kate Walker, Kate Pederson, Sophia Johnson and Messrs. Woman's Club Sections Bring Year's Work To Conclusion

Two of the sections of Santa Ana Woman's club this week brought their series of monthly meetings to a close for the club year with interesting sessions held on two consecutive days.

Wednesday afternoon the Arts and Crafts section met with the leader, Mrs. R. G. Carman, 1815 North Ross street, where the time was about equally divided between work and sociability. Mrs. Carman, who will assume the presidency of the Woman's club for next year, resigned her post as section leader to Mrs. R. C. Harris, elected at a recent meeting.

Light refreshments were served at the tea hour.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. A. King received the Philanthropic section in her home, 223 South Bristol street. There were many members present to take part in the welfare work conducted by this group. Work was begun on another quilt to be used in the section's philanthropies. Mrs. King served refreshments as the afternoon drew to a close.

Interest of the clubwomen just now is directed towards the concluding event of the year, the annual picnic and installation of officers for 1934-35, to be held Tuesday in Laguna Beach. The Laguna Beach Women's club has tendered its clubhouse to the Santa Ana group for the event, and it is probable that the picnic lunch will be enjoyed there at noon unless the weather is fine enough to warrant a beach party.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Maraschino Cherries

5 pounds pitted Royal Annes
3 quarts boiling water
2 tsps. powdered alum
Ice water for blanching.
6 cups sugar dissolved in
2 cups water
Red fruit coloring
Almond nd vanilla extracts.

Yesterday, I was thinking about the round-about-way we prepare home canned Maraschinos, and my curiosity led me to do a bit of experimenting, sufficiently successful to give you the results here.

The whole batch of under-ripe cherries were pitted quickly, weighed and parboiled for 10 minutes in the weak alum solution, drained, and rinsed in the ice water.

The sugar and water were boiled until thick enough to spin a thread, when the full amount of cherries was added, the kettle brought to a rolling boil, then checked to simmering heat, and the cherries cooked for 20 minutes at that pace. During the cooking red fruit coloring must be added, and this you must watch, for I can't give more than a general idea . . . the main thing is to have the cherries a rich red when done.

Fill pint or quart jars with the boiling fruit and syrup, let cool about half and stir into each quart jar 1 teaspoonful of almond extract and 1-8 teaspoonful of vanilla. Fill the jars full with hot syrup, and seal.

The cherries will plump up in about two weeks and you'll find that they hold shape and color just as well as the 'round-about way of doing them.

One hour was the time consumed in doing the whole job —two of us pitting the cherries.

BOOKED FOR DRUNKENNESS

CALLS ALL-BRAN NATIONAL NATURAL LAXATIV

Delicious Cereal Checked His Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Daniels:

"For many years I have been habitually constipated, and have used all sorts of laxatives. So, in fairness to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I heartily claim it to be a most wonderful remedy for constipation.

"Need I tell you that I have long since ceased using laxatives? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the National Natural Laxative. If it were used by every family in the United States for breakfast, we would have a much healthier race of people."—Mr. John Daniels, 1090 Third St., North Bergen, N. J.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this food much pleasanter than risking pills and drugs? Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LANCASTER ROAD

Approximately 90 per cent of the grading on the Cajon-Lancaster cutoff has been completed, reports the National Automobile club.

Daughters of Veterans

Combining an observance of Flag day and Father's day, members of Sarah A. Rounds tent, D. U. V., entertained Tuesday at luncheon in Knights of Pythias hall, with comrades of Sedgwick post G. A. R. as guests of honor.

Luncheon was served at tables brightened with red, white and blue flowers. On the luncheon committee were Miss Minnie Cowan, Mesdames Thelma Willingham, Florence Perry, Nettie Griswold and Gladys Ward. On the kitchen committee were Mesdames Rowena Grout, Olive Willard and Louane Leech.

Mrs. Addie Gardner, president, extended greetings, paying special tribute to the comrades. In celebration of her birthday anniversary, Mrs. Gardner was presented with a birthday cake, which she cut and served with the ice cream of the dessert course.

A song, "The Boys Who Wore the Blue" (Maude Snover-Ayer), written especially for the national convention scheduled for August in New York, was sung by the group, with Mrs. Cora Grahamm directing.

Mrs. C. R. Pollard opened flag day ceremonies, giving a reading, "Hats Off, the Flag is Passing By", Mrs. Geraldine Beall read a history of the American flag and Mrs. Eva Bell, a history of "The Star Spangled Banner". The National anthem was sung, with the Daughters holding flags. By special request of the comrades, "Tenting Tonight" was sung.

Business Interval

Tent members convened for business at 2 p. m., with Mrs. Gardner in the chair. All but two officers were present. Mrs. Jessie Overton, chaplain, conducted memorial services for the late Mesdames Helen Stowe and Alice Merigold.

Invitation was received to participate in the Elks' club Flag day celebration in Santa Ana bowl.

Church Societies

Class Dinner

Following a dinner meeting of First Methodist Two-in-One class held Tuesday evening in the church dining hall, new officers were installed by the retiring president, Dr. John Bower.

Mrs. R. E. Brown became president; Mrs. Joe Randall, vice president; Mrs. E. E. Ulrich, secretary; Mr. Witt, treasurer. Sam Vogt, teacher of the class, paid tribute to Dr. Bower and to Mrs. Bower, who, he explained, had so capably assisted the president during his term of office. Dr. Bower was presented with a basket of flowers, gift of the class.

Sixty class members, with their families, were present for the covered-dish dinner served early in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. George Cocking were on the committee in charge of this feature.

Since wedding anniversaries of Dr. and Mrs. Bower and of Mr. and Mrs. Garner are events of this month, Mrs. E. C. Frandson had baked a four-tiered wedding cake for the occasion.

Eastern Star

Officers and numerous members of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. appeared in colonial costumes for the party which followed the organization's meeting Monday night in Masonic temple.

Mrs. Irma Folger and Harvey Dimmitt, worthy matron and patron, conducted the meeting, during which Mrs. Jessie Todd, worthy matron of Seaside chapter, Huntington Beach, and Mrs. Mae Henry, deputy grand matron, were escorted to the East.

An appropriate program was provided by the Misses Geraldine and Dorothy White, dancing the minuet. A colonial grand march was held and Mrs. Amanda Holmes won the prize for wearing the prettiest costume in the group.

Adjourning to the dining room, members and guests found that tables had been beautifully appointed with lace cloths, tall tapers and silver. Those pouring tea and coffee wore handsome colonial costumes. Throughout this pleasant interval Mrs. Janet Martin played old-fashioned selections at the piano.

On committees for the evening were Mrs. Henrietta Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. George Shipe, R. L. Spaugh and Alex Rez, table decorations; Mrs. Mildred Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prather, Mesdames Nell Pagenkopp, Jessie Overton and Inez Rez, kitchen.

MODEL 5-S

$122.50 Terms to Suit You

4.85 cu. ft. gross; 4.41 cu. ft. net, 8.95 sq. ft. Shelf space. Interior finish, full porcelain. Exterior patented "Dulux." Foot pedal, split shelf. Outside Dimensions, height 56¾ in., width 25½ in., depth 21½ in. 2 in. multi cell insulation. Two ice trays making 56 cubes.

The heart of the Gilfillan refrigerator is a dual action piston type. This type compressor is found only in the best refrigerators and Gilfillan's claim to superiority lies in the fact that it is made as is a Rolls Royce. Each part is hand tooled and fitted to two-ten-thousandths of an inch. Its life in action is comparable to other compressors as is the Rolls Royce to machine made automobiles. Still the fact that there are only three moving parts allows it to compete in price with all others manufactured. Its constant bath in special treated oil assures life-long trouble-free operation.

Section Goes to Beach For Luncheon and Cards

Concluding their meetings for the year, members of Ebell Fifth Household Economics section spent a delightful afternoon in Long Beach Tuesday, going first to the Wayside Colony Brittany Kitchen. Luncheon at 12:30 o'clock was served in a picturesque setting.

Mrs. Herbert Krahling's mother, Mrs. Mary Hershman, had opened her home at 4728 Vista street, Long Beach to the group for the remainder of the afternoon. Mrs. Krahling, chairman of the hostess committee for the day had assistance of Mrs. H. C. Kirk and Mrs. Cood Adams in arranging for the affair.

Mrs. George Raymer, leader, installed officers for the new year; Mrs. D. D. Waynick, leader; Miss Clara Richards, secretary; Mrs. F. F. Mead, assistant leader.

Bridge was played, with Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer scoring high and receiving an Indian pottery jardinier as her award. Mrs. D. D. Waynick, scoring second high, was presented with a floral reflex holder. Mrs. E. C. Diehl was winner of the surprise package.

Members sharing the event were Miss Clara Richards, Mesdames P. B. Gillespie, George Raymer, Anna Towner Ream, L. E. Allen, Tarver Montgomery, A. B. Hollinger, C. B. Hill, Lynn Ostrander, D. D. Waynick, Marguerite Borgmeyer, Cood Adams, Howard Stone, Charles Bowman, E. C. Diehl, Herbert Krahling, D. A. Harwood, Severin Schulte, Carl Klatt, H. C. Kirk, Paul Bailey, F. F. Mead, J. W. Rice. Guests including Mrs. C. E. Renouf of Monterey; Mrs. J. H. Wetrich of Iowa City and Mrs. Jennie Busselle.

Sycamore Rebekahs

Election of officers provided a busy and interesting session for Sycamore Rebekah lodge at its latest meeting in I. O. O. F. hall, where additional interest was lent by a reception complimenting the district deputy, Mrs. George Stovall, a member of Sycamore, following the business meeting, and the covered dish dinner of the early evening hours.

Officers installed were Miss Pearl Nicholson, noble grand; Mrs. Millie West, vice grand; Mrs. Bess Stovall, recording secretary; Mrs. Hazel Ryan, financial secretary; Mrs. Elsie Mae Henry, treasurer, and Mrs. Maude Wylie, trustee for the 18 months term. Miss Nicholson will make her appointments in time for all officers, both elective and appointive, to be installed at a ceremony tentatively planned for July.

New officers shared guest honors at the reception with Mrs. Stovall, who now heads District No. 50, and her marshall, Mrs. Inez Baker.

Miss Nicholson had charge of planning the special program given in their honor. Miss Laura Joiner sang three solos, "Twilight" by Katherine Glenn; "Prelude" by Cyril Scott, and "Once in a Blue Moon" by Howard Fisher. She was accompanied by Halstead McCormac. Miss Verna Marie Osborne played two piano solos, Mendelssohn's E Flat Major Sonata, and "Elfin Dance" by Greig; Harold Lutes concluded the program with cornet solos with Miss Jeannette Lutes at the piano. His numbers were "Con Amour" by Beaumont, and "Solvejg's Song" by Greig.

As a conclusion to the variety offered by the evening's business and social program, Mrs. Herman Zabel and her committee served home-made cookies and punch to the scores of assembled guests.

You never tasted such Strawberry Jam!

Discover for yourself this flavor secret, and start your strawberry jam today; it's so easy with Certo!

WHAT'S better than plenty of good home-made strawberry jam when winter months roll around? You can't put up too much of it!

So take a tip—as soon as strawberry specials come to town, go to your grocer and stock up on berries, Certo and sugar. Then follow the Certo recipe given here for best results with 1934 berries.

You get truly marvelous strawberry jam. Such fine true-fruit flavor! Many women will put up double the usual amount this year with strawberries so inexpensive and delicious.

When you use Certo you will need to boil your jellies or jams only a few minutes. Hence the fruit juice does not boil away, and you never get that "boiled-down" taste that comes with long, tedious boiling. Often you get half again more jam. And of course you save lots of time and trouble, too.

Certo—the pure fruit pectin—is sold by all grocers. It is a product of General Foods.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST STRAWBERRY JAM

Certo Laboratories report this recipe best for use with 1934 berries. See also Special Strawberry News below.

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar. Juice of ½ lemon
½ bottle Certo

To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts ripe berries or crush so that each berry is reduced to pulp.

Measure sugar, prepared fruit, and lemon juice into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 4 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in Certo. Pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces).

SPECIAL STRAWBERRY NEWS!

Read carefully before making Strawberry Jam

1934 will be a good strawberry year. Plan to start your Certo jam cupboard with the first luscious strawberries. This year we've had unusual weather conditions and fruits may vary more widely than usual in moisture content.

The Certo laboratories recommend that for strawberry jam you boil the fruit and sugar mixture of 1934 berries four minutes instead of one—and for even better results and keener flavor, add the juice of half a lemon. (Recipe above.)

ORANGE THIEF IS GIVEN SIX MONTHS

ANAHEIM, June 15.—When George Miller, alias George Sesvechan of Los Angeles started stealing oranges in this district he selected the wrong grove to loot and because of this wrong choice will serve six months in the county jail. According to information revealed at the trial Miller, or Sesvechan was arrested by Walter Dungan of the Orange county fruit patrol after having robbed the grove of Dungan's father at Garden Grove. Dungan was at home when the theft occurred and saw the thief driving away with a laden truck. When taken in custody Miller was found to be in possession of 160 pounds of oranges valued at $3.60. He said that he had only 30 cents and had stolen the fruit because he and his family were hungry. Searched at the jail however Miller was found to have concealed $32 in a shoe.

SOCIETY

Former Octet Members Attend Shower for Bride-elect

Shared by an intimate group of friends who composed Santa Ana High School Girls' Octet in 1933, a shower given recently in the home of Miss Trudis Johnson, 920 West Sixth street, came as a surprise compliment to Miss Elva Ringland, soon to become the bride of Paul Elsner.

Miss Johnson and Miss Winifred Triplett joined as hostesses at the event, which proved a happy reunion for the group of girls whose pleasant associations at school had been heightened by their activities in connection with the octet. Some of the group still attend high school, others have since been graduated.

The girls enjoyed singing together during the evening. Refreshments were served at a table lighted with pink tapers and appointed with clever little pink cellophane bags of rice. All decorative details conformed to a pink and white theme. Served with the supper was a decorated cake bearing the musical emblem of the octet. A pleasant feature of this hour was the showering of gifts on Miss Ringland, whose marriage is to take place on June 29.

Present with Miss Ringland, were the Misses Trudis Johnson, Winifred Triplitt, Alice Martin, Marijane Belcher, Bonnie Hamilton, Elizabeth Garlock, Agnes Brady and Dorothy Gutzmann, who served the octet as pianist.

Early Morning Wedding Takes Place in Anaheim

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lombard have returned from their honeymoon trip in the mountains and this week are taking up their residence at 1319 West Washington avenue.

The marirage of Mrs. Alma Dritschel and Mr. Lombard took place Sunday morning, June 10 at 8 o'clock in the parsonage of Anaheim Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, with the pastor, the Rev. Henry Schmelzer officiating.

For the early morning rites, the bride was attractive in a white swagger suit with which she wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias and blue delphiniums. Mrs. Frank Sawyer as matron of honor wore a similar costume with a gardenia corsage. Mr. Sawyer was best man.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Veron Lombard, was present for the quiet ceremony.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lombard and Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer motored to Long Beach for breakfast, the bride and bridegroom then continuing to the mountains near Los Angeles for a few days' stay.

Mr. Lombard is employed at the Sawyer Motor company. His bride is continuing in her duties with Southern California Telephone company.

Church Societies

Lutheran Dinner

To honor members who have been received into St. Peter Lutheran church since the Rev. H. W. Meyer became pastor, the congregation held an old-fashioned covered-dish dinner Tuesday evening at Jack Fisher park. About 160 members and their families took part in the affair.

New members were accorded a warm welcome by Mr. McFarland, on behalf of the congregation and church council; Mrs. Guy Koons, for the Ladies' Aid; Miss Wilma Zentner, on behalf of the Luther League.

The Rev. Mr. Meyer introduced new members, with William H. Fields responding in behalf of the honored group. A group from the church choir, R. Hartley, G. Krock, C. Gutzman, T. Eklund, R. Hubbell, R. Nordstrom and J. M. Bergsetter sang several numbers. Congregational singing was led by Mr. Hartley, director of the choir.

Special program features included a pantomime, "Meller-Drama" put on by the Luther League under direction of Miss Janet Yetmar.

Mrs. Guy Koons, general chairman of the evening, had assistance of members of the Aid society, Luther League and Brotherhood in planning the event.

Ladies' Aid

St. Peter Lutheran Ladies' Aid held a monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church basement, with 19 members and 6 visitors in attendance.

The meeting was opened with Scripture reading and prayer, with a short song service. The monthly missionary lesson, 'We Would See Jesus in Our Home," was interestingly discussed and explained by Mrs. Lydia Yetmar.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Zelma McFarland.

Woman's Forum

Woman's Forum spent an interesting afternoon Tuesday in the Y. M. C. A., where hostesses for luncheon served preceding the program were Dr. Julia Hinrich, Mrs. Roy Buckles and Mrs. Sam Hurwitz.

Mrs. F. E. Harrison was toastmistress, introducing Mrs. Gertrude Case as first speaker. Her topic was "National Public Schools." Mrs. Angeline Courtney spoke on "World Breeding," stating that at the present rate of increase, Tokio would be the largest city in the world in about ten years.

Mrs. C. W. Hollister, a former member of the Forum, spoke on "Shopping in the Orient," displaying numerous souvenirs from China and Japan. Mrs. Arthur Bauer discussed "My Trip to Yosemite."

Mrs. John Clarkson gave a brief review of "New Deal" by President Roosevelt, after which she offered criticisms of the afternoon's talks.

Student Recital

Presenting a number of his pupils in a piano recital of recent date in his home studio, 617 North Ross street, Harry Garstang welcomed an appreciative audience of parents and friends of the young people.

The piano program included "Hungarian Dance" and "Flower Song" played by Anna May Beeche; "Midnight Fire Alarm March" by Max Nohe; "Minuet" and "The Secret" by Gloria Clouse; "Home and Harbor Waltz" by Constaoce Duffy; "Ben Hur Chariot March" and "Ice Palace" by Jerome Duffy; "Betrothal March" and "Comrades in Arms" by Constance Btown; "Polonaise in A" and "Fair Elise" by Luella Bronson; "Acognonaise" by Elbert Steward, and "The Butterfly" by Dorothy Eddy.

NRA U.S. WE DO OUR PART

A MASTER CRIMINAL AND HIS ACCOMPLICES

It would not appear possible, were we not confronted with the plain facts, that a man in the heart of the United States, and in plane or prairie country, thickly dotted with villages and cities, after breaking out of a jail and murdering officers and civilians, could elude capture for so many weeks as has the bandit Dillinger.

There is a sort of irony in the news coming from Washington that Attorney General Cummings believes that Dillinger is alive. So uncertain is the head of the federal government's department of justice, as to the real facts concerning Dillinger, that he is not even certain whether he is alive and well, or dead and buried.

There have been many discussions of this condition, and many reasons advanced for such possibilities. But those European nations which have relatively so little law violation, compared with our own country, must consider that our interior is still as wild and as uninhabited as the center of Australia.

They probably picture a vast and mountainous region infested with bandits, in which such culprits as Dillinger can find refuge. But the truth is that nature is not affording Dillinger protection. Human beings are his support, his strength and his defense.

Every day men and women are culpable, who are hiding and feeding him. And the fact that his whereabouts are concealed and that officers are fleeing hither and thither, allegedly trying to find him, does not speak well for organized society.

Under one excuse and another, many of our so-called "best" people excuse and defend law violation. The so-called "best" ones defend it when large groups take the law into their own hands in sections like Imperial Valley, of which General Glassford complains.

The ripe fruit, however, of all this is an exhibition of handclapping in a theater when Dillinger's wolfish countenance is thrown on the screen.

It is fast reaching the point where a man might with profit issue a publication in respect to laws, as they have issued them in respect to individuals. They have "Who's Who in America." We might issue a book: "What Laws are Laws in California?" or whatever particular state in which we may happen to be.

Of course we would have to get out new editions year after year as different administrations selected different laws as the object of their solicitude.

Intelligence will finally have to concur in adopting certainly one of two premises, either that we must be ruled by rules or laws, or ruled by the caprice of men.

It has been conceived that as men have developed through education and have enlarged their vision, the rules of conduct should be agreed upon by representatives selected from the citizens, and that those rules of conduct would be obeyed by all those who were good citizens, and the bad ones would be forced to obey them.

But special interests of various kinds have made exceptions, or attempted to make exceptions, and they have succeeded so well that they have broken down general respect for all law. The liquor sellers are cases in point.

But all of us are members of some organizations which are endeavoring to change the laws constantly to meet the demands of those who want to do something against the interest of society. And then if they cannot get them changed, they can at least get them out from under their penalties, such as our automobile associations will help us in doing, or at least represent us as a part of their work for the yearly fee.

When we have reached the point that we will all act upon the idea that the laws are made for US and not for THEM, and that WE will obey them and not evade them, we can breed respect for law in society, and such episodes as the meteoric career of Dillinger will be impossible.

AFTER TWO THOUSAND CIVILIZING YEARS

One cannot read the news of a prize fight, such as took place last night at the Madison Square Garden bowl, and feel that it ought to be classed with "sports."

A "sport" which permits, as a public spectacle, the battering of a man's face into rawness and smashing him until he is practically unrecognizable, partakes of the character of the brutality of the Roman forum, when gladiators beat each other into insensibility and death with their iron-bound fists.

We had thought, as we read of these episodes in our college days, that the Roman populace must have been not very far removed from savagery, that they would enjoy such a cruel and gory spectacle.

But here in 1934, 60,000 people, in the center of the metropolis of the greatest democracy that ever existed, pay nearly half a million dollars to see a contest no less bloody and brutal, and shout themselves into positive hysteria through their approval of the fight which lasted less than 45 minutes.

They call this "boxing!" We cannot believe that those who are closely allied and financially interested in this kind of an affair are deceived in its character for a moment, and as they meet together behind closed doors, with the public outside, we cannot help imagining that they must laugh with each other over the methods by which they get public approval of such programs through legislation.

We have heard the defense of boxing, and we have been told by those who are experts, that the scientifically trained boxer is able to touch his opponent ever so lightly and that his skill is evidenced by the ease and certainty with which he does it.

It would be a wonderful exhibition of every element of agility, keenness, and even strength in defense, to watch a boxing match, if the rules governing the contest provided that it was the number of times in a given period that an opponent was able to place a blow, and at the same time showed sufficient skill not to strike to create an injury.

When they are defending the boxing, it is declared that the man who simply goes in and "takes it," and uses brutal strength in the contest, is not a boxer at all. Well, you can read it for yourself.

CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT CHURCHES UNITE ON FILMS

The Methodist bishop in Chicago, as he has just returned from conferences with his subordinates throughout his area, gives an interview in regard to the decency program of the Catholic church. He commends it.

He urges the printing of the pledge of decency, as published by the Catholic church, in the bulletins of the Methodist church, and to include not only the feature films, but certain other films as well. The bishop quotes from the minutes of the sixth ecumenical Methodist conference, held three years ago in Georgia, to show that the Methodist church has been in harmony with the attitude which the Catholic church has taken.

The truth is that practically all churches have been in harmony. We know that thousands of leaders have expressed themselves along the same lines.

But there is this difference. When the Catholic church speaks, it speaks with a power of authority to which a larger portion of its membership responds than is likely of any other body of church members.

It is the recognition of this fact that gives encouragement to other church bodies to believe that something can be done by a complete and united protest. Certain it is that when the Catholic church spoke, the leaders of the film concerns "sat up and took notice."

It is a fine thing to have something on which all the religious bodies can pretty well agree. It does not speak well for a great enterprise, like the moving picture interests, to have so conducted their business as to encounter such a universal criticism and protest.

And yet in the midst of it all, the great masses of the public are to blame. They have not exercised the virtue of discrimination, or if they have in places, in too many instances they have shown that the salacious film is financially profitable by their attendance.

We are sorry that individuals, through refusal of attendance on salacious shows, have not corrected this evil, which now seems to be uniting the religious leadership.

Making Books Live
Christian Science Monitor

For many years librarians, publishers and authors have labored long and in vain trying to find out why leather-bound books should disintegrate so rapidly. The problem has baffled the entire book world for ages.

Various reasons have been put forward in an attempt to explain the matter. Some have said it was due to insects. Others have suggested that dampness may have caused the trouble, while certain literary critics have cynically stated that poetic justice alone was responsible. It now appears that all these conjectures were wrong.

In England, recently, chemical experts, carrying out some interesting experiments, have solved the mystery. They selected two books—one from the royal library at Buckingham Palace, and one from the library at Windsor Castle. The Buckingham Palace selection was a volume of Disraeli's letters, while the book taken from Windsor was an edition of Lord Salisbury's letters.

The investigators found that the one with the leather cover which had rested on the shelves of the city library was in a state of powdery decrepitude, while one that had enjoyed the benefits of a pure, rural existence at Windsor had remained in a vigorous and unwrinkled state of preservation.

This seemed very mystifying at first, although a literary critic expressed the opinion that Disraeli's letters would naturally pulverize a book cover more rapidly than anything Lord Salisbury ever wrote. This view, however, was discharged by the chemical experts as entirely irrelevant.

After much laboratory work, Faraday Innes, a descendant of the famous Michael Faraday and himself a noted chemist, was able to prove that the poor condition of the city-dwelling book cover was due to the sulphuric acid it had absorbed from the smoke-laden London atmosphere which the Windsor volume had not been subjected to. Mr. Innes also stated that there were certain chemical ingredients which could be used when dyeing leather that would resist the destructive atmosphere of any city, thus guaranteeing the life of a leather cover indefinitely.

This means that from now on every book published can be made to last for centuries. A valuable contribution indeed to the world of letters. No more disintegration! No more pulverization! It is a staggering thought. But in reality Mr. Innes's solution only touches the fringe of the problem. What we now need is for him to apply his genius to the discovery of some method by which the contents of a book may be guaranteed to live as long as its cover.

Days That Are Gone
San Francisco Chronicle

News that the end has come for Maggie Cline in New York turns back the clock of memory to the times when yesterdays were todays. Then John L. Sullivan was bestowing the handshakes that have been passed on like an apostolic succession. Chauncey Olcott and Andrew Mack were gallery gods. Lillian Russell was a toasted beauty without peer.

In those days Maggie Cline truly was the "Irish queen." Her entrance to a lobster palace brought guests to a standing cheer. Waiters in Shanley's, each brought over from the old country for the job, fought for the honor of serving her. Those days are gone forever when "contented we were although poor" and Maggie Cline has been one of the links with them. There may be new and more sophisticated public idols but none will arouse more enthusiasm than Maggie's "Trow him down, McCloskey."

Who Said They Wouldn't Bloom?

More Truth Than Poetry
By James J. Montague

THE MODERN TREND

On learning that an art expert is now selling colored mops for kitchens.

We've harmonized the kitchen,
Its tones no longer clash,
The brightest hues
We always use
For coloring the hash.
The dish-mops are artistic,
The stove-hook is a dream,
And by and by
We mean to try
To tint the milk and cream.

The butter shade is violet,
The cheese is beige and pink,
There's just a hint
Of lemon tint
Upon the kitchen sink.
The water taps are purple,
The pans a tender taupe,
And soon we mean
To dye pale green
The ugly kitchen soap.

Although we've barely started
We find that tint-appeal,
Has added zest
And interest
To every single meal.
We now are painting flowers
Upon the kitchen mat,
And some fine day
With colors gay
We'll beautify the cat.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Mr. Riley the hooken ladder wagon driver was sitting outside the firehouse smoking his corn cob pipe in his blue shert and sispenders, and me and Shorty Judge stopped going passed and started to tawk to him and ask him questions, me saying, Did you have any faithful old fire horses in the days when you use to drive horses, Mr. Riley?

They couldn't come no faithfuller than old Leon, Mr. Riley said. Old Leon knew the location of every alarm box in town, and when the signals came in he'd cast his big faithful brown eyes at the indicator and then as like as not he'd start galloping off in the rite direction before we even had time to hitch him up to the hooken ladder. Yes sir, the hooken ladder was late to many a fire on account of the necessity of having to go to the alarm box and bring Leon back ferst. He was faithfulness itself, but he got old, like horses do, Mr. Riley said.

What did you haff to do, discharge him? Shorty Judge said, and Mr. Riley said, We couldn't, it would of broke his hart, but we couldn't run him no distance, we had to use him on closer and closer fires, till the day came when we was afraid to hitch him up to even go around the block for feer he'd drop in his traces. I'll never forget that day when we went away to a fire without him and left old Leon standing in his stall with the big tears running down his nose, Mr. Riley said.

And did he cry every time you left him after that? I said, and Mr. Riley said, No, we fixed up a little plan. We'd lite a little bonfire outside the stables every time we was called away to a real fire, and old Leon would stick his faithful head out of his stall window and look at it and be comforted till we got back, he said. And he took out his red handkerchief and wiped his eyes, saying, The rest is too sad, I hope you boys will excuse me from telling it.

Wich we did.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Drake were home from a trip to Ventura and Santa Barbara. In the latter city they attended the State Fire Insurance Agents' convention where other Santa Anans present included Mrs. Ben E. Turner, S. J. Cornell, Mac O. Robbins, J. A. McGadden, Parke S. Roper and A. S. Ralph of the insurance department of Orange County Automobile club.

An advance party of Y. M. C. A. workers led by R. R. Miller, left for the summer Y. M. C. A. camp at Catalina to get matters in readiness to receive some 75 youths of the county for the camping season to begin June 21.

Close of the bean cleaning season at Smeltzer warehouse, which had been in operation over seven months, showed that a total of 65,000 sacks of beans, averaging between 80 and 90 carloads, had been put through the cleaning process. Estimating the crop at 10½ cents a pound, the prevailing market price, the beans represented the approximate value of $600,000.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

WE SHOULD HAVE KNOWN

It was Turgot, I think, who defined great leadership as a product of the combination of the hindsight of the historian and the foresight of the statesman.

If we had only had the hindsight of the historian when the war ended!

We would have known that the war debts that have since plagued us would prove uncollectable.

We would have known that the nature and volume of world trade would be radically changed so that we could not depend, as fully as we had depended in the past, on the rest of the world's taking up our surplus agricultural and industrial surplus.

We would have known that we were squarely faced by the necessity of radical internal shifts in policy as a result of this reduced demand for our farm and factory output, and that we should promptly choose between a policy of exclusive economic nationalism and a readjusted international program.

But we did not. We shut our eyes. Thought we could beat reality. By a flood of shortsighted lending jacked up for the time being an impossible economic situation.

But, even now, if we only had the foresight of the statesman:

We would not think we can correct fundamental economic maladjustments by currency legerdemain, that we can so raise farm prices or ease the debt burden.

We would not think we can substitute financial wet-nursing for fundamental banking reform.

We would not think we can go on indefinitely pumping billions of public money into the channels of trade without effectively restarting the total economic machine.

I am not even suggesting that the national leadership thinks any of these things. I am suggesting that millions of uncritical Americans are thinking them. And that is dangerous.

Our Children

A FENCE

Mrs. Dollie Daffodil studied the seed catalogue last August and dwelt long on the page that displayed the gorgeous tulips. How lovely they would look along the little path to the sidewalk. Four dollars a hundred. Well, by going without that hat, buying a ninety-eight-cent one, she could buy those tulips. What was a hat to a border of beauties like those? So she wrote a note and went down to the post office, made out a money order and waited.

One day the postman handed her a bulky package. She had been waiting for it since that August day. She had begun to fear that the frost might seal the earth she had so carefully prepared before the bulbs could arrive. Here they were safe and sound, and the ground so cool and crumbly. She got the spade and the pail and the trowel and set the beloved things firmly in their beds. "Now. When it gets good and cold you shall have some straw over you. Until then, sleep well."

All winter she watched that border. When the wind blew the litter from the bed she went out and gathered it up and replaced it. She shooed away all the stray cats and dogs that seemed to scent her treasure from afar and long to uproot it. She rejoiced when it rained. "It will help the tulips." She was glad when it snowed. "This will be good for the tulips." Time and weather and hope and happiness all in one little tulip border.

Spring came lagging along. The brown earth cracked, blunt green and bronze noses poked out of leaves and straw. "They're up. I'll clean the beds and feed them a little. How many weeks before they come? Maybe three, if it's warm. Three weeks and they'll be here. How can I wait that long?"

The shorten the time she went out to visit them every morning. That one with the twisted leaf, maybe it wasn't going to do well. That fat reddish one. Surely he was going to be a beauty. Crimson, maybe. Lovely, the sight of their greenness. Wonderful the promise of beauty to come.

One lovely, lovely morning they opened in full dress. Mrs. Dollie Daffodil couldn't speak for joy. There are no words to tell a gardener's joy in his blooming garden. Only the light in his eye, the soft edges on his tongue, the gentleness of his hands, convey his delight.

Next door there lived a three year old child. Marjorie May. "It's a pretty morning, Marjorie May. I'll put on your coat and your hat, and you can take your little shovel and go out and play." Marjorie wandered across the freshening grass. She spied the gorgeous rainbow of color. She swooped and pounced. By the time she was through and calling to Mother to come and see what she'd got, the wreck was complete.

"O, Marjorie May, what have you done?" What indeed. Poor Mrs. Dollie Daffodil lay on her bed and wept. "Never mind, Honey. Maybe when we have a little girl she will wander into somebody's garden—she didn't know. I'm so sorry. I guess we'll have to put up some kind of a fence."

A garden always needs some kind of a fence. Cows, dogs, cats, chickens, little children, are attracted to growing things. A hedge, a fence helps a lot. And children must be taught to look at pretty things and leave them. That helps a lot too.

British Decide To Seize German Funds In England

GIVEN UNTIL JULY FIRST TO ABROGATE

Seek to Compensate Creditors for Moratorium Declared by Germany

PLAN CLEARING HOUSE

France at Same Time Files Protest to Germany Against Halting Payments

LONDON, June 15.—(UP)—Great Britain decided today to seize German funds in England to compensate British creditors for the moratorium declared by Germany on all her foreign debts.

Business men will receive compensation for commercial debts as well as holders of German bonds, including the "guaranteed" Dawes and Young plan loans.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced the plan in the house of commons, adding that if Germany voluntarily made good before July 1—in other words, abrogating the moratorium as far as Britain is concerned—it would not be put into effect.

The seizure would be accomplished by establishing a clearing house which could sequester German funds in London obtained through export balances, etc.

Reacts on U. S.

Britain's move, it was believed, would react unfavorably on the United States by making it more difficult for American creditors to get any payment. Lack of German funds in New York makes a move similar to the British futile.

Some financial men believed the British arrangement would provide that traders buying goods from Germany should pay the sum due into the clearing house instead of remitting it to Germany. Those selling goods to Germany would be reimbursed from the clearing house fund. The balance of receipts over payment would be used to meet the claims of investors in German bonds.

British investors hold about $217,150,000 in Dawes and Young bonds, on which $10,847,500 in interest is due July 1.

Warns of Danger

Chamberlain warned of the danger of buying any more German bonds, which was taken to mean that the clearing house plan would

NAVY PLANES HUNT FOR MISSING MEN

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—Three naval seaplanes commanded by Lieut. Joseph L. Kane took off from the Coco Solo, C. Z., base today in search for 17 survivors of the Norwegian nitrate ship Knut Hamsun, which burned Sunday off the Honduras coast, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, announced.

Standley said the planes would search an area of 45,000 square miles off the Nicaraguan and Honduran coasts.

Their base was to be Quito Sueno Banks, off Honduras.

The Banks are 357 miles from the Canal Zone.

The missing men are believed to be in a lifeboat, although there was hope they might have been washed ashore on the Nicaraguan coast.

DECLARES DEAD MAN NOT HER HUSBAND

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—An amazing denial that the man she is accused of killing was her husband left prosecutors bewildered today at the trial of Mrs. Nellie Madison, charged with the murder of Eric D. Madison, film studio worker.

Spectators gasped their surprise when the widow testified calmly that she did not know the identity of the man who was found shot to death in her apartment last March and whom the state had identified in the indictment as her husband. The witness expressed the assurance her husband was still alive.

Four other defense witnesses led up to the strange denouement by testifying that pictures of the slain man did not resemble Madison.

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—Sen. William G. McAdoo "drafted" Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, Republican progressive, for service in the Democratic party today by advocating his nomination by party followers.

The junior California Senator and Democratic National committeeman also called for the nomination of George Creel, Democratic candidate for Governor.

"I have taken this stand," McAdoo said in a public statement, "because, in my judgment, the election of both of these men is vital to the welfare of California.

OIL INDUSTRY PROBE FAVORED IN COMMITTEE

Cole Resolution Providing for Investigation Passed Unanimously

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—The house rules committee today gave legislative right-of-way to the Cole resolution providing for investigation of the petroleum industry.

The committee vote was unanimous to give the resolution immediate consideration. There was a possibility the resolution would be brought up today.

The resolution, introduced by Rep. William P. Cole, jr., D., Md., is a substitute for the Disney Oil production control bill, rejected by the house interstate commerce committee yesterday.

The resolution would empower the interstate commerce committee or a subcommittee to make a detained investigation into practices in the oil industry including those concerning the shipment of oil produced in excess of state quotas.

Rep. Sam Rayburn, D., Texas, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, appeared before the rules group and said there was no chance of enacting oil production control legislation at this session.

"An oil bill would not pass the senate," Rayburn said, "and would not even be considered by that chamber."

Rep. Joseph W. Martin jr., R., Mass., asked why a bill could not be passed through the senate.

"I am informed reliably that 12 or 15 members of the senate would not let it pass," Rayburn replied.

Rayburn said that Rep. Wesley Disney, D., Okla., who introduced the oil control bill and others sponsoring that legislation would "rather have this resolution than nothing."

The resolution carries with it an appropriation of $25,000 to conduct the investigation.

Cole told the rules committee that the government probably would save considerable money if the resolution were adopted because a huge sum has been set aside to enforce the oil industry code and if producers realize that a congressional committee is making an inquiry into their activities the cost of enforcement will be reduced considerably.

47 STATES APPROVE NEW DEAL POLICIES

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—The nationwide poll of policies of the Roosevelt administration by the Literary Digest, shows approval for the policies in 47 states.

The vote to date places Vermont alone in the disapproval column. The president receives 534,804 votes or 61.09 per cent of the 875,373 votes cast. This is announced as a 3.77 per cent increase in his popularity compared to the 1932 election ratio.

A poll of 21,320 bankers in 47 states, however, reveals 11,275, or 52.88, against the president's policies, the magazine said.

QUINTUPLETS AND MOTHER IMPROVED

NORTH BAY, Ont., June 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the quintuplets born almost three weeks ago, gained strength today after a relapse suffered several days ago.

The babies also gained. Their weights today were as follows:

Yvonne—Two pounds, eleven and one-quarter ounces, gain of one-half ounce.

Cecile—Two pounds, four ounces, gain three-quarters ounce.

Annette—Two pounds, eight ounces, gain one ounce.

Emilie—Two pounds, one ounce gain of one and one-half ounces.

Marie—One pound, fifteen and one-quarter ounces, gain one ounce.

Sheriff Logan Jackson, announcing candidacy for re-election today, points to policies that have guided his administration during initial term, now drawing to a close

LOGAN JACKSON CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF AGAIN

Announces He Will Run on Platform of Accomplishments in Office

THERE IS no reason to believe that Orange county will be less critical this year than it was four years ago in selection of its sheriff; right and wrong are quite as important considerations now as they were then, and the need of a sure enforcement of law and order is even more pronounced, declared Sheriff Logan Jackson today, in making formal announcement of his candidacy for re-election.

"My candidacy will go before the public this year on a platform of results," said Jackson's announcement. "Results count. Not promises, not failures, but actual accomplishment."

"In the matter of law enforcement it is especially important now, with a steadily growing threat from the more serious forms of crime and disorder, that the county should know the character of its protection.

"It is right that the county should demand a close acquaintance with its sheriff, such as that provided by the long and continuous residence of the present sheriff in the county, a period of 31 years.

"It is proper that the public should examine his record; learn the principles and policies that guide his administration, and base its judgment upon what it finds. The law and order question in Orange county at the present time is not one wisely left to chance or promise. What a sher-

GREEN PLEADS WITH MEN TO CANCEL STRIKE

Labor President Appears Before Steel Workers During Convention

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—An effort to drive through some form of labor legislation, aimed primarily at the threatened steel strike, was begun today after President Roosevelt stepped into the picture.

Returning to the senate from a White House conference with Mr. Roosevelt and his labor advisors, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson began a series of conferences for speedy enactment of legislation.

PITTSBURGH, June 15.—(UP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today pleaded with embittered steel workers to cancel their plans for a general strike, and offered them a solution, through the federal government, of the difficulties which have brought the industry to a crisis.

Three conditions outlined by Green, which he said, if accepted by the mills owners, would lead to the strike being called off, were:

1—A board of three, appointed by the president to receive complaints of violations of section 7-A, to mediate any differences, and to act if ne[illegible]y.

Mediation Board

The board would mediate and conciliate in code disputes, and would arrange for collective bargaining by employes, if they requested it.

The board also would act as arbiter under the steel code, providing all questions to be arbitrated were submitted voluntarily by both parties, and it would hear and determine the merit of any complaints of violation of section 7-A.

2. The employes shall have the right to bargain collectively, and the board would have the authority to order and supervise elections, off company property. Representatives chosen by a majority of the workers would act for the whole.

Meet Workers

3. The management of each plant shall meet with workers or their elected representatives to settle all disputes. As a last resort, the impartial board would have the final decision in the dispute.

Green based his argument against a strike at the present time on the grounds that the workers "cannot afford to let the steel operators choose the battle field or the hour on which the battle is to be fought.

"I firmly believe," he declared, "that if they will not yield to the law, they will yield to the more powerful force of public opinion. We cannot afford to play into the hands of these autocratic barons. We must use strategy.

"In my judgment, it is my fixed opinion, based on my own interest in the workers and my own experience, that the time will come when your wrongs will be righted. But I do not believe the time is here at this moment."

Planning To Reside Near Lake Tahoe

Daughter of President is Reported to Have Left Capital Thursday

RENO, Nev., June 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, only daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, is understood to be on the way here to establish residence.

Mrs. Dall left Washington yesterday, it was learned authoritatively and she will occupy a cottage on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe.

It was assumed Mrs. Dall, who for nearly a year has been a resident of the White House, will apply for a divorce from Curtis Dall, New York and Chicago broker.

They were married June 5, 1926 but for the last 12 months have maintained separate homes.

The Dalls have two children Anna Eleanor, 7, and Curtis, jr., 4. They are known popularly as Sistie and Buzzie. Both children resided with their mother at the White House and attended school in Washington.

It was recalled in connection with the forthcoming visit of Mrs. Dall that her brother, Elliott, second son of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt was in Nevada for the same purpose about a year ago. He obtained a divorce from his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner of Philadelphia, and since has married again. His second wife is the former Ruth Googins, Fort Worth, Tex.

FIRST LADY SILENT ON DIVORCE RUMOR

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who is establishing residence in Nevada, has been living at the White House since Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration.

Her mother refused to comment today on her departure except to say that she and the children had gone. She said she did not know what point in Nevada was their destination.

ITALIAN COUNTESS SOUGHT BY POLICE

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—Disregarding a note indicating she planned suicide, police instituted a search today for Frances Taucher, said to be an Italian countess and heiress to a vast estate, who is facing trial on bogus check charges.

A bench warrant for her arrest was issued when she failed to appear for trial and a note from her was exhibited, stating, "I am going to end it all in the Pacific ocean." Her $2500 bond was ordered forfeited and new bail of $10,000 was fixed.

The countess was returned here from Chicago on charges that she cashed a fictitious check on a Hollywood bank. She said she was the heiress to a vast Italian fortune.

GEN. GLASSFORD APOLOGIZES TO JUDGE AT MEET

Peace Officer Accused of Offering to Finance "Arson Plot"

EL CENTRO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Bitter recriminations that Gen. Pelham D. Glassford offered to finance an arson plot which could be blamed on Communists came as a retort today to the federal labor conciliator's charges that a clique of Imperial Valley growers is aggravating a "red scare" to promote a reign of terrorism.

County Agricultural Commissioner B. A. Harrigan, earlier named by Glassford as the informant who warned him of a possible death plot, said the conciliator confided a willingness to pay $25 to have the union hall at Brawley burned so the Communists could be blamed and sent to prison on arson charges. The plan rested on a desire to "create a situation," Harrigan charged.

Glassford admitted such a remark but said it was made "in jest".

"It was merely a suggestion indicative of meeting these alleged agitators in their own way," the former Washington police chief said.

His latest blast against growers was unloosed at a turbulent meeting of the Imperial county board of supervisors last night. The meeting was thrown into an uproar when Superior Judge Vaughn N. Thompson confronted the federal official.

"Did you call me a crook?" the jurist demanded, his face white with rage.

"I said that in my opinion you were a crook," Glassford replied. "I have been in public service

DISARMING ACCORD IS ANNOUNCED

German Rights to Parity on Arms Within League is Basis of Settlement

DEMONSTRATION HELD

Fascist Strength Paraded Before Chancellor in Impressive Ceremonies

BULLETIN

VENICE, June 15.—(UP)—Italy and Germany have agreed on disarmament and German rights to parity on arms within the League of Nations, Fulvio Suvich, Italian foreign undersecretary, announced today.

VENICE, June 15.—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today staged for Adolf Hitler, Nazi chancellor, a demonstration of Fascist strength and discipline which indicated vividly that if Fascism ever falls it will be by force of arms.

Mussolini, trying to win Germany back to Europe's diplomatic councils, in a conference strangely mingled with spectacles ranging from the picturesque to the theatrical, treated Hitler to a vision of militant Fascism which he could compare with his Nazi brown shirt organization.

Militia Parades

For the purposes of the demonstration he selected 3000 picked members of the Fascist militia, the "advance guard" of young Fascists and the Balilla, the boys who will work themselves up to the proud rating of militiaman.

They were ranged in historic St. Mark's square. They were equipped with rifles, machine guns and chemical weapons—perhaps a delicate reminder to Hitler that he may not legally arm his brown shirts under the Versailles treaty.

Hitler and Baron Konstantin von Neurath, his former minister, were escorted to a special pavilion, gay with Italian and Fascist flags and pennants. Hitler, pale, with disordered hair, was in a blue serge business suit.

New Salute

Mussolini and Hitler stood together, and Mussolini gave the order for the march past. Hitler was treated to a new sort of salute for him—that of the Fascist orderlies, who raised their daggers as if about to strike an enemy.

Then came the light legions at a faster pace, with rifles slung on their backs; then the mobile machine gun units; then the chemicals; then the advance guard with their red and gold scarfs hung on their shoulders, and the balilla.

A contingent of Fascist university students attracted Hitler, with their varicolored hats and their military formation.

There were three bands to blare out the spirited marches of Italy.

After the review the Fascist chief took the Nazi chief to the adjoining royal palace through lanes of cheering people who looked as if they had been stationed there.

PREDICTS END OF 35 YEAR DROUGHT

PASADENA, Calif., June 15.—(UP)—A thirty-five to fifty-year drought cycle will be ended next year with increased rainfall throughout the United States, according to a new long range weather forecasting system expounded at a meeting here of the nation's leading meteorologists.

"The next year should mark the end of a cycle of drought," Dr. A. F. Gorton, consulting meteorologist of San Diego, said. "It is to be expected that the rainfall from 1937 to 1940 will approach the heavy rainfall following 1886."

Figures purporting to indicate the end of the period of diminished rainfall were cited by Dr. Willis R. Gregg, chief of the United States Weather Bureau and conference chairman.

SENATE RATIFIES TREATY

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—The United States senate today ratified the anti-war treaty of non-aggression and conciliation signed at Rio De Janeiro on October 10, 1933.

The treaty, named for its sponsor, Saavedra-Lamas, foreign minister of Argentina, provides for settlement of boundary disputes by arbitration.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA INJURED IN EXPLOSION OF BOMB, ONE GUARD KILLED, 15 ARE HURT

HAVANA, June 15.—(UP)—President Carlos Mendieta was wounded today by explosion of a hand bomb during a luncheon at the Casablanca.

(The Casablanca district is across the harbor from Havana).

The president suffered a wound in his hand.

Mendieta was a guest of officers of the northern naval district at the luncheon across the harbor. While he was on his feet making a speech, the bomb exploded on the staircase three feet behind him.

In addition to wounding Mendieta, the bomb killed a sailor guard, Manual Matis Tapia, who was standing behind Mendieta, and injured three others.

Doctors said one of the wounded, Lieut. Manuel Poloman, probably would die.

An unconfirmed report said a total of 15 had been injured, with two dead.

An unconfirmed report a total of 15 had been injured, with two dead.

The secretary of communications, Gabriel Landa, was wounded in the shoulder.

Most of the members of Mendieta's cabinet were at the luncheon. Civilian guests were arrested immediately pending an investigation.

Mendieta returned to the presidential palace meanwhile.

MERRIAM PLANNING SPECIAL SESSION

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Gov. Frank A. Merriam's proposal for a long range state unemployment relief program was taken today to indicate that he plans a special legislative session to consider relief plans.

Before deciding upon a session, however, he will determine the attitude of as many legislators as possible, in order to assure himself in advance of a successful legislative meeting.

Merriam discussed relief at a banquet given in his honor last night by the chamber of commerce. It was the first time since he became chief executive that he particularly emphasized unemployment as the most serious problem in the state.

"KISS SLAYER" IS SENTENCED TO LIFE

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—Charles E. Johnston, 23-year-old chauffeur, smiled his relief today at escaping the death penalty for the "kiss slaying" of his former sweetheart, Dorothy Smith, 18.

A superior court jury recommended life imprisonment in its verdict, returned after seven hours of deliberation. Sentence will be imposed Monday.

Johnson's only defense to the charge was that he shot the girl on "sudden impulse" after calling at her home and asking her to kiss him. The girl had broken their engagement after a previous quarrel and refused. The state contended the shooting was "cold-blooded."

The primaries are in August.

McAdoo praised Creel for his "progressivism."

"Social justice and equal rights have ever been his greatest concern," the junior senator said. "In various important public positions he has proved that his executive and administrative ability is of a high order.

"The success of the administration's far-flung plans demands intelligent and sympathetic co-operation between each state and the national administration. George Creel's intimate and understanding association with the recovery program from its very inception is a guarantee of such co-operation."

20 years and no man has ever branded nor can brand me a crook," Thompson shouted. "I demand that you apologize here and now."

"I do apologize," Glassford replied after a tense pause.

Later the general explained he spoke against the jurist without due thought and what he meant was that he considered Thompson prejudiced against eight alleged Communists who recently were tried on vagrancy charges.

Glassford faced the supervisors to explain that Harrigan had admonished him that he could be "done away with" by a "tough element" for $50.

Harrigan denied the charge.

The conciliator repeated earlier charges that a clique of growers and shippers has been resorting to violence and intimidation in an effort to rule the valley and control the labor situation.

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Well, there ain't much news till we get the dictaphone records of what Mussolini and Hitler really talked about. They may have never said a word about France, but you will never make France believe it. They was supposed to travel and meet on neutral ground. They met on neutral ground, but it was Mussolini's. To get even with 'em now we will have President Roosevelt meet Mr. Plutarco Calles of Mexico and show those Europeans a couple of boys that really run their countries.

DAUGHTER OF PRESIDENT TO SEEK DIVORCE

While residing at the White House Mrs. Dall devoted most of her time to writing.

Her husband attended the inauguration and was here for the birthday party of their daughter, "Sistie," the first month of the administration. In May, Mr. and Mrs. Dall went together to a ball at the home of Richard Crane, Jr., at Richmond, Va. Since then he has not been seen at social functions with her.

Mrs. Dall has written many magazine articles, including one about her mother, called "Grand Persons." She wrote a children's book, "Scamper, the White House Rabbit," and got a patent on a rag rabbit.

She rode her horse, "True Love", in a recent horse show here, and won a blue ribbon in the road hack class. She attends few formal functions, except at the White House, but goes to many horse shows and informally visits homes of old friends here.

She spends much time with her children, arranging parties for them, taking them to the circus, looking after their school life, nursing them through child diseases, and telling them stories.

The winter edition of the New York Social Register gave different addresses for Mr. and Mrs. Dall.

BAER ORDERS 25 SUITS

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Max Baer visited a Park avenue tailor today to refurnish his wardrobe. "I mean to buy 25 suits," he said. "I think the heavyweight champion ought to have that many, don't you?"

PROGRAM WILL BE STARTED ON FIRST OF JULY

One thousand residents of Orange county will be given work relief in the new SERA program, it was learned today, as administrative machinery for placing the plan in operation began functioning.

Using the $45,000 or more a month which the federal government, through the state SERA committee, will spend in the work relief program in Orange county, those who are given work must have been on the county relief rolls as of May 15 and be on the rolls at the present time.

This was decided at a meeting of the county SERA committee, which met all yesterday afternoon and which continued its meeting throughout today. Charles Schottland, field agent for the SERA in charge of this county, will act as temporary director of the program until a permanent director is selected.

The committee members set the maximum budget at $50 for exceptionally large families, and plan to strike an average of $35 for heads of families employed on the relief program.

At the meeting today it was stated by Schottland and Chairman J. K. McDonald that Byron V. Curry, county welfare director, will have nothing to do with either the work relief or direct relief program after July 1. Curry will continue the indigent relief for the county. The program will be directed by the local committee, which will formulate all policies for the work and need only observe federal regulations, Schpttland said.

Schottland Remains

Schottland will stay here for about two weeks acting as director to launch the program. The setup now calls for a director who will have charge of the entire program, with a case supervisor handling the direct relief. Other department heads will include a work placement bureau manager, an auditing department manager, a manager of the Professional, Technical and Women Workers division which will have charge of educational, cultural and recreational projects, and a manager of the works division.

The first Orange county project submitted came back approved by the state authorities today, according to Dan Mulherron, who will handle the projects. This was one from Fullerton for work on the high school would employ 55 men.

Schottland stressed the necessity for political subdivision to submit projects at once so there will be ample work for the 1000 persons to be given employment. Educational, cultural and recreational projects particularly are needed, he said.

Relief in Cash

The $35 monthly family average will be considerably more than the relief which has been given here, it was learned. Curry said the average monthly budget in the county has been around $15. The $35 will be paid in cash instead of grocery, rent and similar orders.

W. M. Braley, of the state auditing department, was in the welfare office today, interviewing candidates for positions in the administrative setup who will work in the offices in the Hill building. An attempt was being made today to secure the second floor as well as the third floor for the offices. Schottland will do the hiring on recommendation of Braley, it was said. There will be a number of positions as timekeepers, clerks, stenographers, secretaries, interviewers, field investigators, inspectors, accountants, a purchasing agent and others.

Schottland said projects would be approved rapidly by the state authorities, and urged political subdivision to act promptly.

This morning the committee adopted as a general policy an agreement not to hire any persons in the administrative work who has a member of the family working, unless the matter is carefully considered by the SERA committee.

MRS. ROLPH LEAVES GOVERNOR'S HOME

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—The old-fashioned governor's mansion was empty today, ready to receive the household equipment of acting Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

Mrs. Annie Reid Rolph, widow of Gov. James Rolph jr., completed arrangements for sending the late executive's and her belongings to San Francisco.

Merriam said he probably would move into the mansion sometime during the summer.

LOGAN JACKSON CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF AGAIN

iff will do can best be judged by what he has done.

Installs Radio

"I came to the sheriff's office three and a half years ago with the purpose of establishing a progressive organization and constructive program to combat crime and disorder. The teletype and radio systems that have since been installed in the sheriff's office are examples of this purpose. It will not be disputed that they represent, unquestionably, the greatest forward steps in law enforcement that Orange county has seen in its entire history. I need make no apology for advocating the expenditure required for these improvements, for they not only mean increased protection, but actually constitute an economy. It is a well recognized truth that prevention of crime, or its discouragement by swift retribution, means a smaller tax bill.

"Another example of the purpose described is found in the personnel. It is no secret in Orange county that the keynote of the campaign for the sheriff's office four years ago was the restoration of integrity to that office. Since then, constant attention has been given to the building of a staff founded on devotion to duty, personal integrity and intelligence, these being necessary complements to ability. The induction of young college men into the sheriff's organization fits into this plan of welding a clean-cut law enforcement unit.

Public Must Judge

"The public, of course, must judge whether results have been obtained. It must judge whether there has been more than mere coincidence in the fact that Orange county is an oasis of peace and quiet among the disturbances that have plagued counties all about us; that attempts to include labor troubles, such as the milk strike, were promptly stamped out before they could gain headway; that no major crimes of this administration's tenure remain unpunished, and that uncaptured murderers of former administrations have been brought to justice under the present administration.

"It is not too much to suggest that these things do not just happen; that they represent definite preparedness and equipment for the task ahead. Nor is it untimely to suggest that the very safety of the county in the months ahead depends upon the vigor and integrity of the county's chief enforcement agency, the sheriff's office.

"Protection of person and property, with full respect for constitutional guarantees, has been and will always be a primary purpose of this administration.

"Like other public officials, I recognize the necessity of economy in government, and while providing adequate protection against crime, which is the first duty of this office, have not lost sight of the pressing burden upon the taxpayer.

"In conclusion, let me refer the question of this administration's success to the last Orange county grand jury, which reported thus:

"We feel that Orange county is fortunate in having a man of the character and ability of Logan Jackson in charge of the (sheriff's) department."

BRITISH WILL SEIZE GERMAN FUNDS, CLAIMED

apply only to bonds held before the moratorium. Stock exchange dealers in Dawes and Young bonds were asking sellers today to guarantee that the bonds were in British possession before today.

FRANCE PROTESTS

PARIS, June 15.—(UP)—France officially protested to Germany today against halting payment on the Dawes and Young reparations loans and prepared to communicate with the United States and other countries, seeking joint action.

The foreign office will communicate with the state department, with Great Britain, Switzerland and Holland and its views regarding the six months moratorium declared by Germany effective July 1 on all foreign obligations, and will seek a united front of creditors.

It was thought France meantime would not imitate the British action of making arrangements for a clearing house to seize German credits and apply them to the sacred reparations loans.

It was understood, however, that the government was preparing to block private payments of French business men to Germans—which would be practically equivalent to halting commerce.

This would represent the sereverest possible pressure as France is Germany's best customer.

ASK HALF MILLION IN PLAGARISM SUIT

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Goodwin, of Manhattan Beach, Cal., ask $500,000 damages from 29 music publishers, authors, composers, broadcasting companies and moving picture firms, in a suit on file in federal court today, charging plagarism of their 1905 song, "An Arizona Home."

"Home on the Range," current song hit and "President Roosevelt's Favorite Son," they claim, infringes their copyright.

"Home on the Range" they charge, is more or less their own 29-year-old song, with singular nouns changed to plural and vice versa.

TRAIN CRASH IN ANAHEIM KILLS CARL M. MOHR

Carl M. Mohr, 31, Anaheim real estate man and former banker, was instantly killed at 10 a. m. today when his car was struck by a speeding southbound Santa Fe passenger train at the crossing on North street in Anaheim.

The limited train carried the car a distance of 1200 feet from the crossing and Mohr's body was hurled 50 feet from the tracks after the train had traveled 200 feet. It was reported that a broken air coupling, caused by the crash, prevented the train from making a quicker stop. The wreckage of the car was removed from the engine only a short distance from the home of Mohr's mother.

North street is under construction near the crossing and Mohr drove past a barricade to go over the grade crossing, it was learned. He stopped 15 feet from the tracks and then started up just as the train came along, in charge of Conductor C. W. Frazier and Engineer Lou Litterer. The engine was so badly wrecked that a new locomotive had to be send from Los Angeles.

Mohr was formerly assistant cashier of the Anaheim National bank, now defunct. He has been in the real estate business recently and is survived by his widow, Marian, and an infant son . He was a member of the Elks lodge and had lived in Anaheim for nearly 20 years.

The body was removed to the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral home, where arrangements for an inquest have not been made by Coroner Earl Abbey.

The death of Mohr is the third in the county this year from train wrecks and brings the total of traffic fatalities to 27. There were 19 at this time last year.

JOHN S. HARPER, MIDWAY CITY'S FOUNDER, DIES

News of the death of John S. Harper, 59, founder of Midway City, which occurred recently in Texas, has been received here by friends and relatives. Death came suddenly at a hospital in Amarillo, Texas, it is reported.

Harper, while a resident of Long Beach, became associated with B. B. Stakemiller, a city councilman there, in the initial development of Midway City in the early 20's and was closely associated with the laying out of the subdivision. He was also identified with building of the Midway City clubhouse. Several years ago the remaining property was sold to Walter Hill who now owns it.

Harper leaves a wife in Amarillo, whom he married last Christmas, it is reported; a son, John Harper, jr., of Nevada, Mo.; a brother, Dick, who is congressman from the Nevada, Mo. district, and a brother and sister living in St. Louis.

Local relatives include two nieces, Mrs. Maurice Price of Bolsa and Mrs. David Everett Hall of Santa Ana.

PREDICTS MORE, BETTER SERVICE BY GOVERNMENT

Predicting that the government will continue to perform more and better services to the public, Von T. Ellsworth, head of the research department of the California Farm Center Federation, spoke at a meeting sponsored by the Garden Grove Farm Center last night in the Garden Grove Washington school.

The speaker outlined the steps from the early days of the nation when the government had few duties to perform and when individual enterprise was paramount. Now, he said, there is a marked increase in collective and cooperative activity.

"Naturally," the speaker said, "taxes increase as the number and quality of governmental services increase. It behooves us to study our institutions and to see that they do the things we want them to do, and to make the government serve us and to guide it."

Discussing county budgets, the speaker said that the budgets should be adopted at the end of the fiscal year and that the taxpayers should be given more time to study them before the board of supervisors adopts them.

"The larger amount the government takes, the less there is left for the individual," he said. "There is nothing especially barren about governmental expenditures. Money spent collectively often is most productive, but we want the expenses divided fairly. Now about 65 per cent of the tax is on property in the state, 10 per cent is derived from the sales tax, 10 per cent from the gasoline tax and the balance from fees, etc. The Riley plan took 65 cents off the property tax in this county."

The speaker warned against an initiative proposal which he said would be on the state ballot at the coming election and which would seek to repeal the sales tax and which, he said, would be likely to make property, particularly farm property, suffer from excessive taxation.

He exhibited a chart, making a comparison of the different forms of tangible property. He said that farmers' property is represented by 67 per cent and personal property at 33 per cent, while the reverse is true in cities.

In the face of a mounting state deficit, he urged his listeners to study taxation and determine what kind of a tax they desired, if more taxes are levies to make up the deficiency.

SLEEPER TAKES POSITION WITH STATE BOARD

Claude Sleeper, son of County Assessor James Sleeper, today received confirmation of his appointment as auditor for district 5 which includes Orange county, by the State Board of Equalization.

Well known in this section, Sleeper has been employed by the First National bank for the past 14 and a half years. For the past five years he has been in charge of the note department at the bank.

He will work under W. C. Shay, supervisor of the district, which includes Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Inyo counties. Headquarters for the district are in the Central building, San Bernardino.

Sleeper will succeed R. H. McCalla, who has resigned from the State Board of Equalization position.

With his appointment effective tomorrow, Sleeper will leave at the same time for Sacramento where he will be given a three weeks' course of instruction in his new position. Following the instruction, he will return to take up his new duties, which will be mainly in Orange county.

Sleeper, who is a native son of Santa Ana, is a member of the American Legion, Elks and Masons. In accepting the appointment he said that he left the employ of the bank with the most kindly feelings on both sides.

BROTHER, SISTER COMBINATION

BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF 2 FAMILIES WED

Spending the first few days of married life on the famous old Loomis ranch beyond Mt. Wilson, two young couples married at a double ceremony June 11 at Yorba Linda are anticipating the establishment of homes on the Mojave desert in the very near future.

The two young women and young men represent but two families, since sister and brother married brother and sister when Miss Thelma L. Thomas, 20, became the bride of Noel Killenger, 24, and Miss Carol Killenger, 19, becam the bride of Lester L. Thomas, 22. The Killenger young people are daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Killenger, who live near Hinkley, Calif.

The Cedar Crest dairy ranch home at Yorba Linda of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Thomas, parents of Miss Thelma and Lester Thomas, was setting for the ceremony. The 40 guests present included the author of "Viva Villa," Oda Stade, a friend of the family, who found special interest in the event since he now is engaged in writing a biography of Mrs. Thomas' father, Captain L. G. Loomis, pioneer of Los Angeles. Captain and Mrs. Loomis, unable to be present for the wedding, extended the hospitality of their ranch home to the two pairs of newlyweds. It was less than a quarter of a century ago that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas spent their honeymoon in the same romantic mountain country.

Both bridegrooms are employed by the Pacific Coast Borax company between Barstow and Mojave. Thomas met his future bride through acquaintances in that community and Killenger met his future wife a few months later while she was visiting her brother, Lester Thomas, and other relatives near Hinkley. Plans for a double wedding then took shape and this week's ceremony was the result.

Miss Florence Thomas played Lohengrin's Wedding March for the entry of the bridal party. Pink and white and green decorations had been arranged for the ceremony, at which the Rev. J. Wesley Runyan, pastor of Brea Christian church, officiated.

Wearing identically fashioned white crepe frocks and carrying bride's roses, the two brides were given in marriage by their fathers, George Kilenger and O. D. Thomas. During the reception ice cream wedding cake topped with two each of miniature bride and bridegroom figures, was served.

The newlyweds motored to the Loomis ranch by very good roads, experiencing none of the troubles that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas had when they packed in to the same mountains for their honeymoon in 1911.

No doubt the new Mr. and Mrs. Killenger and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will prevail upon Captain Loomis to do a little reminiscing about his years of service as Los Angeles chief of police many years ago; about his initiative in laying out Inglewood and Hollywood cemeteries; about his retirement in 1911 to the beautiful old ranch where he now makes his home.

Meanwhile, the romance and adventure of establishing homes in the little mining settlement between Barstow and Mojave await the four young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas' daughter and son are native Californians and are graduates of Fullerton Union High school.

RIGGLE DROPS FROM CONTEST FOR SHERIFF

Charles W. Riggle, former undersheriff, who some time ago announced that he would be a candidate for election as sheriff, today withdrew from the campaign, and declared that he would support former Sheriff San Jernigan for election.

"I am withdrawing in favor of Sam Jernigan," said Riggle, who recently applied for a nomination petition, but had not filed it.

He was the second candidate for sheriff to withdraw in two days, C. C. Cravath, of Laguna Beach, having announced his withdrawal yesterday.

BROWNINGS BACK FROM TRIP EAST

Felton B. Browning, president of the Orange County Farm bureau, accompanied by his wife, have returned from an 8000-mile motor trip throughout the east and south. They were gone five weeks. Conditions in the east were found to be gradually improving.

In Washington Browning conferred with Chester Gray, American Farm Bureau Federation representative, regarding the AAA program. Gray stated that some program. Fray stated that some of the programs, especially the cotton, tobacco and wheat programs, are successful and self-supporting, but that some of the other programs of the AAA are not going so well and the outcome is not so good.

Motoring first to New Orleans, where they enjoyed two days sightseeing, the Brownings continued on to Orlando, Fla., where the orange situation was investigated. Numerous groves were inspected and most of them were found to be looking in good condition.

The fruit auction markets in Philadelphia, New York City and Chicago were visited. A stop at Niagara Falls and a three days' visit at the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, were also features of the trip.

Roads on the itinerary were found to be good. In Iowa, they were caught in a hard rain storm.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, June 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Letson and family have left Wintersburg on a motor vacation trip. They go first into Northern California, where they will visit Mrs. Letson's father, Joe Culver, then go to Grants Pass, Ore., where Mr. Letson expects to enjoy the fishing.

Mrs. Martha Matson spent a week at Alhambra with her mother, Mrs. A. D. Wagner, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wells are entertaining as house guests, her two sisters, Mrs. G. K. Hankins and Mrs. Mary Ross, of East St. Louis, Ill.

Carlin Finlayson is staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Finlayson, during the illness of his mother, Mrs. George Finlayson, of Los Alamitos, who underwent a major operation at the Compton hospital.

A shower given for Mrs. Ralph Hawes and Mrs. Chapman, of Huntington Beach, at the home of Mrs. Orton Tuesday, was attended by three local friends. Mrs. Lee Sowers, Mrs. O. A. Sowers and Mrs. J. W. McIntosh.

A meeting and social evening for officers of the Baptist Sunday school held Tuesday evening at Huntington Beach was attended by Mr. and Mrs. William S. Preston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sowers, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McIntosh and members of their family.

The seventh birthday anniversary of Jean Chamberland was observed Thursday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Chamberland. Following a series of games, refreshments were served.

A summer vacation trip planned by Mr. and Mrs. Andy Irvin and family of Boulevard Gardens was nipped in the bud by the theft of their car in Long Beach. The machine had been completely overhauled and equipped with six new tires in view of their plans to leave next Monday for the Chicago fair and other points east.

ELKS FLAG DAY EVENT DRAWS CROWD OF 2000

With an estimated crowd of more than 2000 persons present, annual Flag Day ceremonies were presented under the auspices of Santa Ana Elks lodge last night with colorful exercises in Santa Ana Municipal bowl.

The program was opened with a patriotic concert played by Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of Leland Auer. Following the presentation of flags and banners in a massed colors ceremony, the band officially opened the Flag Day ceremonies by playing the "Star Spangled Banner."

A formal guard mount was staged by the Santa Ana and Orange National Guard units. An exhibition drill was presented by the Royal Neighbors, Golden State camp. Members of the drum corps of the United Spanish War Veterans, Calumpit camp, assisted the auxiliary in an exhibition drill.

Exhibition drills also were staged by the Santa Ana American Legion drum and bugle corps and the auxiliary drill team. An impressive 'Liberty Bell ceremony was put on by officers of Santa Ana Elks lodge, headed by Exalted Ruler Robert Walker.

A tribute to the flag was paid in a brief talk by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, while the main patriotic address was given by C. P. Hebenstreit, district deputy grand exalted ruler of California South for the Elks lodge. He explained the origin of the Elks and the Flag Day services.

As the sound of taps blown by buglers faded away, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings closed the program with a benediction.

HOLD AUTOIST IS GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Garland Little, 24-year-old Pico motorist, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury that deliberated seven hours in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court, the verdict being returned at 10:53 last night.

Little, who was charged with the offense after a three-car wreck near Fullerton, April 8, resulted in the death of Mrs. May McCay, 60, of Walnut Park, and Ervin Epperly, 21, of Anaheim, applied for probation after the verdict was announced. His hearing was set for June 22 and he is being held meanwhile in the county jail.

The penalty for manslaughter is one to ten years in state prison.

Speaking on "The Conflict Between the Permanent and the Changeable," Dr. James Arnold Blaisdell, president of Claremont colleges, told of the importance of changing conditions in this world today, where people cherish permanency, when he spoke before 213 Santa Ana junior college graduates yesterday afternoon on the college campus.

Dr. Blaisdell said that those desiring to make beneficial changes in present conditions should set out to bring about order and yet make progress. Heretofore, said the speaker, change has meant either revolution or disaster.

"Fundamentally," the commencement speaker stated, "the World war caused our present economic depression through a series of bank failures and business reverses, first in Austria, and then throughout the entire world.

"Order is heaven's first law," continued Dr. Blaisdell, "but only those races that survive are those that progress.

"The thing to be done about it, then, is to realize first that the old permanence is passing and that we are entering a new era. Then we must find an orderly way to make effective changes without revolution or disaster. After that we must learn to differentiate between the changing and the permanent.

"Change always develops into order," continued the speaker, "and this develops toward more change, which again works toward order, until we reach the final complete and infinite order beyond this life."

The speaker illustrated the attitude of people toward change by stating that there is something wrong with any man who is not a "radical" at 30, or who is not a conservative at 60.

In conclusion, Dr. Blaisdell stated that an educated person should be able to take the new and to evolve it to the ordinary, and to take the changing days and evolve them into an established standard of living.

Another portion of the commencement program was the announcement of honors, including special academic achievements, Robert L. Brown prizes, and the Beta Gamma prize. The four students in the class with the highest scholastic rating were Ruth Jenkins, with a grade point ratio of 2.77; Gene Thompson, 2.60; Florence Warmer, 2.56, and Everard Stovall, 2.50. These, with Thomas Davis, with a ratio of 2.36, were the five members of the class awarded life membership to Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society.

Gene Thompson and Dorothy Ensign were the man and woman to receive the annual $25 cash prize from Robert L. Brown for outstanding achievement in all lines of college activity. Katherine Bement was awarded the Beta Gamma prize of $25 given each year by the extra-curricular honor society to the student contributing the most conspicuous service in extra-curricular activities to the school while maintaining a good academic record.

Graduates marched to the platform behind the faculty, who wore the academic gowns and hoods from their various colleges. Members of the class wore red and black stoles over their black gowns to indicate discernment between these commencement robes and those of four-year institutions. Twenty-nine members of the class had white tassels on their caps, to indicate graduation "with honor." Many of these students are members of Phi Theta, national jaysee honor society.

Musical entertainment before the address of the afternoon included an overture by the college orchestra, "King Tut," by Borden and "Raindrop Prelude," by Chopin, sung by the women's chorus.

McKee Fisk, jaysee dean, presented the class, and it was accepted by George R. Wells, president of the Santa Ana Board of Education. Dana King Hammond conferred titles of associate of arts and certificates of secretarial practice, and announced special honors.

Following this, the men's chorus sang "Invictus," by Huhn, and the college orchestra played as the exit march "Flags of Peace," by Powell, as the graduates left the platform.

HORTON FIRM NOW EXCLUSIVE G. E DEALERS

George C. Silzer, wholesale manager for the George Belsey company, Southern California distributors for the General Electric company, today announced the appointment as franchised dealer for Santa Ana of the J. C. Horton Furniture company.

The J. C. Horton Furniture company thereby becomes the sole and exclusive dealer for this city and surrounding territory of all major home appliances manufactured by the General Electric company, such electric refrigerators both in the famous monitor top models and in the new conventional flat top models, electric ranges, dishwashers, and all commercial refrigeration, such as water coolers, milk coolers for dairies, ice cream cabinets, water heaters, air conditioning for offices and homes, and all forms of refrigeration both for the preservation of food and for human comfort and cooling, Silzer said.

Silzer voices the opinion of his concern as evidencing great pride and satisfaction in now bowing themselves out of the retail field in Santa Ana and turning their large list of customers and prospective purchasers over to one of Santa Ana's leading and best known firms, the J. C. Horton Furniture company. Old customers will receive full and complete service courtesy from the J. C. Horton company, Silzer said.

Lloyd Babbit, until now local manager for the retail Belsey store, together with all salesmen under his direction, have gone over to the J. C. Horton company and will continue to sell General Electric Home Appliances under the newly created dealership.

"It is with a sense of regret that the George Belsey company relinquishes the close intimate contact it has with our people, but this regret is offset by its pride in turning over the dealership to a firm as old and well established and so highly regarded as are J. C. Horton and his sons and associates who have built here a business which is outstanding in its premiership," Silzer declared.

Wife Succeeds In Freeing Husband

After Deputy Sheriffs James Workman and James Musick returned Clarence L. Hicks from Hanford to face charges of non-support of his wife, the case was dismissed in justice court yesterday on motion of the wife, who was the complaining witness.

The complaint was issued last November but Hicks was not located until this week. After Mrs. Hicks made appeals to the district attorney's office to drop the case today, Hicks was taken before Acting Justice of the Peace Chris Pann and released on motion of Deputy District Attorney James Davis.

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

HOUSING—

There was more fancy soft-shoe footwork backstage on the housing bill than on any other legislation this session. Not even the stock market bill stirred up so much phenagling. It all centered around the stalwart figure of Stonewall Steagall.

Mr. Steagall is supposed to be the Democratic chairman of the house banking committee. There is no question about his being chairman, but there is some argument about his being Democratic, as far as this administration is concerned.

This leader of financial legislation in the house earned his Stonewall title the same way Jackson did. While all the rest have been fleeing before the advance of the administration, Mr. Steagall has stood there like a stone wall, impenetrable.

At least that is what he did for some weeks after President Roosevelt sent the housing bill to congress. The White House prodders got busy on the inside and prodded Mrs. Steagall into promising to report the bill.

At the appointed time, Mr. Steagall did. But, lo and behold, the bill Mr. Steagall reported happened to be an entirely different bill.

• • • •

CHARGES

Mr. Roosevelt's prodders were so angry that one of them (an official in Frank Walker's division) called news men of Washington into a press conference.

This official spoke very disparagingly of Mr. Steagall's committee. He charged that it had sold out to the building and loan associations, that it had betrayed the administration, etc., etc., etc.

Some one present suggested that such remarks were very libelous, unless proved, and would cause an uproar. The official thereupon wisely decided to make his remarks "off-the-record," meaning confidential.

That kept them from getting into the newspapers, but they reached the ears of the banking committee members and the building and loan league. As a result, everyone lost his temper, that is everyone except Mr. Steagall. He still was giving a good imitation of a stone wall.

• • • •

DOUBTS

The votes taken in Mr. Steagall's committee were not made public. If they had been, they would have proved Mr. Steagall's rigidity.

In every vote taken, Mr. Steagall—believe it or not—stood by the White House. He voted against changes which would give a half billion dollars in loans to building and loan associations. He voted for the administration bill. Only two or three members of his committee did likewise.

Mr. Roosevelt's prodders know that, but they refuse to give Mr. Steagall full credit. They noted that his pals on the committee were all on the other side, particularly his bosom companion and alter ego, Mr. Goldsborough, a Democrat from Maryland.

Also, they complain that Mr. Steagall has never before been overthrown by his committee, at least never by such an overwhelming margin as 16 to 3 and 15 to 4, which were the anti-administration margins on the committee roll calls.

Furthermore, no ill feeling seems to exist between Mr. Steagall and his own committee members, who went against him and the administration.

• • • •

PRESSURE

The upshot of the thing is that the administration had to exert extreme inside pressure to get its bill out of the discards. It is supposed to have everything fixed now so that it will get exactly what it wants, finally, after both senate and house have passed the bill, and it goes into the hands of a conference committee.

Mr. Steagall's friends are very proud of him. They say the administration is displeased only because he has the courage of his convictions, which have not happened to coincide with Mr. Roosevelt's convictions on inflation and guaranteeing bank deposits. They excuse his faithfulness to the administration on the housing bill on the ground that he was not interested in the subject much, one way or another. Also, they expect him to get some patronage.

To them, Mr. Steagall is just a big misunderstood man who does not care as long as he can continue to have his way generally on the subjects in which he is interested.

At any rate, all will concede that his unfathomable activities have made him the most colorful figure in a drab house.

• • • •

NOTES

The charge that the building and loan league wrote the substitute housing bill, reported to the house, has been forcefully denied. No one will deny that the substitute was thoroughly acceptable to them, while the administration bill would ruin the profitable second mortgage business.

• • • •

• • • •

Clarence Darrow was not fooled on publicity for his second report. He did not personally let it out prematurely, but a friend did. The friend is not connected with the Darrow board and may not have received his copy from Darrow.

• • • •

Mr. Roosevelt is relying heavily on the advice of Vice-President Garner in working out the strategy for the closing of congress. Garner is sharp on such matters.

• • • •

Incidentally, Garner has overcome his old aversion for automobiles. He has a new 16-cylinder car which salesman call a "Democracy De Luxe" model. Admiring friends exaggeratingly avow it "has everything but a shower bath", that it is a yacht on wheels.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

GOLD

Watch for another jump in the gold price soon—probably to $37 or $38 an ounce. That would mean devaluing the dollar to 58.86 or 54.40 cents respectively.

Wall Streeters who remember their history remark that 54.40 may again be a cause of strife with Britain. Because the recent drop in the pound—not the committee for the nation's argument that the move is essential to jack up domestic prices—will be the decisive factor behind the move if it's made. British competition is beginning to regain ascendancy. Insiders understand the step is under serious consideration in Washington but that a final decision hasn't yet been reached.

Germany also figures in the picture. The impending collapse of the mark threatens serious inroads on our export trade. Cheapening the dollar abroad a bit more is indicated as a precautionary measure.

New York has reason to know that Professor Warren is not staging a comeback. Of course a jump in the gold price would bring the psychological effects of inflation but experts doubt that they would last.

• • • •

PRICES

Abandonment of price-fixing by NRA is locally rated far more significant of the administration's price policy than anything that's done with gold. There's no doubt in informed circles that the retreat will be followed by a wave of price slashing where code agreements do not say nay. Don't be too sure that the unprotected will not be yelling for shelter soon.

• • • •

FINANCING

Many of Wall Street's best legal minds got together the other day to discuss the Securities Act amendments and decide whether they can now advise their clients that it's safe to proceed with corporate financing. The results of the discussion were not made public but it's understood they generally agreed that 80 per cent of the objectionable features of the Act had been eliminated. You will soon see evidence of this conclusion in the form of new security offerings to the public.

A couple of railroad issues—Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania—are about ready to shoot. Kuhn Loeb will be chief sponsors. Railroad securities have been exempt from the provisions of the act all along except as to criminal liability. The latter feature has now been toned down to the point where it's no longer considered unreasonable.

• • • •

PENNSYLVANIA

The Pennsylvania railroad has been quietly peddling small issues of the underlying bonds of its subsidiaries to insurance companies, savings banks and other institutions for the past few months. No single issue amounted to much more than a million dollars. In some cases a single institutional investor was willing to take the entire offering and in the rest two or three buyers handled all. This method of marketing eliminated the need for registration under the Securities Act.

The bonds sold this way had all been on Pennsy's shelves for some time awaiting a receptive market. The object of the sales was to raise cash for the road's electrification program and not have to use so much PWA money.

• • • •

CUBA

New York insiders get word that a new ingredient will shortly be added to the Cuban witches' brew. General Batista — commander-in-chief of the army — doesn't like either Mendieta or San Martin and is planning a coup to bring Menocal to power.

The dope is that Batista figures Menocal is an old man and he would himself be the power behind the throne.

Experts agree that such a development would probably split the army three ways: part following Batista, part loyal to Mendieta and part jumping to San Martin. "That wouldn't mean a revolution. It would be just plain chaos."

• • • •

WOE

The transport companies find one virtue in the Air Mail Bill—they think it's too bad to last.

Legal hawks told them the Interstate Commerce commission is so limited under the Act that it can adjust rates in only one direction—down. That makes those "sacrificial" bids look a lot more sacrificial than they were intended to be.

The maximum of three contracts—or one primary route—to a company hits all major lines. It's suggested the additional legislation Senator Joe Robinson talked about may have something to do with this angle.

Control by the National Labor board over pilots' and mechanics' pay also has the lines viewing with alarm. They're less bothered about the holding company provision because it doesn't clamp down until the end of the year. They figure there's enough grief for now in the rest of the Act.

One operator says: "If we didn't think the new Commission would do some good we'd talk about liquidating."

• • • •

LIGHTNING

Hard-hearted observers say the plaintive cries of the airmail carriers would rate more sympathy if the lines themselves hadn't done so much to invite the lightning. For example there's the official who stirred up Senator Black about "illegal" extension of routes—because his company got little of that gravy. All he wanted cancelled was the extensions and he thought the bolt would strike where he pointed. Was HE surprised!

• • • •

PLEA

Wall Street gets a chuckle out of NRA's plea not to cut brokerage employes' wages although permission to do so has been given. The boys say that's like tossing meat into a lion's cage and then asking the beast to turn vegetarian.

SANTA ANA GAVEL USED IN CHICAGO

Congratulating the Santa Ana Rotary club on the wide publicity which Santa Ana received as a result of the use of the famous world-traveling Rotary gavel of the Santa Ana club to open and close the international broadcast program staged Tuesday, Secretary R. C. Smedley has received an air mail letter from Crombie Allen, international director.

"Santa Ana Rotary club gavel started and stopped great international broadcast from Rotary International at No. 1 today and your telegram put Santa Ana and California on the ethereal world map," the letter said.

The occasion for the use of the gavel in the international broadcast was the broadcast Tuesday, called "Rotary-Reporting on World Recovery." Officers from many nations spoke briefly on the subject during the program.

TWO FEATURES AT WEST COAST TODAY

Two late features, "Such Women Are Dangerous," and "Here Comes the Groom", open for the first time at the West Coast theater today.

Debonair Warner Baxter plays the starring role in "Such Women Are Dangerous," an exciting comedy-drama combining romance, intrigue and tantalizing mystery. Rosemary Ames, Rochelle Hudson, Mona Barrie, Herbert Mundin, Henrietta Crosman and other favorites are in the supporting cast.

"Here Comes the Groom" is a mirthful comedy feature of a bewildered young piccolo player in love with one girl but on a honeymoon with another. Jack Haley, Mary Boland, Patricia Ellis, Neil Hamilton, Isabell Jewell and others are featured.

A Willie Whopper cartoon, "The sultan' the Sultan," and a World News Events film complete the bill.

FALLERT GIVES STATEMENT ON JOB SERVICE

Desiring to correct misunderstanding of the functions of the National Reemployment service, and to advise unemployed how to keep themselves on the active registration list, Charles Fallert, manager of the reemployment bureau in Orange county today issued a statement outlining the purpose of the service.

Fallert declared that the service is designed primarily to get the man and the job together, each man on the job for which he is best qualified. The National Reemployment Service has no connection whatever with the SERA program, he emphasized.

"Our purpose," said Fallert, "is to bring contractors and other employers and the unemployed together with the least expense and delay. Whenever we hear of a job or the possibility of a job we get in touch with that source. We are constantly contacting employers who are hiring or apt to be hiring additional men.

"There are some 1185 different labor classifications, so you will see that we are able to supply men for almost any kind of work.

At the time a man is registered with us we get a detailed record of his experience, the names of former employers and references as to ability to perform any given job. In most cases we are able to deliver a man for a job within a very few hours, in some cases minutes.

"It is not the intention of this service to interfere in any way with the employer's organization or tell him who he should hire. It is our sole purpose to impress employers that we have a service which can be of great assistance to them as well as to those seeking employment. If a man is needed for a job, all that is necessary is to call or write us and we will go anywhere in the county to get the man needed.

"In order that this department may keep in close touch with its applicants for jobs, it is necessary that each and every one who desires his application to be in the active file, which means eligibility for employment, must renew his application every 30 days. It is not necessary to call in person to do this; merely mail a card to the National Reemployment Service, Santa Ana, stating on the card the name, address and telephone number by which the applicant can be reached. Having the proper telephone number is essential, as that is the only method by which we can contact a person for employment."

THANKS FROM FIRST LADY

Below is a facsimile of the card of appreciation sent to residents of Santa Ana and Orange county by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in response to the huge Mother's Day card sent her in connection with the Breakfast club "Mothers of the World" pageant. Addressed to Stein's Stationery store, where the card originated, both the words on the card and address on the envelope were specially printed.

GEOGRAPHICAL ANGLE BELIEVED AID TO YOUNG

Geographical distribution of candidates was against him and responsible for his loss of the Republican nomination four years ago, but this year that factor is wholly in his favor, so he is confident of being the Republican nominee for governor, ex-Governor C. C. Young of Berkeley told an audience at Birch park yesterday afternoon.

Four years ago there were two northern candidates, Young and Rolph, and one from the south, Buron Fitts. Fitts cut into the normal Young following in Los Angeles to such an extent that, although he carried 47 of the 58 counties, Governor Young lost the nomination to James Rolph jr. he pointed out yesterday.

This year, however, he is the sole northern candidate, and all three of his opponents are from Los Angeles, so he expects the geographical advantage to clinch the nomination for him, he said.

His own record of business efficiency while in the governor's office, where he left a $31,000,000 surplus that has since been translated into a $31,000,000 deficit, he said, is his chief reliance upon return to the office, however.

The former governor declared that, important though the financial side of government is at present, the humanitarian side is more vital, and will be his principal concern if returned to office. He mentioned the problem of needed enlargement of prisons and state hospitals as needing solution.

County Supervisor W. C. Jerome, prominent Young supporter, introduced the ex-governor to the audience as "the best governor California has ever had."

GREY'S 'LAST TRAIL' ON WALKER SCREEN

Speed, action, romance and comedy are delightfully combined in Zane Grey's story, "The Last Trail," with George O'Brien playing the lead, which is the feature film on the current program at Walker's State theater, Manager Vic Walker said today.

The story concerns the transfer of racketeers activities from beer running in metropolitan centers to cattle rustling on the western plains. Claire Trevor adds the feminine touch to this thrilling action story, and El Brendel provides many good laughs.

Other subjects on the program are "Bully's End" a cartoon; another chapter of "The Wolf Dog"; a news reel; and a Harry Langdon comedy, "The Big Flash."

HELD FOR TRIAL FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Herbert W. Rice, 44, West Seventeenth street, arrested on May 27 on South Main street for drunken driving, was bound over to the superior court Wednesday when he appeared before Judge Kenneth Morrison in justice court.

Testimony was given by Dr. Arthur Wade, and California Highway Patrolmen Walter Meyer and Charles Wolfe. A motion to dismiss the defendant was made following the evidence but was denied by Judge Morrison.

ENROLL VETERANS FOR C. C. C. CAMPS

The veterans contingent for enrollment in CCC camps will be reopened, it was announced today by Harry Edwards, Orange county veteran welfare officer, whose offices are in the courthouse annex.

Edwards said that there is no limit to the number of veterans who will be used in CCC camps and that all Orange county veterans who desire can enroll for service.

WILLYS 77 USED ON VACATION TRIP

Showing the feasibility of a land and water vacation trip, a Willys 77 sedan was driven from Los Angeles north to Victoria, B. C. and then shipped back by boat to give the passengers a wide variety of scenery and experiences.

According to William E. Otis, local Willys distributor at Fifth and Birch streets, the new car average more than 28 miles per gallon of gasoline during the entire land trip of 1500 miles, which was made at high speeds with night and day driving. The trip north was made via Bakersfield, Sacramento, Redding, Medford, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, B. C., and then by ferry to Victoria.

Otis pointed out that the trip would make an ideal vacation tour at medium expense and would combine the climate and scenery of the south and north with the contrast in Canada and the comfort of an ocean journey.

ACTION AGAINST CITY OF ORANGE DROPPED TODAY

The family of William Rout, who suffocated while a prisoner in the Orange city jail December 24, 1932, has abandoned the $25,000 damage suit against the city and its bonding company, and confined the action to Orange police officers. It was revealed today with the filing of an amended complaint

Former Chief of Police B. F. Richards and Officers Homer Davis, G. W. Coltrane and E. A. Shaffer, are the defendants now remaining in the case.

The original complaint, naming the City of Orange and the indemnity company as defendants, was successfully attacked by City Attorney Gordon X. Richmond, representing the city, and District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, representing the bonding company. Richmond's demurrer was sustained by the court, on the ground that the city was not liable for the negligence of its officers.

The city attorney had cited the old common law rule, "The king can do no wrong," applying it to the case at bar with the contention that a municipal corporation is not liable for negligence of its officers while they are engaged in performance of governmental function. He contended that operation of the jail was a governmental function.

The local case is the first in California in which the theory was applied to the case of a death in a jail.

The complaint brought by Mrs. Dora Rout and her children Cecil Howard Rout and Wilma Marie Rout, charges that William Rout's death during the night in question was due to negligence of the officers in not keeping watch upon the jail. A fire started during the night and Rout died of suffocation. His body was found next morning.

U. S. MISSIONARY IS KILLED BY CHINESE

PEIPING, China, June 15.—(UP)—Dr. J. H. Ingram, veteran American medical missionary, was shot to death by bandits today at his summer home 15 miles from Peiping. His terrified wife and three grand children escaped to the city.

Dr. Ingram was more than 70 years old. For some years Mrs. Mayer was tutor to the wife of Emperor Pu Yi of Manchukuo.

American Minister Nelson T. Johnson visited local authorities as soon as he learned of Dr. Ingram's death and demanded restoration of order in the hills near the city, where bandits have been active.

AGITATION AGAINST BRANION IGNORED

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 15.—(UP)—Agitation to remove R. C. Branion, federal-state relief administrator, failed to excite Branion today as he continued working on a program of unemployment relief which he will recommend to state legislators.

BATTLE FLEET TO RETURN TO COAST

SAN DIEGO, June 15.—(UP)—The entire United States fleet will be based at Los Angeles and San Diego harbors for at least 18 months following its return from its current Atlantic visit, according to the tentative fleet employment schedule released through the eleventh naval district headquarters here.

The schedule outlines that, beginning July 1, 1935, the battle and scouting forces will remain in the Pacific for a 12-month period. One fleet problem is scheduled with the warships concentrating either in the Hawaiian or Caribbean area, in April or May of 1936.

The schedule provides that the fleet thereafter again returns to Pacific waters.

WILLARD CLASS GETS DIPLOMAS AT GRADUATION

A double commencement program for graduates of Frances E. Willard Junior high school filled the auditorium of that school to capacity last night, as a class of 200 was presented with diplomas.

Exercises for the low 10 class of 60 members, at 6:45 p. m., was followed by a second program at 8:15 p. m. for the high nine class of 140 members.

An overture by the Frances Willard orchestra, under direction of Miss Esther Jean Davis, ushered in the first program, followed by the processional, "United Liberty". The Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the Church of the Messiah, gave the invocation. Two numbers by the girls' glee club, Miss Helen Glancy director, and Margaret Davies accompanist, followed.

The honor society then was presented by Mrs. Maurine Scott, advisor, after which Margaret Davies rendered a piano solo.

Principal Lyle Mitchell presented the class of graduates, with a brief talk, and City Superintendent Frank A. Henderson then made presentation of the diplomas. The flag salute by the class and the recessional, "Flag of Truce", completed the program.

After a brief interval the high nine graduation exercises opened with the overture by the Willard orchestra, followed by the processional. After the Rev. Hatter gave the invocation, Luisiana Chavez, with Miss Glancy as accompanist, rendered two vocal solos.

Mrs. Scott presented the high nine honor society, and George S. Richardson, chairman of the Americanization committee of the American Legion, presented Legion awards. The low 10 boys' chorus, with Miss Davis as director and Mrs. Grace I. Lund as accompanist, rendered two numbers.

Principal Mitchell again presented the graduates, and Superintendent Henderson repeated the presentation of promotion certificates. The flag salute and processional closed the evening's exercises.

FARM GROUP URGES ACTION BY DISTRICT

A request that the Orange County Farm Bureau urge the Orange County Water District to immediately employ a personnel and establish itself as a functioning unit for the purpose for which it was organized, that is, for the protection of water rights, development of additional water and elimination of water waste and conservation of water, was embodied in a resolution adopted at a joint meeting of the Garden Grove, Cypress, Orangethorpe, Foothill and West Orange Farm Centers last night in Garden Grove.

The resolution adopted recognized the major water problems in Orange county as being flood control, water conservation, elimination of waste, securing of additional water and protection of basin water rights.

"We advise the Orange County Farm Bureau that we agree with and support their stand in asking the board of supervisors to make a vigorous effort to secure complete federal aid for flood control and water conservation," the document, which was presented by W. H. Musser, chairman of the Garden Grove Farm Center water committee, said.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(UP)—As the war debts accounts stood today, every man, woman and child in the United States stood to pay nearly four dollars in taxes for the amount which the debtor nations are in default to the treasury of this country.

With 12 of the 13 debtor governments defaulting on the June 15 installments, $174,647,439.19 was added to the huge amount already in arrears or default, bringing the grand total of arrears to $475,068,625.79. Over half of this is owed by Great Britain alone, and nearly one-third of it by France.

ARREST YOUTH AS SUSPECT IN THEFT CASES

Apprehension of an alleged car-stripping ring, which included Le Roy Haley, 23, member of the Santa Ana High school graduating class which received diplomas this afternoon, was completed by Orange county and Los Angeles county sheriffs' officers yesterday.

Los Angeles officers first arrested Emil Van Acker, 25, Los Angeles youth, who is said to have stolen a car and brought it to Haley's home at 105 Halladay street, where it was stored for several nights. Haley was taken into custody yesterday by Deputy Sheriff R. E. Steinberger and Officers Borden and Stewart of Los Angeles, and taken to the Los Angeles county jail. Lester La Montanes of Riverside was arrested yesterday afternoon as another member of the ring.

It is believed that the three men stripped the car and sold the parts, according to police reports.

Haley has been a student here for two years, and was working his way though school, after having had previous experience in the merchant marine service. He was employed in the school cafeteria and other school activities, and was scheduled to graduate today.

The boys were arraigned to Los Angeles today on grand theft charges, and preliminary hearings were set for Monday morning.

SEEK KILLER SNAKE AS 5 RATTLERS DIE

LAGUNA BEACH, June 15.—Five rattlesnakes held in captivity at the California serpentorium, on Coast boulevard, have been killed in some mysterious manner during the last two weeks, and the killer is still undiscovered, ready for new victims, according to A. Pierce Artran, manager of the institution.

The vipers died in the large pit located on the main floor which houses a collection of dangerous and poisonous reptiles.

"There is absolutely nothing in the pit which could injure them, and the wounds are all in pairs, showing plainly they were made by fangs," Artran explained. "We are completely stumped."

According to the theory advanced by Artran, one of the rattlers kept in the pit is the killer, but he must kill only at night, as no one has been able to catch him in the act.

Artran went on to explain that most rattlers get along beautifully, adding that this is the first time in his experience that one of these snakes has turned killer among his own kind.

The board authorized the temporary employment of Ralph C. Flewelling, a Los Angeles architect, representing the Southern California chapter of the American Institute of Architects, who will act as professional advisor to the board in the matter of securing the services of a competent architect for the proposed building program. Under a plan submitted by Flewelling, an invitation would be extended to architects living in this section of the state to submit offers for their services with the understanding that one of the competitors would be employed on a scale of compensation fixed by the Institute of Architects.

Hermosa Man May Place 'Olympian' Off Balboa Pier

NEWPORT BEACH, June 15.—Possibility of the anchoring of a new fishing barge just outside of Balboa was seen today with the application of Capt. J. M. Anderson, well known fisherman of Hermosa Beach, for a permit to anchor his barge "Olympian" off the Balboa pier.

Some arrangements will have to be made with holders of the present barge concession, it was said, before the new barge can come in. If successful in his application, Anderson said, he plans to anchor just off the channel, and run a speed boat service from the Balboa pier.

The two J. E. McFarlane barges, "California", and "Mindanao" were moved this week from off Laguna Beach to a point just off the Newport pier. Fishermen report spotty fishing, with some fair yellowtail catches being made.

Politically Speaking

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 15.—(UP)—Boosted by fate from the ranks of gubernatorial candidates to the position of chief executive, Acting Gov. Frank F. Merriam had the chances for the party nomination strengthened by Ex-Gov. Friend W. Richardson.

When Richardson announced he would remain out of the governorship contest and throw his support to Merriam, the acting governor became, in the opinion of many observers, the strongest candidate in the republican field. Richardson urged all republicans to support Merriam, and even advised other G. O. P. candidates to drop out.

In return, Richardson may be expected to pluck one of the best plums which will be distributed by Merriam. Either the bank superintendency or finance directorship would pay him $10,000 annually--the same salary received by the governor--or he may become head of the railroad commission, at $8,000.

Merriam said he had no spot in mind for Richardson, but that "he could have almost any job he wants."

"All republicans certainly should support their party candidates," said Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift, "and plan particularly to vote republican in the November election, because it looks like Upton Sinclair will lead the democratic field.

Republicans a few months ago were pleased with Sinclair's progress but now some of them appear to be worried by reports of his popularity.

Patrick J. Cooney, Los Angeles attorney who worked hard for the Roosevelt campaign and received nothing for his personal efforts, has aligned with Sinclair and will seek the democratic nomination for attorney general.

Manchester Boddy, publisher of the Los Angeles Illustrated Daily News, is seriously considering filing for governor on the democratic ticket, and will make a decision shortly.

Staunch supporters of the Roosevelt program, Boddy and his newspaper are recognized as being very liberal. The News played a prominent part in the San Gabriel dam scandal which sent two men to prison, and led various vice exposes.

Boddy has been in the publishing business most of his life.

Democratic registration in Los Angeles county has forged ahead of republican figures for the first time in history. The same is true of San Francisco and other localities close to metropolitan areas, and even in isolated agricultural sections Bourbons have gained strength steadily.

The Democratic Confederation of California, comprised of clubs in central and northern California, endorsed William H. Evans as the party choice for governor. Evans, a Los Angeles candidate, has been active in public life for many years, but this is the first time he has entered politics. He credits himself with conceiving the idea of the C. C. C. and the Grubstake Homestead plan. He represented striking motion picture technicians before the National Labor Board, and aided in the introduction of a bill to appropriate $5,000,000 for Southern California earthquake relief.

Ex-Gov. C. C. Young, seeking the republican nomination, has been making a whirlwind trip about the state visiting county seats and making personal contacts. He is the heaviest traveler of all the candidates.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By J. GORDON ALLARD
Certified Culbertson Teacher

The current article on contract bridge, written by J Gordon Allard, director of the Claremont Crockford club and Culbertson contract bridge instructor, will be the final article this season.

If readers of The Register so desire, Allard will sontinue to write the articles for them next fall, it was stated. Those desiring continuance of the series should phone 29.

To continue with the discussion which I started last week on the subject of coups, let me remind you that a grand coup is a play by which declarer shortens the number of trumps in his own hand to correspond to the number of trumps held by his right-hand opponent, so that, by getting the lead in the dummy, he may force opponent's trump and overtrump in his own hand. It may be said that declarer "discards" trumps on winning cards. The following hand is an example of a very interesting and rare play, a quadruple grand coup.

North—S. 3, 2; H. A, K, Q, J; D. A, Q, 6; C. A, Q, J, 4.

West—S. none; H. 10, 8, 7, 5, 4, 3; D. J, 10, 9, 5; C. 7, 5, 3.

East—S. Q, 9, 7, 5; H. 9, 6, 2; D. 7, 4, 3; C. 9, 8, 6.

South—S. A, K, J, 10, 8, 6, 4; H. none; D. K, 8, 2; C. K, 10, 4.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

Both sides vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1S	Pass	3H(1)	Pass
4S(2)	Pass	5N.T.(3)	Pass
7S	All pass

(1) A forcing takeout showing at least 3 1-2 honor tricks.

(2) A jump rebid showing a six-card or longer trump suit that contains not more than one possible loser. This bid can be used only after a strength-showing bid from partner, be it a forcing takeout or jump notrump.

(3) An unconditionally forcing bid, indicating three aces and a king of a suit previously bid by either partner.

West opens the J of diamonds, and South takes the trick with the K. To the second trick South should lead the Ace of spades in an attempt to discover the spade distribution, and with the hope of catching the Queen a singleton. When West shows up void in spades, it is quite obvious to South that a grand coup must be attempted in order to make the contract. His only hope is that East holds at least three cards in each of the other suits, for if he does not, the coup cannot be executed. Declarer now leads the eight of diamonds taking it with the Queen in Dummy, and returns the 3 of spades in dummy taking it with the eight in his own hand; this is followed by another diamond lead, which thus leaves three hands void in diamonds. From Dummy Declarer now leads the A of hearts and trumps it in his hand with the four of spades; this is the first coup. Declarer now returns the K of clubs and takes it with the A in Dummy, and returns from Dummy the K of hearts trumping it in his hand with the 6 of spades; this is the second coup; Declarer now leads the 4 of clubs, takes in the Dummy with the Q, returns the Q of hearts and trumps in his hand with the ten of spades, which is the third coup. Declarer has now shortened his trumps to the same length as his right-hand opponent. Declarer now leads the ten of clubs to the J in Dummy, returning the J of hearts which forces East to trump with the 9 and South overtrumps with the J. This is the Fourth coup, and Declarer makes all thirteen tricks.

RUBY GRAY AND EARLE WENGER WED IN TUSTIN

TUSTIN, June 15.—Choosing the Tustin Presbyterian church as the setting for her wedding, Miss Ruby Gray, daughter of Mrs. Doris Gray of El Modena, plighted her troth at 8 o'clock Thursday night to Dr. Earle Wenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wenger of Upland.

The Rev. Earl Moore of the Whittier Friends church officiated at the single-ring ceremony, which was witnessed by 250 relatives and friends from various points in Southern California.

The church had been lavishly decorated for the event, with the ceremony taking place before an altar of palms, ferns, baskets of pink and pale yellow gladioluses, and many glowing ivory candles in tall iron candelabra.

Preceding the marriage rites, pipe organ selections were rendered by Miss Helen Schoeneberg; marimba numbers by Delyn Hornaday and Clarence Peterson, and two vocal solos, "O, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Just a Song at Twilight," by the Rev. Joseph Reese.

As the organist played the Lohengrin's Wedding march, the bride, a beautiful young brunet, entered on the arm of her uncle, Elwood Paddock of Panorama Heights. She wore a long white satin and lace wedding gown and long white lace net wedding veil. Her bouquet was composed of pink and pale yellow roses and lilies of the valley.

DAUGHERTY AND WILKIE SPEAK TO ROTARIANS

ORANGE, June 15.—Members of the Orange Rotary club enjoyed a special feature program Thursday noon at the Legion clubhouse, marked by a visitation of the Anaheim Rotary club in a body, two featured speakers, and the presence of Rotarians from widely scattered cities of the country.

Returning a visitation made by the Orange club several weeks ago, Anaheim Rotarians came to the Orange meeting in a body, headed by President Dr. D. D. Waynick, and bringing with them Capt. Don Wilkie of Laguna Beach and recently elected to Rotary club membership in that city, one of the speakers of the day.

Captain Wilkie, a candidate for sheriff, talked upon the use of science in crime detection, and devoted a large part of his time to telling about the German murder squad, an organization of trained experts who work anywhere in the country, without being limited to local boundary lines. He gave specific instances in which this group of experts was able to solve murder mysteries which would not have been possible without the up-to-date and scientific methods used.

The other featured speaker was Edwin M. Daugherty, California state commissioner of corporations, who had been secured by State Senator Nelson T. Edwards, chairman of the day. Daugherty told of the service his department has rendered to investors of California, particularly in enforcement of the Corporate Securities act and the so-called blue sky laws.

California's losses through fake stocks and promotional schemes is less in proportion to money invested, than nearly all other states, the speaker declared. While his department cannot guarantee profits of any corporation, or prevent losses to investors through poor judgment or poor business management, it does prevent false scheme promoters from being allowed to sell their so-called securities in the state Daugherty declared.

Besides the group of Anaheim members, other Rotarians were guests at the meeting from Whittier, Santa Ana, Wisconsin and Omaha, Nebraska. Also present were Assemblymen Ted Craig of Brea, and James B. Utt of Tustin.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Warren.

MUNICIPAL BASEBALL PARK DEDICATED WHEN LIONS AND 20-30 CLUB PLAY TONIGHT

ORANGE, June 15.—The municipal ball park, located in the new city park project along the Santiago creek on South Glassell street, and constructed as a CWA project, will be dedicated tonight with appropriate ceremonies, participated in by city officials and sponsored by the Orange 20-30 club.

Bleachers have been erected, seating approximately 700 people, and the new lighting system was tested out last evening in readiness for tonight's program, to be featured by a game between the Orange 20-30 club team and the Brea Lions club team of the night ball league.

The program is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock, with brief talks by Mayor C. J. Hessell and Councilman A. H. Heim. City Attorney C. C. Bonebrake, who was in direct charge of the park improvements, and Councilmen Cal D. Lester, E. M. Chapman and Dr. J .E. Riley will be introduced. A loud speaker system will broadcast the talks and also provide incidental music for the occasion.

The Orange-Brea ball game is set to start at 8 o'clock, with Mayor Hessel throwing the first ball, Chief of Police George Franzen catching it and Justice of the Peace A. W. Swayze making the swing.

Entrance to the park will be via South Glassell street and River avenue. The latter street has recently been widened and surfaced with gravel and oil, and extended into and through the city park, providing an easy entrance and adequate parking space for automobiles.

Tonight's game is regarded as an important one in the night league race, inasmuch as a victory for Orange would keep the local team a possibility in the first-half championship, while a defeat would mean virtual elimination of Oscar Strutheit's boys as a first-round contender. In the opening game, Brea upset the local team, 6 to 2.

Jack Dugan will hurl for Orange in tonight's dedicatory game, with Rudy Montgomery, former American leaguer, on the mound for Brea.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 15.—Washington, California, Pennsylvania.

Professional soothsayers assembled here unfurl endless charts and sheets and come to the conclusion that they'll finish in that order tomorrow in the nation's most spectacular sweep-swinging struggle, the 36th regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association.

But there will be four other varsity crews out there on the Hudson, and only one, Columbia, can be counted out with any degree of certainty. Columbia is farther from being the gem of the ocean than at any time since 1929, when the late Young Dick Glendon's creation led the procession over the historic four-mile course.

Navy, Cornell or Syracuse is capable of edging out the favored ones—coming from the ruck to prevail like Cavalcade in the stretch.

Weather and water play an important part in these blade beating extravaganzas. Numerous highly rated eights have been yanked from their shells with gunwales awash.

The junior varsity number is as open as the major league pennant hunts, with California the choice, if there is one. Washington is the unanimous pick among the freshmen.

• • •

WASHINGTON IMPRESSIVE

Al Ulbrickson, young mentor of Washington, with physically impressive varsity and frosh arrays, frankly expects first-class returns.

"Illness has kept three men out most of the season," says Ulbrickson, "and although they're back, we have had trouble regaining the form that was ours when we beat California by a deck on Lake Washington April 13."

Ulbrickson believes his 1934 Huskies to be a length and a half slower than the eight who captured the national sprint championships at Long Beach, Cal., last July. Five of that boatload will be bearing down between the bending banks of Poughkeepsie, however, and there scarcely will be a smoother pace-setter in the field than Ed Argersinger, the Seattle stroke.

Washington senses another run of paddling glory such as it experienced in 1923, '24 and '26, when it showed the way on the Hudson.

"Our freshman crew is as good as anything we ever had," smiles Ulbrickson.

"California's chances in the varsity and jayvee races depend on the manner in which our men take to an unfamiliar course," explains Ky Ebright, the former Washington coxswain who guided the Bears to successive Olympic championships. "We have the material for a good crew but most of the boys have no idea of wind or current conditions in this region. Reg Watt is the only one who has been on the Hudson before, and he's a coxswain. As a matter of fact, only two of our varsity men have had previous experience.

"Our varsity lost to Washington by a quarter of a length. Our jayvees won by ten lengths. So we began shifting men. Since then four jayvees have moved into our first boat with good results.

"I believe the winner will have Washington to beat. The Huskies are good."

• • •

CREWS DON'T COME TO 'KEEPSIE FOR THE RIDE

Ebright suspects that the veterans from the Puget Sound country took California none too seriously, were caught by surprise when they battled brow-and-brow, and consequently will be more formidable this trip.

"Rusty" Callow, tutor of Pennsylvania, principal hope of the east, hopes for a cool evening. He has a good, scrappy combination which can be counted upon to turn in a heady race, but it is light and has been handicapped by a shortage of work.

Jim Wray, the Australian who coaches Cornell, has shifted his lineup considerably. The Big Red finished second to California in the last Poughkeepsie event in 1932, and Wray expects another fine performance.

"Buck" Walsh of Navy professes to believe that his crew lacks the weight to row four miles with top-notchers, and Jim Ten Eyck, grand old man of Syracuse, is reticent, but crews don't come to Poughkeepsie for the ride.

And, as related in the foregoing, many a dark horse has caught its second wind under the towering spans of the old railroad bridge that marks the last long mile.

HAIL BAER AS 'NEW DEMPSEY'

CALIFORNIAN'S FISTS TOPPLE GIANT CARNERA

BY STUART CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 15. — The heavyweight championship of the world was back in America today, borne on the crashing crescendo of Max Baer's dynamite fists.

Boxing has the spectacular colorful figure it has needed since Dempsey's day. The new champion is a slugger.

In 2:16 minutes of the eleventh round of last night's fight, Maxie Baer of California smashed his way to a vicious technical knockout over the unpopular Primo Carnera of Italy, and with the final battering blow, heavyweight boxing was restored to the status it held in the halcyon days of Johnson, Willard, Dempsey and Tunney. The sport has a champion whom none denies.

In all, Carnera was floored a dozen times.

Carnera Badly Beaten

If boxing ever had a beaten champion it was the giant, battered Carnera in that thrill-filled eleventh round. His nose was broken and bleeding. Baer, who seemed to have the fight won in the first round, again in the second, and still again in the tenth, came out for the kill. He had Carnera all but out on his feet.

A few seconds after the eleventh gong was struck, Maxie floored Carnera with a right to the head. Referee Arthur Donovan counted up to "three." Reeling, Carnera pulled his huge, drooping body upright.

Baer drove a relentless left to the body. Primo, dazed, raised his fists weakly; picked at Maxie's head with meaningless lefts.

Again Maxie lashed out. His power-packed right caught Primo squarely aside the head. Down went the champion. Obviously out on his feet, Carnera struggled up again. But Referee Donovan led Maxie away and finally raised Baer's hand in signal of victory.

Crowd Wildly Excited

The crowd of 55,000 was wildly excited throughout.

The tip-off came in the opening round.

After nearly two minutes of cautious sparring, Baer floored Carnera with a right to the chin. Primo was up at once. He beat a hasty retreat against the ropes near a neutral corner. Baer-swarmed all over the giant and drove him through the ropes. Carnera weathered the round.

The second round was as much wrestling as it was boxing. Baer cracked over a right to the body. Down went Carnera.

Baer, football fashion, was pulled down on top of him. Hardly had the tangle of legs been cleared when Baer popped him again. Once more Primo went down and once again Baer flowved on top of him, deliberately, so it seemed.

Baer banged out a terrific right to the head and Carnera toppled over backwards. This time Maxie tangled into Primo's legs, tripped and fell.

Baer Prances, Clowns

Again in the fifth, Baer looked like a certain winner when a wildly swung left started a Carnera nosebleed which continued to the end. But Baer seemed to be enjoying himself. He pranced, laughed and clowned and refused to pursue the advantage until the tenth and eleventh.

As the tenth started Primo seemed to be stronger. Meantime, Max put on a show. When Primo barely reached him with a left flick to the head Baer did a dying swan pose, sagging his knees in mockery. The crowd liked that.

But Baer soon quit jesting. A right to the head and a left to the body brought the champion reeling to the floor. When he reached his feet it appeared he had asked Donovan to stop the fight. Donovan stood between them a few seconds; then beckoned the fighters to continue.

Pressmen Confused

Carnera again was floored and again arose. For a moment it seemed that Donovan had stopped the fight but the bell rang and they went to their corners. Immediately scores of ringside pressmen yelled "That's it! Baer by technical knockout! Donovan stopped the show!"

But nothing happened and they came out for the fatal eleventh.

The outcome of last night's fight opened the gates to a gold mine for Max Baer.

He will talk to boxing writers about title defenses but his closest associates insist that the movies will get the first call. He did one picture, "The Prizefighter and the Lady", and it was a success. He wore his movie dressing robe, with "Steve Morgan" on the back, into the ring. As champion, his movie salary probably will be trebled. Meantime there is the radio.

Loughran Promised Bout

For Carnera there's nothing much in sight except watchful waiting and a hope that Baer meant it when he said he would give Primo a return bout. But Maxie badn't been in his dressing room two minutes before he promised Joe Smith, manager of Tommy Loughran, the first crack at the crown.

Baer came out of the fight apparently in excellent condition. Not so Carnera. Physicians said his nose was broken. They feared he had broken a small ankle bone, and they were to look further for a possible rib fracture.

IN THE WAKE OF BAER'S SMASHING VICTORY

Californian May Fight Hamas in September But Hollywood Beckons Him Now

PRIMO CAN'T WALK, ANKLE MAY BE BROKEN

By United Press

NEW YORK, June 15.—Max Baer may defend his title in September, he said today, but emphasized that at present he is more concerned with radio and motion picture contracts.

"I may fight Steve Hamas or someone else in September," Baer said, "if I have assurance that such a contest would draw well. But my ring plans are very indefinite right now."

The champion arose shortly before noon and went up to the roof of his hotel to pose for pictures. He expressed interest in a pretty woman who watched him from a door, but she darted away before he could learn her name.

"Who's the Number 1 woman now?" asked a friend.

"My mother," flipped Baer.

"She won't sue me."

He professed pained surprise that sportswriters should consider him a clown.

"People don't understand me," he explained with mock seriousness. "I'm a Jekyl-and-Hyde. Outwardly I laugh. Inwardly I am very serious. What I want to do now is end up with a trust fund and not be one of those guys who get the toy balloon concession in an insane asylum."

The Baer establishment still was jubilant today over the Primo Carnera knockout, although Papa Jacob Baer's enthusiasm was slightly tempered by that morning-after feeling.

"If I told you how I felt, you couldn't put it in the paper," Papa Baer groaned. "My head felt like it was nailed to the pillow when I woke up. Just celebrating with a little beer, that's all."

In contrast to the Baer suite was the jail cell of William (Big Bill) Duffy, one of Carnera's managers and the man generally credited with steering him to the crown. Duffy, who is serving a four-months' term for income tax evasion, heard the fight over the radio and, according to other prisoners, took it as hard as the ex-champ himself.

One prisoner said Duffy was upset because Carnera failed to take the count of nine each time he was knocked down. This would have given him additional time to collect his faculties.

• • •

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Primo Carnera will not be able to walk for at least two weeks, Dr. Vincent Fanoni, his physician, said today.

The ex-champion's ankle is badly swollen and x-rays will be taken today to determine whether a bone is broken.

Primo Carnera

Primo tore some ligaments when he fell the first time in the first round," Fanoni said. "That's why he could barely stand up in the following rounds, and went several times to the floor without being hit."

The physician disclosed that he had wanted the match postponed, due to the bad physical condition of the Italian giant, but that Primo himself insisted the match go on.

"Carnera had a grippe attack two weeks ago," Fanoni said, "but he did not call me until a week later. I told him he must stay in bed but he disobeyed me. Besides the grippe, Primo also had frontal sinus. He was in no condition for the match."

Asked why he pronounced Carnera fit when newspapermen interviewed him before the fight, Fanoni said, "I was instructed to do so, Carnera fearing that any announcement to the contrary would have hurt the gate receipts."

• • •

GARRISON, N. Y., June 15.—(UP)—Bill Brown, fiery member of the New York state athletic commission who called Maxie Baer a "bumb" fighter and tried to have the Baer-Carnera title bout postponed because of Maxie's poor condition, said today he was "delighted" that Baer gave the public a run for its money last night.

"I give Maxie credit," Brown said. "He got in there and gave the fans a great show. Most of all, he fought a good clean fight. This was not expected because of the rumors that he would use foul tactics.

"Despite my pre-fight statements about Baer, no one in the world is happier than I to see the heavyweight title back in the United States where it belongs. And I am glad Maxie was the man who brought it back.

"If Maxie will only behave himself, and get a couple of fights under his belt every year, he should be a great credit to boxing as titleholder. The boy has color, even if he is a clown. He makes lots of friends, and that's what counts."

• • •

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Primo Carnera did not know he had lost the world heavyweight championship last night until he recovered his senses completely in the dressing room after his fight with Maxie Baer, according to his trainer, Billy DeFoe.

DeFoe, one of the three seconds in Carnera's corner, told the United Press today that Primo was "out of his head" from the time he was floored for the first time in the opening round until he "came to" in the dressing room.

"Primo fought instinctively," DeFoe said. "He didn't know what he was doing. He complained only of his injured ankle; kept saying, 'My foot hurts, my foot hurts.' But he certainly made a game stand."

• • •

NEW YORK, June 15,—(UP)—California's Max Baer added another item to the rising sweep of that state's dominance in sport when he acquired the world heavyweight title last night.

Other Californians leading their fields:

Golf—Olin Dutra, U. S. Open champion; Lawson Little, British Amateur champion.

Tennis—Helen Jacobs, queen of the sport, American champion succeeding Helen Wills, also a Californian; Lester Stoefen, American indoor champion and dominant Davis cupper.

Track—Stanford's seven-man team won the I. C. 4-A.

Here's What Happened In Final Round

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UP)—Here's what happened in the 20 seconds that won the heavyweight championship for Max Baer:

Carnera, peppered by lefts and rights, was reeling and dazed. Baer swung a vicious right to the head. Carnera swayed and went down. He got up immediately, turned half around and walked—dazed—along the ropes.

Referee Donovan walked beside Carnera, whose lips moved slowly. Donovan stopped the fight, awarding Baer a technical knockout.

Donovan announced that Carnera had asked him to stop the fight. Asked what Carnera had said, Donovan told the United Press:

"I couldn't understand his words."

"How did you know he wanted the fight stopped?"

"By his motions, his condition, his gestures—everything."

Donovan stepped over to the other side of the ring and told newspapermen: "Carnera said, I'm through.' Anyway, it didn't matter because I was going to stop it then.

Carnera was later quoted as saying he did not ask Donovan to end the fight.

STARS TO PLAY ANAHEIM, H. B. NEXT 2 NIGHTS

Santa Ana will try to land the old one-two punch tonight and tomorrow.

Playing Anaheim at Anaheim this eve, and Huntington Beach here Saturday, the Stars make their supreme bid for first-half championship honors in the National Night Ball league.

Both contests are of paramount importance, not only to the conference in general, which is in the midst of the warmest flag race in its history, but also to the participating clubs which are among the numerous mathematical first-place contenders.

Anaheim now has won seven straight games from Santa Ana, and Manager Bill Cole figures it time for the percentage to swing the other way. The Stars thought they had the string snapped the last time they met the Valencias, which was their first meeting this term, but Anaheim's timely hitting and the Stars' failure to find wise old "String" McDonnell in the pinches eventually gave Anaheim a 3-0 decision, although Jim Coates hurled five-hit ball.

In view of his previous success, McDonnell again is expected to get Anaheim's assignment. The veteran had fine control, keeping his fast one low and inside, and not issuing a single walk. He is hard to beat when he can throw them there without getting in the hole.

Manager Cole has not decided who'll work for the Stars, may not make up his mind until the last minute. Coates may get the assignment, and again Cole may choose to save his ace for Huntington Beach. And if Coates waits for the Oilers, Cole isn't saying whether he'll shoot Ira DeBusk or Wilbur Stinchfield against Anaheim.

A new first baseman, Ernie Holbrook, is scheduled to make his debut with the Santa Ana club. Holbrook plays that position for the University of Southern California varsity. He is without experience in the night game, but with Sid Daley apparently serious in his holdout role, the time has come when Cole believes it necessary to break in somebody at the bag. The manager feels there is nothing to be gained waiting longer.

In addition to being a ball star for the Trojans, Holbrook is rated one of the finest basketball players on the coast. He is a tall, rangy youth of 6:3, who bats either from the right or left side of the plate. He lives in Long Beach.

Daley, one of the Stars' most valuable members, has been placed on the suspended list, a technical gesture so that the club won't exceed the league's player limit of 14. Daley's indisposition caught Santa Ana officials unprepared. Cole had to play first base himself at Olive, and "Bomo" Koral, a catcher, operated against Fullerton last Tuesday.

Joe Koral, younger brother of "Bomo," has signed a Santa Ana contract and will be with the squad as utility infielder. Joe hit .364 as a substitute last year, batting 33 times.

U. S. LEADS IN WIGHTMAN CUP TENNIS, 2 TO 1

BY HENRY L. McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 15.—After winning two singles matches in succession, the United States suffered its first set-back in defending the Wightman Cup today when the English doubles team of Miss E. M. Dearman and Nancy Lyle defeated Josephine Cruickshang, Santa Ana, Cal., and Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, 7-5, 7-5.

This left America ahead, two matches to one, at the end of today's play. Sarah Palfrey of Boston defeated Dorothy Round and Helen Jacobs, American women's champion, smothered Peggy Scriven in earlier singles matches. The winner of four encounters takes the seven-match series.

The doubles defeat was a succession of lost opportunities for the American girls. They were leading 5-3 in the first set at one time, and had reached set-point in the 10th game, only to see the Britons capture the set. Again in the ninth game of the second set the Americans had set-point After first winning the commanding lead of 5-2, Mis Babcock and Miss Cruickshank had victory within their grasp.

In both instances the American players caught buck fever and went to pieces. Throughout the match Miss Babcock was unable to make one volley out of five, while Miss Cruickshank's forehand was erratic.

Miss Jacobs made it clear early in the match that she was out to revenge her defeat by Miss Scrivin in the French women's finals recently. The match was hardly a contest.. Helen drew on all branches of her game, mixing chops, fierce drives and punishing volleys. In each of the two sets she swept through the first four games.

Miss Palfrey's victory was one of the most astonishing in Wimbledon tennis history, but one of the most richly deserved.

Lacking the power and the all-court game of her stronger rival, the slender American girl was forced to rely on strategy and subtlety. Throughout the match she found the weak spots in Miss Round's game with artistic precision.

MRS. CAMPBELL WINS

Even to par, Mrs. Dean Campbell won first place in a match play tournament for women at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday. Mrs. L. J. Bushard, two downs, was second, and Mrs. G. B. Talbert and Mrs. Hugh Shields, third, three down. Mrs. W. F. Kistinger, five down, won in Class B, followed by Mrs. N. W. Miller, seven down.

SOLIS WINNER OVER MARTINEZ IN SLOW BOUT

Years come and years go, but boxing fans go on forever. They never change likes or dislikes. They like fighters, dislike boxers.

Raoul Solis and Manuel Martinez, a couple of skillful lightweights, gave Orange County Athletic club customers a beautiful boxing lesson last night, but all they mustered for their efforts was a loud and lusty Bronx cheer from a well populated house.

Solis was awarded the decision after five rounds by Referee Freddie Oilmore. Most of the fans thought Martinez was entitled to more consideration, and press row was divided in opinion, although the concensus favored Solis.

Bout Slow, Uninteresting

It was a slow and uninteresting contest, particularly drab after a thrilling semi-windup which immediately preceded it. In the semi, little Paddy Quillen (Gillan), a happy chappy on anybody's card, took a decision from Bobby Perez after five rounds of he-man fighting by 112-pound midgets. Quillen had an edge in four heats, flooring Perez in the first one, but he never outclassed Perez. Action was fast, spirited.

Too strong and experienced, Jack Curley outroughed Westminster's Nino Reyes for three rounds and stepped him with a short right to Reyes' chin in the fourth.

After absorbing considerable leather in the first two rounds, Benny Gomez came back in the next two to grab a decision from Freddie Garcia. They were roly-poly heavyweights.

Brown Beaten by Elias

Rudy Elias of Watts decisioned Santa Ana's Paul Brown, thanks mostly to a third-round knockdown.

Art Hernandez shaded George Lira, the referee's ballot deciding a close engagement when the judges disagreed.

Referee Gilmore stopped the Art Aroya?Frank Gomez struggle between the second and third when he found the outclassed but game Arroya's nose was broken.

Ken Makuiyama knocked out Jack Collins in the first, Collins being badly outweighed. Basil Mc? Dowell, the weight-lifter, outpointed Joe Castillo. Gil Martinez opened the show b ytaking an unpopular decision from Art Torres.

Next Thursday's main event will match Leo Popez and Pappy Quillen, and Bill Wana with Paul Garcia.

Max Popular Everywhere--But Studios

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—(UP)—Maxie Baer, now that he is heavyweight champion, can lay aside his gloves and resume his film career.

Observers are laying odds he'll be back soon, lured by the offers of at least two studios. Popular as he may be with the studio heads, he is no great favorite of those who worked with him in his first and only picture.

Co-workers did not take to his robust sense of humor nor his manner of carrying his honors.

"If that guy comes back to this lot," grumbled one actor, "they'll have to enlarge the front gate to fit his head."

But his bluster wa sthe most painful ordeal for the film colonists. Joan Crawford was staggered when Maxie chirruped, "Hello, Baby," in acknowledging an introduction. Lupe Velez was, miracle of miracles, all but speechless when the curly-haired giant swung her up in his arms.

"I tell Johnny," shrieked Lupe. She meant Johnny Weismuller, her husband.

"Who the heck is Johnny?" smiled Maxie. "He's just a swimmer."

Gardiner, Hockey Ace, Is Summoned

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, June 15.—(UP)—Charles ("Chuck") Gardiner, captain of the world champion Chicago Black Hawks and outstanding goal tender in the National Hockey league for several seasons, was mourned today by thousands of friends and admirers throughout Canada and the United States.

The young curly-haired Scot died suddenly from a brain tumor a few hours after he was taken to the hospital. He had been ill since Sunday, growing steadily weaker until he passed into a coma.

CALIFORNIA'S CREW 'KEEPSIE FAVORITE

The Poughkeepsie regatta will be broadcast by KFI and KHJ, beginning about 3:15

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 15.—(UP)—Seven varsity crews bid for National rowing honors tomorrow night in the annual renewal of the Intercollegiate Rowing association regatta over the four-mile course on the Hudson.

The 1934 race will be another East-against-West affair. Two boatloads of brawny young giants from the Pacific slope carry the buaden of favor, with California getting whatever edge can be given in an event fraught with uncertainties of weather, tide and river surface.

Washington which holds a victory over California early this season, shares favor with the Berkeley eight, while Cornell, with the heaviest boatload on the river, is expected to land the Eastern pack. Ranged close behind these are the four remaining crews of the East, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, the Navy and Columbia.

TROJANS ENROLL 26 IN N. C. A. A. EVENTS

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(UP)—The University of Southern California, as host, will have the largest entry list in the field for the N. C. A. A. track and field championships here June 22 and 23, it was learned today.

Coach Dean Cromwell nominated 26 Trojans for places in the various events, 19 more than Louisiana State, defending champion, will have in the field.

There's many a slip 'twixt the water and the net, and more fish than you realize are lost just as the angler is leading his captive up to the mesh.

There's a right way and a wrong way to net a fish, and netting bass caught on multi-ganged hooks and trout caught on a tuft of feathers and hair calls for two different methods. Both fish, however, are netted with one general principle in mind—never pull the fish to you and then plunge the net into the water, pull the fish over it, and then scoop him up.

In netting trout, pull the fish into the net head first. This prevents it from lashing it tail on the lower meshes of the net and getting enough leverage to leap out, as it would if landed tail first.

In netting a bass or a pike caught on a plug with several gang hooks, the hooks sometimes become tangled in the mesh of the net and prevent the fish from entering head first.

This delay often is the cause of losing the fish, for at the sight of the net he puts up his last battle and, with the hooks secured in the net, obtains leverage enough to twist himself loose.

One thing to remember before you start on a trip is to carry along a net large enough for your fish. You can't land a 30-inch pike in a 24-inch bass net.

TOTAL RECEIPTS OF BIG BOUT $428,392

Carnera's share — 37 1/2 per cent of the remainder, or $122,057.08.

Baer's shares—20 per cent of the net, less Milk Fund deduction, or $65,044.31.

Friday—Santa Ana at Anaheim; Long Beach at Torrance; Westminster at Fullerton.

Saturday— Huntington Beach at Santa Ana.

Overcoming a five-run lead in the last two innings, Huntington Beach defeated Olive, 9-8, and moved into a three-way tie for first place in the National Night league at Olive last night.

The Packers hammered "Chico" Sabella out of the box in the seventh inning when they increased an early advantage to 8-3. The veteran Howard Morning finished nicely, got credit for the win when Joe Rodgers' Oilers put on a five-run rally in the eighth which sent Rudy Heman reeling to the showers. Hits by Maness, Smith, Morning, Osborn and Zaby, interspersed with several wild pitches by Paul Watson, who replaced Heman during the orgy, tied the score at 8-8.

Huntington Beach made its winning run off Watson in the ninth. Bob Smith led off with his fourth double of the evening, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Pete Osborn's single.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

© 1934 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

To cute Jack Horner, Dotty said, "About you I have often read. I never thought, however, you could do what you have done.

"I wonder if you'd let me try to pull a plum out of your pie. It is a real good trick, and I'll bet it's lots of fun."

"There's no use trying," Jack replied. "There are no more fine plums inside. My mother put just one in, so that I could do my trick.

"This pie is full of apples, lad. That ought to make you feel real glad, 'cause you are going to eat it. When it's gone, the pan I'll lick."

* * *

"Hurray," cried Duncy. "Let's start now. I'll very gladly show you how to get rid of a great big piece. It will not take me long."

Then Dotty said, "Each piece will be the same size. Gee, I cannot see why you are always pigish, when you know that it is wrong."

The pie was cut by Goldy, and the Tinymites agreed 'twas grand. When wee Jack Horner licked the pan, it made the Tinies roar.

Soon Coppy said, "Well, thank you, son. Now, on our way we'd better run. We'll travel down the road to see what new sights are in store."

* * *

"Why, say," said Jack. "Not far from here, there is a milkmaid. She's a dear. Why don't you go and help her milk? A nice cool drink you'll get."

And so the Tinies started out, and soon the bunch heard Windy shout, "I see a girl right now. She is the sweet milkmaid, I'll bet."

The whole crowd rushed up, unafraid. "Where are you going pretty maid?" asked Duncy. "Why, amilking, sir," the kindly maid replied.

"Oh, can we watch you," Goldy said. The girl replied, "Sure! Come ahead! While I am at the task, you all can stand right by my side."

ACTIVITIES OF CITRUS GROUP ARE DIVIDED

D. D. Waynick, of Anaheim, chairman of the citrus department of the Orange County Farm Bureau today advised that the activities of this department have been divided into three sub-committees, each of which will handle certain phases of the work. Those sub-committees and their programs are as follows:

Production committee— Harold Brewer, Orange, chairman; labor problems; dependability of estimates; and conservative irrigation programs.

Stabilization committee—J. L. Wheeler, Laguna Beach, chairman; general problems of stabilization; uniformity in accounting systems in packing houses; proper publicity in handling citrus matters; the Teague plan or any other plan of compensaton for lower grade fruit; pooling methods within a packing house; and methods of distribution to the retailers and through chain stores.

Standardization committee—Perry Mathis, Anaheim, chairman; uniformity in enforcement of all statutes now on the books; careful check of methods of determining maturity; and checking of problems of weed seed and certification of manures.

THE FABLE OF THE BOTHERED BAKER

"Years ago, a bakery in Los Angeles was so over-run with ants as to make it almost impossible for the proprietor to carry on his business. He tried all of the usual remedies without avail and finally decided that if he was to get rid of the nuisance, he would have to devise a remedy himself. The result of his efforts was that marvelous ant exterminator known throughout the length and breadth of California as Kellogg's Ant Paste. Its effect upon ants is almost uncanny. You simply spread a little around where the ants are accustomed to enter, and the speed with which they vacate a house is almost unbelievable. So many of the baker's friends and neighbors asked him for a supply of this wonderful paste that he finally abandoned his baking business and started manufacturing the ant remedy. Its use resulted in a growth that today has made it the leading ant exterminator in this part of the country and there is hardly a drug store in which it cannot be found."

APPROACHING CAR FRIGHTENS THIEVES

Believed to have been frightened away by the lights of an automobile, thieves who broke into the service station and garage of Bob Hill at Seventeenth and Huntington Beach boulevards Wednesday night, failed to secure any loot.

Four windows were broken in the two buildings to gain entrance it was learned from Deputy Sheriffs James Ragan and Herman Zabel, who investigated the case. A woman drove up to the garage shortly after the men entered, it is believed, and they fled from the garage.

Three men who entered a nearby restaurant are suspected of being the ones who broke into the garage.

From the Frying Pan Into the Flood

The farmer who lived here hoped long and anxiously for rain and he finally got it. When the downpour near Sioux City, Ia., had subsided, most of his land was submerged and water swirled about his porches and through his barnyard. Drainage can[illegible] and creeks in northern and western Iowa overflowed and the torrents swept many square miles of farming country, forcing families to flee homes.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERNA RAMSEY

The works of Edith Wharton are characterized by a finished style and a refreshing frankness. Her autobiography "A Backward Glance" will take its place as one of the most entertaining and important memoirs of our day. She was brought up in the gracious fashionable "Old New York" so often described in her novels. From this picturesque Manhattan of Dutch and Colonial origins she is able to draw from her early memories delightful pictures of the people and the customs in the glamorous seventies and eighties and to indicate how life was affected by its contracting narrowness and amplitude.

While very young she was taken abroad. The old world colors of 19th century Rome, the beauties of Spain's Alhambra, Paris in the days of the Empress Eugenie—these sights were impressed on her mind and stirred her imagination. Subsequently she spent much of her time abroad, in England, on the Riviera, and in Florence and Venice. Finally, after establishing an American home in the seclusion of the Berkshires, she decided to remain permanently in France.

Mrs. Wharton's life has been passed among many interesting personal associations. In these pages will be found penetrating and original sketches of such well known personages as Henry James, Theodore Roosevelt, Paul Bourget, Thomas Hardy, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, George Meredith, and many others, among them painters, dramatists, musicians and statesmen.

In addition to these intimate glimpses of prominent figures, the book is also the story of the career of the artist. It tells how "The Age of Innocence," "[illegible] Frome," "The House of Mirth" and other masterpieces were written. Interest in this portion of the volume will be natural enough, for Mrs. Wharton's work has always been her life and through [illegible] work she has won a place as one of the greatest contemporary novelists.

The story of American transportation is one of the most colorful phases of our history. In "Old Waybills" Alvin F. Harlow gives us the sweepingly dramatic history of the express companies.

As these express companies grew so did the nation. So development is so definitely interwoven that this special epic in transportation is a large chapter in America's history. Until recently a unique private enterprise, the express system has been synonymous with the true spirit of continen[illegible] pansion. It has exerted a major influence since before the Civil War, during the war itself, in the days of graft and big business, and on up to the present era of consolidation and change.

We read the story from the very beginning. The panorama is spread before us from the days when pioneering expressmen carried parcels in carpet bags to the miraculous airplane shipments of today. There are specially romantic chapters on the days of the famous highway robberies, the Overland Mail, the Pony Express, the great wars between competitors and famous train robbers. Studding the narrative are quick and penetrating portraits of express company personalities, William F. Harndon, Alvin Adams, Henry Wells, William C. Fargo, E. H. Virgil, Ben Holloway and other giants of the business.

Alvin F. Harlow was born to a natural love of the glamour of transportation. His father was an expressman and the son spent no small part of his boyhood on or about railroad trains. His book involved besides this experience of his own, an immense amount of research and is based upon documentary evidences. "Old Waybills" is a masterly piece of skillful condensation and swift narrative art.

Historians in interpreting the nineteenth century have laid stress on many and varied aspects of the period. On the other hand special features of it have been entirely neglected. An example of such neglect is the role played by the Rothschild family in the nineteenth century. The object of "The Rise of the House of Rothschild" by Count Egon Caesar Corti is to appraise the important influence of this family of the period not only in Europe but throughout the world.

From a small retail trader in a dirty ghetto of Frankfort to controllers of the destiny of the nations of Europe. From one who changed small money to those who handled the gold of continents. From one despised, trampled Jew to those who knew kings and emperors.

This was the rise of the family of Rothschild—one of the most extraordinary stories the world has known. It was Meyer who started in a ghetto and who left to his five sons the foundation of a growing banking business. It was these five sons who developed this business into one of the largest and most powerful international financial firms in the history of the world. The story of the Rothschilds is intertwined with history—with Napoleon and his wars—with such figures as Metternich, Ledrantz and Wellington.

Count Corti has given us more than a retelling of the facts. He has delved deep into the period and brought it to life. He has made the Rothschilds live again. Each one stands forth with his unique genius for money affairs. There is romance and fascination in this vivid recounting of a glamorous period and an even more glamorous family.

"We believe the total work pledged will be carried out, perhaps more, and the mailing in of compliance slips showing individual jobs finished bears out this belief."

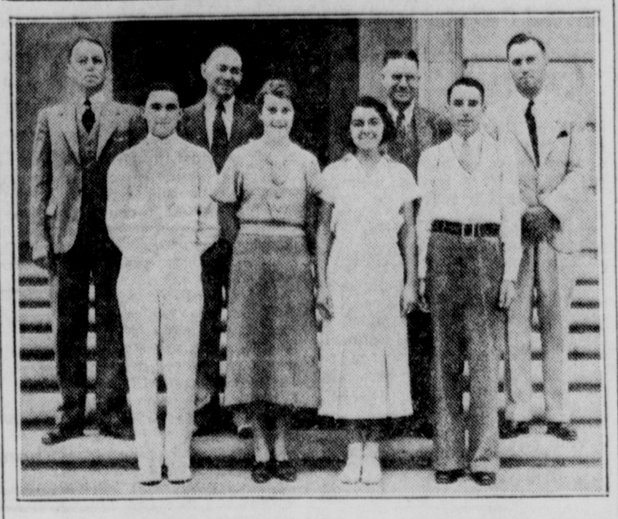

TOOK TO THE TREES

SONORA, Cal. — (UP) — The Gooseberry Eradication Camp No. 1 resembled a community of great apes the other day. Roy Bloomstrom secured a permit to kill a bear that had been raiding provision tents. His first shot only wounded the bruin and it charged the camp. Immediately more than 30 trees were occupied by camp workers.

JAYCEE ALUMNI CONCLUDE YEAR WITH REUNION

Renewing friendships made on the campus, more than 75 alumni, former students and teachers of the Santa Ana Junior College met last night in the "Y" hut for the tenth annual June reunion of the alumni association.

At an election of officers held at the close of the meeting, Fred Humiston, '30, was elected president; Marian Parsons, '31, vice president; Katherine Spicer, '30, secretary; and Minor Whitford, '33, treasurer. Outgoing officers were John Dunlap, '31, president; Florence Brownridge, '30, vice president; Jeannette Lutes, '33, secretary; and Joe Warner, '30, treasurer.

Following introductions of everyone present, short talks on college experiences and activities of alumni were given by Baxter Geeting, Leonard Morris, Fred Humiston, Robert O'Brien, Charles Warmer, and several faculty members, including Mrs. Jennie L. Tessmann, Miss Mabel Whiting, L. L. Beeman and H. O. Russell.

Alumni projects during the past year included the publishing of an alumni edition of the school paper, two page alumni section in yearbook for first time, publications exhibit for Fiesta, Christmas dance in Long Beach, contacts with the more than 1000 college alumni, and assistance with the Freshman Prom, which followed the reunion last night.

Miss Mary Nalle headed the refreshment commitee while Florence Brownridge, Katherine Robbins and Velma Bishop assisted with program arrangements.

HONOR AWARDS GIVEN JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS

Four Santa Ana Junior High school students today were in possession of the coveted American Legion annual awards, given to the two students in each junior high school who are judged best in their particular school for honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service.

As a special part of the graduation exercises last night at Willard school, Harold Tucker and Audrey Barnes were presented with the American Legion medals and certificates, after having been selected by teachers of the school from the honor students as those rating the highest in the five qualities.

Helen Warner and Jack Hutton were rated highest for the five qualities in Julia Lathrop Junior High school, and were given their awards at the graduation exercises Wednesday night.

Selected by teachers in each school, the students were rated on percentages. Each of the four selected received more than 95 per cent in the judging.

The awards were made by George Richardson, chairman of the Americanism committee of Santa Ana Legion Post No. 131, who is in charge of the Legion program.

Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson spoke briefly, calling attention to the value of the Legion program and thanking the veterans for their interest in education and the schools.

YOUNG URGES ECONOMY IN TALK AT CLUB

Urging the most rigid economy in state government ever known, but warning that 75 per cent of the state's general expenses are "fixed charges" and cannot be cut, ex-Governor C. C. Young, candidate for governor, delivered an informational address yesterday noon before members of the Santa Ana Lions club and guests at James' cafe.

"Many people have an exaggerated idea of what can be cut from the state's budget," said Young. "The 30 special funds are self-maintaining, without either surpluses or deficits, the expenses being cut in dull times to meet the revenues.

"Of the general fund, 75 per cent are charges fixed by the constitution or otherwise, and cannot be reduced. Of the remaining 25 per cent, $13,000,000 have been cut by the last legislature—not as soon as it should have been done, to be sure. But still further reductions can be made, and they must be made to avoid further deficits.

"The difficulties are not insurmountable. We have abundant resources, courage and good sense, and it will take the combined wisdom of the state to find the best way to meet the situation."

Young urged that a new tax system be devised, spreading the burden so it would not bear too heavily on anyone. He suggested a conference of 40 or 50 representative people of the state to make a careful survey of unnecessary expenditures, and to meet the problem of securing new revenues on a permanent, equitable basis.

The speaker revealed that he is accumulating tax data from other states looking for ideas for California. He commended the increasing interest in governmental affairs by the public, and said that the state's business is the biggest business in California, with all residents as stockholders.

The California state government has taken over some $40,000,000 annually in school costs, and is relinquishing $30,000,000 of income back to the local tax rolls January 1 by eliminating the gross income tax on public utilities, Young said, and it is necessary that permanent incomes be devised to meet this new burden and loss of income.

Among expenses being borne by the state he gave $3,000,000 for old age pensions, $2,000,000 for care of orphans, one-half the expense of superior courts, 45 per cent of elementary and high schools, part of the junior college expense, and all of the expense of state universities, teacher colleges and all state administrative offices.

Young pointed out that when he retired from the governor's chair, three and a half years ago, there was a surplus of $31,000,000 in the general fund, partly accumulated under Governors Stephens and Richardson, $11,000,000 paid in under the King tax bill by large corporations, and some $12,000,000 saved during his own term.

Since that time, he said, "More money has been spent than should have been spent," pointing out that the state deficit at the present time is $21,000,000, that by the end of the fiscal year it will reach $31,000,000, and unless something is done, it is likely to be from $111,000,000 to $130,000,000 by the middle of 1937.

"Of course we cannot, and must not, let this happen," he added.

Young called attention to new financial burdens which must be met, as various humanitarian problems are solved.

"We cannot afford to be niggardly in matters of humanitarian concern," he said, pointing out that the state faces new requirements for additions to state institutions, largely prisons, and hospitals for the insane and feeble minded. San Quentin prison now has 6000 inmates, while it was only built to accommodate 2500, he said; inmates of state hospitals are sleeping in hallways, and there is said to be a waiting list of 2000 feeble minded children waiting to get into the children's hospital in Sonoma county. These helpless wards of the state must be more properly cared for, he declared.

Billions of dollars have been rightly spent by the federal government for unemployment relief, the speaker said, but even the federal treasury cannot bear such a burden indefinitely, at which time, he said, this problem of unemployment will also face the state and must be met.

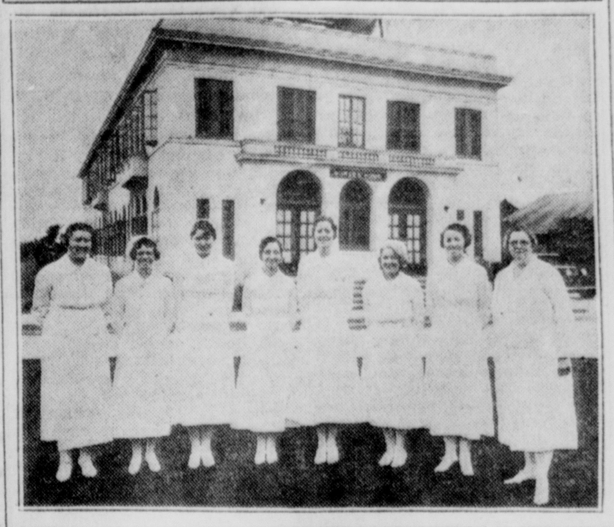

J. F. Burke spoke briefly, preceding Young's talk, saying it seems likely, as some club member had suggested, that Young might be the "next governor," and that "he would make a good one, for we know by experience."

Ernest H. Layton, third vice president of the club, presided at the gathering, and Don Jerome was program chairman for the day. Several of the club officers were absent at the district convention being held in Santa Cruz. Carl Stein was introduced as the newest member of the club.

At next Thursday's meeting, George T. Shaffer, Los Angeles attorney, will discuss taxation and the economic crisis, it was announced.

STUDENT FINED $50 ON SPEEDING COUNT

Speeding at 58 miles per hour and having four persons in the front seat of his car will cost Charles Wharton, 20, Pomona college student, the sum of $50 paid in $5 monthly installments.

Wharton came before Judge Kenneth E. Morrison Wednesday after having been arrested by California Highway Patrolman Oscar Kelly north of Santa Ana on May 30.

Dust oiling now under way on the state highway between Jamul and White Star, the lower road from San Diego to Boulevard, is expected to be finished by the end of July.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

©1934 NEA SERVICE, INC

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, Madeline Siddal, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of this deception but keeps it up, even when Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Amos Siddal, Madeline's grandfather who owns the farm, is blind. Mrs. Planter, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

Donna and Bill are married. Meanwhile Madeline has married Con David, circus animal trainer, and takes part in the animal act.

Amos Siddal has a stroke.

In New Orleans Madeline goes into the cage with the Bengal tiger and is killed. Con is discharged. Unable to get work, he decides to go to the Siddal farm.

From the nearby town he sends a note to Donna who agrees to telephone him later. Mrs. Planter, now working at the hotel, learns of Con's arrival.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIV

Whatever Mrs. Planter's motive for telephoning to Donna may have been, she was smiling as she hung up the receiver. Not for an instant did she believe the girl did not know Con David was in Lebanon, and the fact that she had pricked Donna's bubble of happiness was worth several rebuffs.

Her hatred for Donna had become an obsession. Although her gossip about the Siddal family had been limited to innuendoes, due to the fact that she had no proof to back up more definite statements, Mrs. Planter had been striving for some means of revenge ever since leaving the farm.

"Give a hussy enough rope and she'll hang herself," she muttered. "Pretending just as if she didn't send for him! Of course she did. I'll bet he's her real husband, and poor Bill—I wish I knew just why she married Bill! Mebbe Amos made out his will in favor of Bill and cut her off. No, that wouldn't do her no good if Bill found out he wasn't her husband. Unless—well, murders have been committed for less. I wouldn't put nothin' past a man who's cruel to pore dumb beasts, even if they are wild, and a woman who shows her figger in public without enough clothes to cover her nakedness."

Mrs. Planter did not really believe that Madeline and Con David contemplated murder but, considering herself a God-fearing, righteous woman, it was necessary for her to have some logical reason for her hatred, and thus she supplied herself with an excuse for her action.

If Donna slept little that night, neither did the former housekeeper. For hours Mrs. Planter gloated over the wreck of Donna's happiness. Sooner or later she would confront the girl and the animal trainer together and then—!

Con spent a dull afternoon and a duller evening. When Pete returned and repeated what Donna had said Con decided he would stay in the hotel until the telephone message came. The afternoon hours rolled around but the call did not come. He went down stairs to the office and engaged Rader in conversation, but the hotel proprietor was an inarticulate man, more given to asking questions than answering them, and Con had no intention of explaining his reasons for being in Lebanon util he knew what his reception would be.

Supper over, Con stood outside on the porch and smoked a cigar, vainly waiting summons to the telephone. What little good nature he possessed was sorely tried. He regretted that he had not driven to the farm and confronted Donna without preliminaries.

"If she tries to make a monkey of me," he muttered, "I'll show her where she gets off!"

* * *

Pete's hero worship caused him to join the animal trainer. "Are you going back to the circus?" the boy asked timidly.

"Yes."

"D'ye reckon Madeline Siddal will ever join up with a circus again?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"Mis' Planter says 'taint natural for a show girl to quit and stay quit."

"Who is Mis' Planter?"

"Our cook. She used to work for the Siddals. After Bill Siddal hitched up with Madeline they fired Mis' Planter. Are you going to try to persuade Madeline to come back to the circus with you?"

"Why should I?"

"I dunno. Paw says it's kinder queer, you bein' here, and I thought mebbe that was your reason. She's right pretty, Madeline is, ain't she? But she's queer."

"Queer?"

"Yeah. Stuck up, sort of. Don't pay no attention to anyone and don't ever visit folks. Are all show people that way?"

"Not all." Con moved towards the railing and flicked the ashes from his cigar. "So she seems different than she did before she left home?"

"I dunno about that. I don't recollect her before she went away. Mebbe marryin' blood kin made her different."

"Perhaps." Con stepped off the porch and Pete followed. When Con saw that the small boy was determined to stay with him he started off at a brisk stride down the street. Pete trudged at his heels, hoping that some of his cronies would see them. But the streets were deserted, store windows darkened, and most of the street lamps unlighted.

* * *

It was after 11 next day before Donna found an opportunity to put through the call. The excitement of the holiday, the hearty meal, and later hours than usual had brought about a reaction in Grandfather Siddal's condition. Before daylight Miss Perkins awakened Bill to ask him to call the doctor.

To save time Bill hustled into his clothing, took the car and drove post-haste into town. During the hours that followed Donna had been too worried to think of Con David. Even if she had done so she could not have telephoned him with the nurse and doctor and her husband within ear shot.

But by 11 the doctor had departed. Grandfather Siddal was sleeping, Miss Perkins had gone for a walk, and Bill was doing belated chores. Donna went into the hallway and took down the receiver. Fortunately she did not know that Mrs. Planter worked at the Commercial House or she would have hesitated longer and been more fearful. Knowing the gossip's facility for collecting news, she did not even wonder how she had learned that Con was in town.

Pete Rader answered the telephone. When Donna asked for Mr. David he chirped. "I'll get him right away. He's upstairs."

Though the telephone was in a booth the door did not close properly and anyone in the office could hear a portion of the conversation taking place. Since the day before Mrs. Planter had made frequent opportunities to be in the front hallway or office, hoping for a chance to talk to Con or at least get a good look at him. Consequently as Pete darted out of the office he again came face to face with the former housekeeper. Mrs. Planter was carrying a pad and pencil to jot down the list of vegetables and meat she needed for the day.

Pete's haste knocked both out of her hand.

"You might look where you're going," she mumbled angrily.

"Couldn't. I'm in a hurry. Mr. David's wanted on the telephone."

Mrs. Planter clicked her false teeth together and went into the office. "Mr. Rader," she said, crossing to the desk, "if you've got a minute I'd like to check up this here grocery list. Seems to me Nadeis' has charged for more than three dozen eggs and that the butter—" She leaned across the register, resting her bony figure in such a fashion that a glance now and then towards the door would appraise her of Con's entrance.

Rader was a penurious man. While it was against orders for his "hired girls" to hang around the office, if Mrs. Planter was trying to save him money he could overlook a breach of rules. He adjusted his spectacles on his knobby nose and peered at the pad she offered. And he said nothing after the accounts were added to his satisfaction, when the woman crossed to the window and, under pretext of looking outside, stood listening to what Con said over the telephone.

* * *

There was no need for the eavesdropper to hear Donna's words, for Con's replies gave all the information she needed.

"Con?"

"Yes."

"This is Donna."

"It's about time. What's the idea of holding me up?"

"I couldn't phone before. I wasn't alone and my husband—"

"Jealous, eh? Well, listen. I want to see you. Shall I come out there?"

"Oh, no! What do you want? What brings you to Lebanon?"

"You, of course. If I can't come to your house where will you meet me?"

"I—I don't know. I really shouldn't meet you at all. I—I don't want to seem unfriendly, Con, but—well, you see Grandfather—er—old Mr. Siddal is very ill—"

"That's one of the reasons I'm here."

"I don't understand."

"I think you do. I'd like to meet the old man."

"I don't see how it can be arranged. He's bed ridden—"

"Why can't it be arranged?"

"He doesn't know anything about you, Con. And Bill—my husband doesn't like circus folks and—"

"I see. I expect to stick around a while. Maybe he'll like me when he knows me."

"Con, what's come over you? Didn't Madeline tell you—?"

"She told me a lot. Now listen. I don't want to be nasty. You've always been ace-high with me—you know that—even if you did throw me over. And there's a story to that that needs some explaining. I haven't come all this way without a purpose. You'd better see me and see me quick! If you don't I'm coming out here. Where do we meet?"

"I—can't meet you now. If you'll wait—"

"I've been waiting almost 24 hours. Where do we meet?"

"There's a cemetery adjoining the Baptist church. I'll try to be there."

He chuckled. "A cemetery at the Baptist church! A typical trysting place for hick lovers. What time?"

"Tomorrow if I can make it. At noon."

"No, today. It's 11 now. I suppose you've a car?"

"Ye—es."

"At three then."

"Oh, Con!"

"I'll expect you at three in the cemetery. Don't fail me." He hung up the receiver, giving her no chance for refusal.

Mrs. Planter ducked out of the office as Con David opened the dor of the booth.

Naturalization Class Honored by Native Sons, Daughters

Members of the large class of candidates for naturalization were complimented most pleasantly Monday night when Santa Ana parlors of Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West entertained in K. C. hall.

Mrs. W. A. West, president of the Native Daughters, welcomed the candidates graciously on behalf of the host parlors, explaining the object of the meeting and introducing her Americanization chairman, Mrs. Matilda Lemon, secretary of the parlor, Mrs. Lemon then presented the parlor presidents, both Mrs. West and Ivan Harper of the Sons, and introduced the various speakers and entertainers of the program.

Preceding the talks were numbers by youthful entertainers, a toe ballet by Ruth Ellen Saez with her mother, Mrs. Julius Saez of Orange, at the piano and a piano number and a song by Marvel McGill, little pupil of Mrs. Saez. Marvel is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Ford McGill, charter marshal of the parlor, and was the first child born to a member after the parlor's institution. Two young brothers, Ronald and Raymond Marsile, gave humorous readings, "Dutchman and Italian" and "What They Call Them".

Unusually interesting speakers were introduced, beginning with Terry E. Stephenson, recognized authority on pioneer history of this state and especially of the Southland. In his talk on pioneer history and heroes he stressed the point that good citizenship is that in which man renders service in usefulness, and cited various famous leaders.

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools and a native son, talked on the Constitutions both of the United States and of California; the establishment of a national government; personal rights, and the allegiance owed by a citizen to his country whether by birth or by adoption.

Mrs. Golden Weston of the adult education department, spoke on that work especially in preparing classes for citizenship. She was followed by Ivan Harper, Native Sons president, in a talk of congratulation to the class and to its teacher, A. Wieman.

Mr. Wieman told of the pleasant associations in class work and introduced Andrew Pixton, who in behalf of his fellow candidates, expressed appreciation of the work of the teachers and leaders, and of the friendly hospitality of the Native Daughters and Sons. Mrs. Lemon concluded the program with the presentation of small United States and California flags to the class members.

Daughters' Election

Preceding the program, Native Daughters held a short business meeting at which Mrs. Ruth Kotlar was elected president, succeeding Mrs. W. A. West. Mrs. Muriel Bray and Mrs. Marguerite Mize were named first and second vice presidents.

In commemoration of the fine year the parlor has had under Mrs. West's presidency, she was presented with a handsome evening bag. This will be given its first use at the state convention in Santa Cruz. Mrs. West and Mrs. Kotlar plan to leave Saturday as delegates representing Santa Ana parlor.

Young People Exchange Vows at Early June Wedding

Married on June 3, Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer Lighthall have taken up residence at 1412 West Sixth street, where they now are at home to their friends. The bride was Miss Lois Hunting, daughter of Mrs. L. A. Leabo, 1302 South Main street. Mr. Lighthall is son of Mrs. G. S. Lighthall of Orange.

The Leabo home was setting for the ceremony, read in the evening by the Rev. B. R. Spear, pastor of Seventh Day Adventist church. A musical program began at 6:30 o'clock, with Ruth Swanson Lykke singing "At Dawning" and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," accompanied at the piano by Miss Josephine Stamm.

Miss Stamm played a piano solo, "Until", then changing to the notes of Lohengrin's Wedding March to which members of the bridal party entered.

Walter L. Hunting, father of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a formal gown of eyelet embroidered organdy with a corsage bouquet. Lending an effective touch to her costume was a green tiara, enhancing the attractiveness of her blond coloring. She walked in a path scattered with rose petals from a basket carried by little Miss Verna Dean Bennett.

The young people took their places beneath an archway arranged before the fireplace, which had been banked with ferns and sweet peas. Baskets of gladioluses, delphiniums and Transvaal daisies added to the beauty of the setting.

During the reception the new Mrs. Lighthall cut her wedding cake, a tiered confection topped with miniature bridal figures and a good-luck horseshoe. Refreshments of cake and ices were served from a lace-draped table.

For her going away outfit, the bride chose a deep blue taffeta frock with white accessories.

Mr. Lighthall is employed with the General Bottling and Distributing company.

Wednesday afternoon the Arts and Crafts section met with the leader, Mrs. R. G. Carman, 1815 North Ross street, where the time was about equally divided between work and sociability. TODAY'S RECIPE

Maraschino Cherries

5 pounds pitted Royal Annes
3 quarts boiling water
2 tsps. powdered alum
Ice water for blanching.
6 cups sugar dissolved in
2 cups water
Red fruit coloring
Almond nd vanilla extracts.

Yesterday, I was thinking about the round-about-way we prepare home canned Maraschinos, and my curiosity led me to do a bit of experimenting, sufficiently successful to give you the results here.

The whole batch of under-ripe cherries were pitted quickly, weighed and parboiled for 10 minutes in the weak alum solution, drained, and rinsed in the ice water.

The sugar and water were boiled until thick enough to spin a thread, when the full amount of cherries was added, the kettle brought to a rolling boil, then checked to simmering heat, and the cherries cooked for 20 minutes at that pace. During the cooking red fruit coloring must be added, and this you must watch, for I can't give more than a general idea . . . the main thing is to have the cherries a rich red when done.

Fill pint or quart jars with the boiling fruit and syrup, let cool about half and stir into each quart jar 1 teaspoonful of almond extract and 1-8 teaspoonful of vanilla. Fill the jars full with hot syrup, and seal.

The cherries will plump up in about two weeks and you'll find that they hold shape and color just as well as the 'round-about way of doing them.

One hour was the time consumed in doing the whole job —two of us pitting the cherries.

BOOKED FOR DRUNKENNESS

CALLS ALL-BRAN NATIONAL NATURAL LAXATIVE

Delicious Cereal Checked His Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Daniels:

"For many years I have been habitually constipated, and have used all sorts of laxatives. So, in fairness to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I heartily claim it to be a most wonderful remedy for constipation.

"Need I tell you that I have long since ceased using laxatives? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the National Natural Laxative. If it were used by every family in the United States for breakfast, we would have a much healthier race of people."—Mr. John Daniels, 1090 Third St., North Bergen, N. J.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this food much pleasanter than risking pills and drugs? Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

LANCASTER ROAD

Approximately 90 per cent of the grading on the Cajon-Lancaster cutoff has been completed, reports the National Automobile club.

Daughters of Veterans

Combining an observance of Flag day and Father's day, members of Sarah A. Rounds tent, D. U. V., entertained Tuesday at luncheon in Knights of Pythias hall, with comrades of Sedgwick post G. A. R. as guests of honor.

Luncheon was served at tables brightened with red, white and blue flowers. On the luncheon committee were Miss Minnie Cowan, Mesdames Thelma Willingham, Florence Perry, Nettie Griswold and Gladys Ward. On the kitchen committee were Mesdames Rowena Grout, Olive Willard and Louane Leech.

Mrs. Addie Gardner, president, extended greetings, paying special tribute to the comrades. In celebration of her birthday anniversary, Mrs. Gardner was presented with a birthday cake, which she cut and served with the ice cream of the dessert course.

A song, "The Boys Who Wore the Blue" (Maude Snover-Ayer), written especially for the national convention scheduled for August in New York, was sung by the group, with Mrs. Cora Grahamm directing.

Mrs. C. R. Pollard opened flag day ceremonies, giving a reading, "Hats Off, the Flag is Passing By". Mrs. Geraldine Beall read a history of the American flag and Mrs. Eva Bell, a history of "The Star Spangled Banner". The National anthem was sung, with the Daughters holding flags. By special request of the comrades, "Tenting Tonight" was sung.

Business Interval

Tent members convened for business at 2 p. m., with Mrs. Gardner in the chair. All but two officers were present. Mrs. Jessie Overton, chaplain, conducted memorial services for the late Mesdames Helen Stowe and Alice Merigold.

Invitation was received to participate in the Elks' club Flag day celebration in Santa Ana bowl.

Church Societies

Class Dinner

Following a dinner meeting of First Methodist Two-in-One class held Tuesday evening in the church dining hall, new officers were installed by the retiring president, Dr. John Bower.

Mrs. R. E. Brown became president; Mrs. Joe Randall, vice president; Mrs. E. E. Ulrich, secretary; Mr. Witt, treasurer. Sam Vogt, teacher of the class, paid tribute to Dr. Bower and to Mrs. Bower, who, he explained, had so capably assisted the president during his term of office. Dr. Bower was presented with a basket of flowers, gift of the class.

Sixty class members, with their families, were present for the covered-dish dinner served early in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. George Cocking were on the committee in charge of this feature.

Since wedding anniversaries of Dr. and Mrs. Bower and of Mr. and Mrs. Garner are events of this month, Mrs. E. C. Frandson had baked a four-tiered wedding cake for the occasion.

Eastern Star

Officers and numerous members of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. appeared in colonial costumes for the party which followed the organization's meeting Monday night in Masonic temple.

Mrs. Irma Folger and Harvey Dimmitt, worthy matron and patron, conducted the meeting, during which Mrs. Jessie Todd, worthy matron of Seaside chapter, Huntington Beach, and Mrs. Mae Henry, deputy grand matron, were escorted to the East.

An appropriate program was provided by the Misses Geraldine and Dorothy White, dancing the minuet. A colonial grand march was held and Mrs. Amanda Holmes won the prize for wearing the prettiest costume in the group.

Adjourning to the dining room, members and guests found that tables had been beautifully appointed with lace cloths, tall tapers and silver. Those pouring tea and coffee wore handsome colonial costumes. Throughout this pleasant interval Mrs. Janet Martin played old-fashioned selections at the piano.

On committees for the evening were Mrs. Henrietta Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. George Shipe, R. L. Spaugh and Alex Rez, table decorations; Mrs. Mildred Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prather, Mesdames Nell Pagenkopp, Jessie Overton and Inez Rez, kitchen.

The heart of the Gilfillan refrigerator is a dual action piston type. This type compressor is found only in the best refrigerators and Gilfillan's claim to superiority lies in the fact that it is made as is a Rolls Royce. Each part is hand tooled and fitted to two-ten-thousandths of an inch. Its life in action is comparable to other compressors as is the Rolls Royce to machine made automobiles. Still the fact that there are only three moving parts allows it to compete in price with all others manufactured. Its constant bath in special treated oil assures life-long trouble-free operation.

WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

Section Goes to Beach For Luncheon and Cards

Concluding their meetings for the year, members of Ebell Fifth Household Economics section spent a delightful afternoon in Long Beach Tuesday, going first to the Wayside Colony Brittany Kitchen. Luncheon at 12:30 o'clock was served in a picturesque setting.

Mrs. Herbert Krahling's mother, Mrs. Mary Hershman, had opened her home at 4723 Vista street, Long Beach to the group for the remainder of the afternoon. Mrs. Krahling, chairman of the hostess committee for the day had assistance of Mrs. H. C. Kirk and Mrs. Cood Adams in arranging for the affair.

Mrs. George Raymer, leader, installed officers for the new year; Mrs. D. D. Waynick, leader; Miss Clara Richards, secretary; Mrs. F. F. Mead, assistant leader.

Bridge was played, with Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer scoring high and receiving an Indian pottery jardinier as her award. Mrs. D. D. Waynick, scoring second high, was presented with a floral reflex holder. Mrs. E. C. Diehl was winner of the surprise package.

Members sharing the event were Miss Clara Richards, Mesdames P. B .Gillespie, George Raymer, Anna Towner Ream, L. E. Allen, Tarver Montgomery, A. B. Hollinger, C. B. Hill, Lynn Ostrander, D. D. Waynick, Marguerite Borgmeyer, Cood Adams, Howard Stone, Charles Bowman, E. C. Diehl, Herbert Krahling, D. A. Harwood, Severin Schulte, Carl Klatt, H. C. Kirk, Paul Bailey, F. F. Mead, J. W. Rice. Guests including Mrs. C. E. Renouf of Monterey; Mrs. J. H. Wetrich of Iowa City and Mrs. Jennie Busselle.

Sycamore Rebekahs

Election of officers provided a busy and interesting session for Sycamore Rebekah lodge at its latest meeting in I. O. O. F. hall, where additional interest was lent by a reception complimenting the district deputy, Mrs. George Stovall, a member of Sycamore, following the business meeting, and the covered dish dinner of the early evening hours.

Officers installed were Miss Pearl Nicholson, noble grand; Mrs. Millie West, vice grand; Mrs. Bess Stovall, recording secretary; Mrs. Hazel Ryan, financial secretary; Mrs. Elsie Mae Henry, treasurer, and Mrs. Maude Wylie, trustee for the 18 months term. Miss Nicholson will make her appointments in time for all officers, both elective and appointive, to be installed at a ceremony tentatively planned for July.

New officers shared guest honors at the reception with Mrs. Stovall, who now heads District No. 50, and her marshall, Mrs. Inez Baker.

Miss Nicholson had charge of planning the special program given in their honor. Miss Laura Joiner sang three solos, "Twilight" by Katherine Glenn; "Prelude" by Cyril Scott, and "Once in a Blue Moon" by Howard Fisher. She was accompanied by Halstead McCormac. Miss Verna Marie Osborne played two piano solos, Mendelssohn's E Flat Major Sonata, and "Elfin Dance" by Greig; Harold Lutes concluded the program with cornet solos with Miss Jeannette Lutes at the piano. His numbers were "Con Amour" by Beaumont, and "Solvejg's Song" by Greig.

As a conclusion to the variety offered by the evening's business and social program, Mrs. Herman Zabel and her committee served home-made cookies and punch to the scores of assembled guests.

You never tasted such Strawberry Jam!

Discover for yourself this flavor secret, and start your strawberry jam today; it's so easy with Certo!

WHAT'S better than plenty of good home-made strawberry jam when winter months roll around? You can't put up too much of it!

So take a tip—as soon as strawberry specials come to town, go to your grocer and stock up on berries, Certo and sugar. Then follow the Certo recipe given here for best results with 1934 berries.

You get truly marvelous strawberry jam. Such fine true-fruit flavor! Many women will put up double the usual amount this year with strawberries so inexpensive and delicious.

When you use Certo you will need to boil your jellies or jams only a few minutes. Hence the fruit juice does not boil away, and you never get that "boiled-down" taste that comes with long, tedious boiling. Often you get half again more jam. And of course you save lots of time and trouble, too.

Certo—the pure fruit pectin—is sold by all grocers. It is a product of General Foods.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST STRAWBERRY JAM

Certo Laboratories report this recipe best for use with 1934 berries. See also Special Strawberry News below.

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar. Juice of ½ lemon
½ bottle Certo

To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts ripe berries or crush so that each berry is reduced to pulp.

Measure sugar, prepared fruit, and lemon juice into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 4 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in Certo. Pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces).

SPECIAL STRAWBERRY NEWS!

Read carefully before making Strawberry Jam

1934 will be a good strawberry year. Plan to start your Certo jam cupboard with the first luscious strawberries. This year we've had unusual weather conditions and fruits may vary more widely than usual in moisture content.

The Certo laboratories recommend that for strawberry jam you boil the fruit and sugar mixture of 1934 berries four minutes instead of one—and for even better results and keener flavor, add the juice of half a lemon. (Recipe above.)

ANAHEIM, June 15.—When George Miller, alias George Sesvechan of Los Angeles started stealing oranges in this district he selected the wrong grove to loot and because of this wrong choice will serve six months in the county jail. SOCIETY

Former Octet Members Attend Shower for Bride-elect

Shared by an intimate group of friends who composed Santa Ana High School Girls' Octet in 1933, a shower given recently in the home of Miss Trudis Johnson, 920 West Sixth street, came as a surprise compliment to Miss Elva Ringland, soon to become the bride of Paul Elsner.

Miss Johnson and Miss Winifred Triplett joined as hostesses at the event, which proved a happy reunion for the group of girls whose pleasant associations at school had been heightened by their activities in connection with the octet. Some of the group still attend high school, others have since been graduated.

The girls enjoyed singing together during the evening. Refreshments were served at a table lighted with pink tapers and appointed with clever little pink cellophane bags of rice. All decorative details conformed to a pink and white theme. Served with the supper was a decorated cake bearing the musical emblem of the octet. A pleasant feature of this hour was the showering of gifts on Miss Ringland, whose marriage is to take place on June 29.

Present with Miss Ringland, were the Misses Trudis Johnson, Winifred Triplitt, Alice Martin, Marijane Belcher, Bonnie Hamilton, Elizabeth Garlock, Agnes Brady and Dorothy Gutzmann, who served the octet as pianist.

Early Morning Wedding Takes Place in Anaheim

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lombard have returned from their honeymoon trip in the mountains and this week are taking up their residence at 1319 West Washington avenue.

The marirage of Mrs. Alma Dritschel and Mr. Lombard took place Sunday morning, June 10 at 8 o'clock in the parsonage of Anaheim Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, with the pastor, the Rev. Henry Schmeizer officiating.

For the early morning rites, the bride was attractive in a white swagger suit with which she wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias and blue delphiniums. Mrs. Frank Sawyer as matron of honor wore a similar costume with a gardenia corsage. Mr. Sawyer was best man.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Veron Lombard, was present for the quiet ceremony.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lombard and Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer motored to Long Beach for breakfast, the bride and bridegroom then continuing to the mountains near Los Angeles for a few days' stay.

Mr. Lombard is employed at the Sawyer Motor company. His bride is continuing in her duties with Southern California Telephone company.

Church Societies

Lutheran Dinner

To honor members who have been received into St. Peter Lutheran church since the Rev. H. W. Meyer became pastor, the congregation held an old-fashioned covered-dish dinner Tuesday evening at Jack Fisher park. About 160 members and their families took part in the affair.

New members were accorded a warm welcome by Mr. McFarland, on behalf of the congregation and church council; Mrs. Guy Koons, for the Ladies' Aid; Miss Wilma Zentner, on behalf of the Luther League.

The Rev. Mr. Meyer introduced new members, with William H. Fields responding in behalf of the honored group. A group from the church choir, R. Hartley, G. Krock, C. Gutzman, T. Eklund, R. Hubbell, R. Nordstrom and J. M. Bergsetter sang several numbers. Congregational singing was led by Mr. Hartley, director of the choir.

Special program features included a pantomime, "Meller-Drama" put on by the Luther League under direction of Miss Janet Yetmar.

Mrs. Guy Koons, general chairman of the evening, had assistance of members of the Aid society, Luther League and Brotherhood in planning the event.

Ladies' Aid

St. Peter Lutheran Ladies' Aid held a monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church basement, with 19 members and 6 visitors in attendance.

The meeting was opened with Scripture reading and prayer, with a short song service. The monthly missionary lesson, 'We Would See Jesus in Our Home," was interestingly discussed and explained by Mrs. Lydia Yetmar.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Zelma McFarland.

Woman's Forum

Woman's Forum spent an interesting afternoon Tuesday in the Y. M. C. A., where hostesses for luncheon served preceding the program were Dr. Julia Hinrich, Mrs. Roy Buckles and Mrs. Sam Hurwitz.

Mrs. F. E. Harrison was toastmistress, introducing Mrs. Gertrude Case as first speaker. Her topic was "National Public Schools." Mrs. Angeline Courtney spoke on "World Breeding," stating that at the present rate of increase, Tokio would be the largest city in the world in about ten years.

Mrs. C. W. Hollister, a former member of the Forum, spoke on "Shopping in the Orient," displaying numerous souvenirs from China and Japan. Mrs. Arthur Bauer discussed "My Trip to Yosemite."

Mrs. John Clarkson gave a brief review of "New Deal" by President Roosevelt, after which she offered criticisms of the afternoon's talks.

Guests were Mesdames C. W. Hollister, Oliver Wickersheim, Estelle Winter and Carrie Doig, Orange, and Mrs. J. A. Greenberg, Chicago.

The Forum's last meeting of the season will be held Tuesday, June 26, at Clarkson's cafe. Dinner will be followed by a program.

White Shrine

Preceded by a covered dish dinner, the latest meeting of Damascus White Shrine in the Masonic temple gave special prominence to a memorial service. Mrs. Marie Patterson and W. B. Lewis, worthy high priestess and watchman of shepherds, conducted the meeting.

Escort honors were accorded a group of past worthy high priestesses, Miss Henrietta Bohling, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, Mrs. Della Maude Ryan and Mrs. Helen Aubin, and past watchmen of shepherds, W. O. Patterson and Henry Meyer.

On the dinner committee were Mrs. Emma Henry, chairman, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whittet and Mesdames Eva McConnell, Eva Wyckoff, Lillian Earel and Elpha Gritton.

The next meeting, Friday, June 22 at 8 p. m., is to be marked by a ceremonial and a birthday party.

Announcement was made that White Shrine circle will entertain with a benefit party Tuesday, June 26, at 2 p. m., on the grounds of the home of Mrs. W. S. McConnell, 1218 Orange avenue. There will be 25 prize awards, and refreshments will be served.

Student Recital

Presenting a number of his pupils in a piano recital of recent date in his home studio, 617 North Ross street, Harry Garstang welcomed an appreciative audience of parents and friends of the young people.

The program of piano selections was given variety by the introduction of readings by Constance Duffy, expression pupil of Dorothy Hall Pitman, and songs by Elbert Steward and Luella Bronson. Miss Duffy read "Beautiful Doll" and an Italian dialect number, "Guiseppe." Elbert Steward's songs were "Shipmates of Mine" and "Love's Sorrow," while Miss Bronson sang "Gypsy Trail" and "Duna."

The piano program included "Hungarian Dance" and "Flower Song" played by Anna May Beeche; "Midnight Fire Alarm March" by Max Nohe; "Minuet" and "The Secret" by Gloria Clouse; "Home and Harbor Waltz" by Constance Duffy; "Ben Hur Chariot March" and "Ice Palace" by Jerome Duffy; "Betrothal March" and "Comrades in Arms" by Constance Brown; "Polonaise in A" and "Fair Elise" by Luella Bronson; "Acognonaise" by Elbert Steward, and "The Butterfly" by Dorothy Eddy.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

A MASTER CRIMINAL AND HIS ACCOMPLICES

It would not appear possible, were we not confronted with the plain facts, that a man in the heart of the United States, and in plane or prairie country, thickly dotted with villages and cities, after breaking out of a jail and murdering officers and civilians, could elude capture for so many weeks as has the bandit Dillinger.

There is a sort of irony in the news coming from Washington that Attorney General Cummings believes that Dillinger is alive. So uncertain is the head of the federal government's department of justice, as to the real facts concerning Dillinger, that he is not even certain whether he is alive and well, or dead and buried.

There have been many discussions of this condition, and many reasons advanced for such possibilities. But those European nations which have relatively so little law violation, compared with our own country, must consider that our interior is still as wild and as uninhabited as the center of Australia.

They probably picture a vast and mountainous region infested with bandits, in which such culprits as Dillinger can find refuge. But the truth is that nature is not affording Dillinger protection. Human beings are his support, his strength and his defense.

Every day men and women are culpable, who are hiding and feeding him. And the fact that his whereabouts are concealed and that officers are fleeing hither and thither, allegedly trying to find him, does not speak well for organized society.

Under one excuse and another, many of our so-called "best" people excuse and defend law violation. The so-called "best" ones defend it when large groups take the law into their own hands in sections like Imperial Valley, of which General Glassford complains.

The ripe fruit, however, of all this is an exhibition of handclapping in a theater when Dillinger's wolfish countenance is thrown on the screen.

It is fast reaching the point where a man might with profit issue a publication in respect to laws, as they have issued them in respect to individuals. They have "Who's Who in America." We might issue a book: "What Laws are Laws in California?" or whatever particular state in which we may happen to be.

Of course we would have to get out new editions year after year as different administrations selected different laws as the object of their solicitude.

Intelligence will finally have to concur in adopting certainly one of two premises, either that we must be ruled by rules or laws, or ruled by the caprice of men.

It has been conceived that as men have developed through education and have enlarged their vision, the rules of conduct should be agreed upon by representatives selected from the citizens, and that those rules of conduct would be obeyed by all those who were good citizens, and the bad ones would be forced to obey them.

But special interests of various kinds have made exceptions, or attempted to make exceptions, and they have succeeded so well that they have broken down general respect for all law. The liquor sellers are cases in point.

But all of us are members of some organizations which are endeavoring to change the laws constantly to meet the demands of those who want to do something against the interest of society. And then if they cannot get them changed, they can at least get them out from under their penalties, such as our automobile associations will help us in doing, or at least represent us as a part of their work for the yearly fee.

When we have reached the point that we will all act upon the idea that the laws are made for US and not for THEM, and that WE will obey them and not evade them, we can breed respect for law in society, and such episodes as the meteoric career of Dillinger will be impossible.

AFTER TWO THOUSAND CIVILIZING YEARS

One cannot read the news of a prize fight, such as took place last night at the Madison Square Garden bowl, and feel that it ought to be classed with "sports."

A "sport" which permits, as a public spectacle, the battering of a man's face into rawness and smashing him until he is practically unrecognizable, partakes of the character of the brutality of the Roman forum, when gladiators beat each other into insensibility and death with their iron-bound fists.

We had thought, as we read of these episodes in our college days, that the Roman populace must have been not very far removed from savagery, that they would enjoy such a cruel and gory spectacle.

But here in 1934, 60,000 people, in the center of the metropolis of the greatest democracy that ever existed, pay nearly half a million dollars to see a contest no less bloody and brutal, and shout themselves into positive hysteria through their approval of the fight which lasted less than 45 minutes.

They call this "boxing!" We cannot believe that those who are closely allied and financially interested in this kind of an affair are deceived in its character for a moment, and as they meet together behind closed doors, with the public outside, we cannot help imagining that they must laugh with each other over the methods by which they get public approval of such programs through legislation.

We have heard the defense of boxing, and we have been told by those who are experts, that the scientifically trained boxer is able to touch his opponent ever so lightly and that his skill is evidenced by the ease and certainty with which he does it.

It would be a wonderful exhibition of every element of agility, keenness, and even strength in defense, to watch a boxing match, if the rules governing the contest provided that it was the number of times in a given period that an opponent was able to place a blow, and at the same time showed sufficient skill not to strike to create an injury.

When they are defending the boxing, it is declared that the man who simply goes in and "takes it," and uses brutal strength in the contest, is not a boxer at all. Well, you can read it for yourself.

CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT CHURCHES UNITE ON FILMS

The Methodist bishop in Chicago, as he has just returned from conferences with his subordinates throughout his area, gives an interview in regard to the decency program of the Catholic church. He commends it.

He urges the printing of the pledge of decency, as published by the Catholic church, in the bulletins of the Methodist church, and to include not only the feature films, but certain other films as well. The bishop quotes from the minutes of the sixth ecumenical Methodist conference, held three years ago in Georgia, to show that the Methodist church has been in harmony with the attitude which the Catholic church has taken.

The truth is that practically all churches have been in harmony. We know that thousands of leaders have expressed themselves along the same lines.

But there is this difference. When the Catholic church speaks, it speaks with a power of authority to which a larger portion of its membership responds than is likely of any other body of church members.

It is the recognition of this fact that gives encouragement to other church bodies to believe that something can be done by a complete and united protest. Certain it is that when the Catholic church spoke, the leaders of the film concerns "sat up and took notice."

It is a fine thing to have something on which all the religious bodies can pretty well agree. It does not speak well for a great enterprise, like the moving picture interests, to have so conducted their business as to encounter such a universal criticism and protest.

And yet in the midst of it all, the great masses of the public are to blame. They have not exercised the virtue of discrimination, or if they have in places, in too many instances they have shown that the salacious film is financially profitable by their attendance.

We are sorry that individuals, through refusal of attendance on salacious shows, have not corrected this evil, which now seems to be uniting the religious leadership.

Making Books Live

Christian Science Monitor

For many years librarians, publishers and authors have labored long and in vain trying to find out why leather-bound books should disintegrate so rapidly. The problem has baffled the entire book world for ages.

Various reasons have been put forward in an attempt to explain the matter. Some have said it was due to insects. Others have suggested that dampness may have caused the trouble, while certain literary critics have cynically stated that poetic justice alone was responsible. It now appears that all these conjectures were wrong.

In England, recently, chemical experts, carrying out some interesting experiments, have solved the mystery. They selected two books—one from the royal library at Buckingham Palace, and one from the library at Windsor Castle. The Buckingham Palace selection was a volume of Disraeli's letters, while the book taken from Windsor was an edition of Lord Salisbury's letters.

The investigators found that the one with the leather cover which had rested on the shelves of the city library was in a state of powdery decrepitude, while one that had enjoyed the benefits of a pure, rural existence at Windsor had remained in a vigorous and unwrinkled state of preservation.

This seemed very mystifying at first, although a literary critic expressed the opinion that Disraeli's letters would naturally pulverize a book cover more rapidly than anything Lord Salisbury ever wrote. This view, however, was discharged by the chemical experts as entirely irrelevant.

After much laboratory work, Faraday Innes, a descendant of the famous Michael Faraday and himself a noted chemist, was able to prove that the poor condition of the city-dwelling book cover was due to the sulphuric acid it had absorbed from the smoke-laden London atmosphere which the Windsor volume had not been subjected to. Mr. Innes also stated that there were certain chemical ingredients which could be used when dyeing leather that would resist the destructive atmosphere of any city, thus guaranteeing the life of a leather cover indefinitely.

This means that from now on every book published can be made to last for centuries. A valuable contribution indeed to the world of letters. No more disintegration! No more pulverization! It is a staggering thought. But in reality Mr. Innes's solution only touches the fringe of the problem. What we now need is for him to apply his genius to the discovery of some method by which the contents of a book may be guaranteed to live as long as its cover.

Days That Are Gone

San Francisco Chronicle

News that the end has come for Maggie Cline in New York turns back the clock of memory to the times when yesterdays were todays. Then John L. Sullivan was bestowing the handshakes that have been passed on like an apostolic succession. Chauncey Olcott and Andrew Mack were gallery gods. Lillian Russell was a toasted beauty without peer.

In those days Maggie Cline truly was the "Irish queen." Her entrance to a lobster palace brought guests to a standing cheer. Waiters in Shanley's, each brought over from the old country for the job, fought for the honor of serving her. Those days are gone forever when "contented we were although poor" and Maggie Cline has been one of the links with them. There may be new and more sophisticated public idols but none will arouse more enthusiasm than Maggie's "T'row him down, McCloskey."

Who Said They Wouldn't Bloom?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE MODERN TREND

On learning that an art expert is now selling colored mops for kitchens.

We've harmonized the kitchen,
Its tones no longer clash,
The brightest hues
We always use
For coloring the hash.
The dish-mops are artistic,
The stove-hook is a dream,
And by and by
We mean to try
To tint the milk and cream.

The butter shade is violet,
The cheese is beige and pink,
There's just a hint
Of lemon tint
Upon the kitchen sink.
The water taps are purple,
The pans a tender taupe,
And soon we mean
To dye pale green
The ugly kitchen soap.

Although we've barely started
We find that tint-appeal,
Has added zest
And interest
To every single meal.
We now are painting flowers
Upon the kitchen mat,
And some fine day
With colors gay
We'll beautify the cat.

But brains won't make you rich if you stick to a job that isn't worth much to the world.

The difference between a mere man and a he-man is that a mere man needn't be coarse and ill-bred to prove he is one.

But if a man says the sexes are equal, he doesn't try to prove it by acting like a woman.

Economic reforms may help, but they leave the same corns on the hands of the same people.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Mr. Riley the hooken ladder wagon driver was sitting outside the firehouse smoking his corn cob pipe in his blue shert and sispenders, and me and Shorty Judge stopped going passed and started to tawk to him and ask him questions, me saying, Did you have any faithful old fire horses in the days when you use to drive horses, Mr. Riley?

They couldn't come no faithfuller than old Leon, Mr. Riley said. Old Leon knew the location of every alarm box in town, and when the signals came in he'd cast his big faithful brown eyes at the indicator and then as like as not he'd start galloping off in the rite direction before we even had time to hitch him up to the hooken ladder. Yes sir, the hooken ladder was late to many a fire on account of the necessity of having to go to the alarm box and bring Leon back ferst. He was faithfulness itself, but he got old, like horses do, Mr. Riley said.

What did you haff to do, discharge him? Shorty Judge said, and Mr. Riley said, We couldn't, it would of broke his hart, but we couldn't run him no distance, we had to use him on closer and closer fires, till the day came when we was afraid to hitch him up to even go around the block for feer he'd drop in his traces. I'll never forget that day when we went away to a fire without him and left old Leon standing in his stall with the big tears running down his nose, Mr. Riley said.

And did he cry every time you left him after that? I said, and Mr. Riley said, No, we fixed up a little plan. We'd lite a little bonfire outside the stables every time we was called away to a real fire, and old Leon would stick his faithful head out of his stall window and look at it and be comforted till we got back, he said. And he took out his red handkerchief and wiped his eyes, saying, The rest is too sad, I hope you boys will excuse me from telling it.

Wich we did.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Drake were home from a trip to Ventura and Santa Barbara. In the latter city they attended the State Fire Insurance Agents' convention where other Santa Anans present included Mrs. Ben E. Turner, S. J. Cornell, Mac O. Robbins, J. A. McGadden, Parke S. Roper and A. S. Ralph of the insurance department of Orange County Automobile club.

An advance party of Y. M. C. A. workers led by R. R. Miller, left for the summer Y. M. C. A. camp at Catalina to get matters in readiness to receive some 75 youths of the county for the camping season to begin June 21.

Close of the bean cleaning season at Smeltzer warehouse, which had been in operation over seven months, showed that a total of 65,000 sacks of beans, averaging between 80 and 90 carloads, had been put through the cleaning process. Estimating the crop at 10½ cents a pound, the prevailing market price, the beans represented the approximate value of $600,000.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

WE SHOULD HAVE KNOWN

It was Turgot, I think, who defined great leadership as a product of the combination of the hindsight of the historian and the foresight of the statesman.

If we had only had the hindsight of the historian when the war ended!

We would have known that the war debts that have since plagued us would prove uncollectable.

We would have known that the nature and volume of world trade would be radically changed so that we could not depend, as fully as we had depended in the past, on the rest of the world's taking up our surplus agricultural and industrial surplus.

We would have known that we were squarely faced by the necessity of radical internal shifts in policy as a result of this reduced demand for our farm and factory output, and that we should promptly choose between a policy of exclusive economic nationalism and a readjusted international program.

But we did not. We shut our eyes. Thought we could beat reality. By a flood of shortsighted lending jacked up for the time being an impossible economic situation.

But, even now, if we only had the foresight of the statesman:

We would not think we can correct fundamental economic maladjustments by currency legerdemain, that we can so raise farm prices or ease the debt burden.

We would not think we can substitute financial wet-nursing for fundamental banking reform.

We would not think we can go on indefinitely pumping billions of public money into the channels of trade without effectively restarting the total economic machine.

I am not even suggesting that the national leadership thinks any of these things. I am suggesting that millions of uncritical Americans are thinking them. And that is dangerous.

Our Children By Angelo Patri

A FENCE

Mrs. Dollie Daffodil studied the seed catalogue last August and dwelt long on the page that displayed the gorgeous tulips. How lovely they would look along the little path to the sidewalk. Four dollars a hundred. Well, by going without that hat, buying a ninety-eight-cent one, she could buy those tulips. What was a hat to a border of beauties like those? So she wrote a note and went down to the post office, made out a money order and waited.

One day the postman handed her a bulky package. She had been waiting for it since that August day. She had begun to fear that the frost might seal the earth she had so carefully prepared before the bulbs could arrive. Here they were safe and sound, and the ground so cool and crumbly. She got the spade and the pail and the trowel and set the beloved things firmly in their beds. "Now. When it gets good and cold you shall have some straw over you. Until then, sleep well."

All winter she watched that border. When the wind blew the litter from the bed she went out and gathered it up and replaced it. She shooed away all the stray cats and dogs that seemed to scent her treasure from afar and long to uproot it. She rejoiced when it rained. "It will help the tulips." She was glad when it snowed. "This will be good for the tulips." Time and weather and hope and happiness all in one little tulip border.

Spring came lagging along. The brown earth cracked, blunt green and bronze noses poked out of leaves and straw. "They're up. I'll clean the beds and feed them a little. How many weeks before they come? Maybe three, if it's warm. Three weeks and they'll be here. How can I wait that long?"

The shorten the time she went out to visit them every morning. That one with the twisted leaf, maybe it wasn't going to do well. That fat reddish one. Surely he was going to be a beauty. Crimson, maybe. Lovely, the sight of their greenness. Wonderful the promise of beauty to come.

One lovely, lovely morning they opened in full dress. Mrs. Dollie Daffodil couldn't speak for joy. There are no words to tell a gardener's joy in his blooming garden. Only the light in his eye, the soft edges on his tongue, the gentleness of his hands, convey his delight.

Next door there lived a three year old child. Marjorie May. "It's a pretty morning, Marjorie May. I'll put on your coat and your hat, and you can take your little shovel and go out and play." Marjorie wandered across the freshening grass. She spied the gorgeous rainbow of color. She swooped and pounced. By the time she was through and calling to Mother to come and see what she'd got, the wreck was complete.

"O, Marjorie May, what have you done?" What indeed. Poor Mrs. Dollie Daffodil lay on her bed and wept. "Never mind, Honey. Maybe when we have a little girl she will wander into somebody's garden—she didn't know. I'm so sorry. I guess we'll have to put up some kind of a fence."

A garden always needs some kind of a fence. Cows, dogs, cats, chickens, little children, are attracted to growing things. A hedge, a fence helps a lot. And children must be taught to look at pretty things and leave them. That helps a lot too.
